BREASTED FINDS MAN AT DAWN OF A NEW CREATION

Talks on Depression on Eve of Trip.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"What we of this generation need more than anything else is confidence in man."

Prof. James H. Breasted, head of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, world famous as a student of the dawn of civilization, thus summed up his thought about today's problems as he prepared yesterday for a journey to the desert of Persia and the Nile valley to resume his life work after four years absence. He is leaving today.

"I am not at all discouraged about such things as the world war and this depression," said the white haired scholar as he sat in a deep leather chair at the institute, where Assyrians, Babylonians, and Egyptians parade in marble splendor, in cryptic writings, or lie in grave clothes woven thousands of years ago. The day was gray outside but within the mellow walls there was light and understanding of many things.

"Man, a Wonderful Creation."

"This thing called man is the most wonderful creation in the universe," he continued. "We must look at him with long vision and remember that his history goes back into unrecorded time. But historically he is wonderful. Nothing has been able to keep him down. He stands now at the beginning of a new exploration, that which is more important than anything in his entire history.

"Emerson glimpsed it with the prophet's vision when he said that man was only at the cock crow and the morning star stage. The country that he is just crossing into is the kingdom of the mind and the spirit. I am convinced that this is the meaning of this change called the depression. There are values here undreamed of. He is aware but what he needs is the technique to take hold of that awareness, something beyond a vague idealism."

First Great Depression.

Dr. Breasted spoke of the cycles by which man emerges and then told of the first great cycle, or depression, in history. It occurred in the twenty-third century before Christ. Here for the first time man turned from outward and physical achievements to the inner values. An unknown Pharaoh of Heracleopolis addressed this instruction to his son:

"More acceptable is the virtue of the upright man than the ox of him that doeth iniquity."

From here on, down to 1,000 B. C., Dr. Breasted traces the ascending consciousness in the following inscriptions found on tombstones and ancient walls:

"Righteousness is for eternity. It descendeth with him that doeth it into the grave . . . his name is not effaced on earth, but he is remembered because of right."—From an Egyptian Peasant of Heracleopolis, 23d century B. C.

"A man's virtue is his monument, but forgotten is the man of evil repute."—From an Egyptian tombstone about 22d century B. C.

"The people of his time shall rejoice, the son of man shall make his name forever and ever. . . . Righteousness shall return to its place, unrighteousness shall be cast out."—Neferrohu, Prophet of Egypt, 2000 B. C.

"O Amon, thou sweet Well for him that thirsteth in the desert; it is closed to him who speaks, but it is open to him who is silent. When he who is silent comes, le he finds the Well."—An Egyptian Wise Man of about 1000 B. C.

First Thoughts on World.

"These are the first thoughts on the world, God, and human conduct that we know," continued Dr. Breasted. In the twenty-seventh century B. C. the Grand Vizier Ptahhotep of Memphis said: 'Established is the man whose standard is righteousness, who walketh according to its way.'

"These were thinkers who lived long before the Hebrews, long before Moses, and before the first of the Hindu philosophers. About 3,000 years ago that which I call the Memphite Drama was written on black stone by an Etheopian king who copied it from papyrus that had been eaten by worms. Here is found at the close the first conception of social morality in human history. It says that 'the God decrees death to him who doeth what is hated, and life to him who doeth things that are loved.' That is right and wrong, the oldest moral utterance.

"And there is another astonishing sentence that sounds nonsense at first.

AUDIT REPORT HITS WASTE BY FORMER BOARD

Rising Deficit of Last 4 Years Shown.

Criticism of the management of the west park system under the administration of W. R. James as president was contained in an audit received yesterday by the new park president, Harry Joseph. This audit showed the condition of the park's finances up to and including July 31, 1932. The report, which is dated Oct. 3, 1932, and signed by George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce and head of an auditing company, had been suppressed until yesterday.

Audit Kept Secret.

The report is the one prepared for the citizens' committee, members of which said it was "too hot to give out," adding that it showed the park system to be hopelessly insolvent and that the matter was one for grand jury attention.

Enclosures showed that Daniel Roberts, attorney for the park board under previous administrations, tried to defend the James administration's actions. A reply from Mr. Rossetter said:

"It is evident that the present board [the James board] has not reduced expenses and it is our opinion that it has not taken constructive steps toward the improvement of the parks' financial condition."

Costs Rise Year by Year.

The Rossetter report shows the mounting operating expenses of the park system during the last four fiscal years ending Feb. 28 or 29, as follows:

Year—	Operating and maintenance expense.
1929	$2,497,277
1930	2,874,346
1931	2,824,112
1932	3,200,622

The audit showed the corporate fund deficit on July 31, 1932, to be $3,183,528. Tax anticipation warrants in the hands of the public on that date were set at $2,579,400. Bond defaults, with interest, were given as $1,207,380.

The report contained 70 pages of comment and 50 pages of exhibits. President Joseph said that because of the limited time he had had to study it he was unable to tell just how bad the condition of the park system was, but he estimated that it was "10 million dollars in the red."

Cites Violations of Law.

The report calls attention to several violations of law. It states that taxes have been levied twice on the public for the same purpose and then spent for something else.

"It appears that in the preparation of the tax levies for corporate purposes the commissioners have given little if any consideration to the operating requirements of the park," the Rossetter report stated. "Since we have found no indication of the preparation of a budget to support the various levies it seems to have been the aim of the commissioners to levy the maximum amounts thought to be obtainable."

Duplications in bond and interest tax levies were shown in the following amounts:

1927	$333,000
1928	363,000
1931	179,682
1932	1,875

"Collections from these excess tax levies were used for corporate purposes," the report stated. "As a result of this practice bonds and interest coupons were permitted to go into default, although sufficient amounts of taxes were collected to meet all maturities thereof."

Deficit of $3,785,182.

In setting forth the rise in the expenses of the park system during the last four years the report says:

"During these four years the operating expenses increased each year and an operating deficit of $3,785,182 resulted; hence it is obvious that the commissioners have not made any serious attempt to keep expenses within the available income. The deficits are as follows: 1929, $625,513; 1930, $990,099; 1931, $829,184; 1932, $1,340,385.

"We also show here and after that the pay rolls alone have exceeded a total estimated corporate income for the three years ended Feb. 29, 1932, by nearly $1,500,000.

"The west park commissioners have practically ignored the civil service laws governing employment. At July 31, 1932, there were 1,539 employés on the pay roll. Of that number 882 were temporary appointees.

"The corporate fund is indebted to other funds of the park to the extent of $2,138,396.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the statute authorizing issuance of tax anticipation warrants provides in part,

THE WITHERED HANDS OF BUREAUCRACY—ALWAYS REACHING OUT

A HOME IN GARY IS TAXED TO THE VANISHING POINT

Gary city officials announced yesterday that they were looking for a house which George Ellguth, formerly of 4086 Fillmore street, Gary, had removed bodily and transported elsewhere, apparently to evade payment of taxes. They also charged he had moved the cement foundation, leaving only an excavation.

Ellguth was found at 8734 Commercial avenue, Chicago, last night. He denied that he had moved or transported his former home.

"I dismantled it," he corrected.

Then he told his story. It was one of oppressive taxes. Ellguth built the house, a four room cottage, at the Fillmore street address in 1924. He paid $200 for the site, and the cottage cost $2,000. When the mills closed, he lost his job, and rented the place. But the tenants paid no rent. The taxes continued.

"My street improvement tax amounted to $200," said Ellguth. "My lot and property tax for 1931 and 1932 totaled $275, making a grand total of $475. I just tore down the house, removed the foundation and sold the materials for $500. Did I pay the $475 taxes? No, I didn't, but Gary can have the lot. That's still there."

G.O.P. Woman Employe Sues to Hold Job

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Brown Huff, for ten years a Republican employé at the Illinois capitol, tonight obtained a temporary injunction to prevent her dismissal by the new Democratic administration. She is one of about 600 state officials and employés who have been discharged this month.

Circuit Judge L. E. Stone of Sangamon county in his order upheld Mrs. Huff's contention that civil service rules were violated by her discharge from the state insurance department.

Named Acting Director.

The injunction, to be returned at the March term of court, was directed at Leo Lowe of Kewanee, Republican director of trade and commerce, who resigned today, and Ernest Palmer, Democratic insurance superintendent, who at the same time was named acting director.

George Gillespie, Mrs. Huff's attorney, said other dismissed employés were planning to seek similar injunctions tomorrow.

Mrs. Huff contended that orders for her discharge, effective tomorrow, did not follow civil service regulations in that she was not given five days' time to prepare a defense before the civil service commission.

Under the law, she alleged, only the director can dismiss employés, while Palmer was a subordinate when he gave her formal notice by letter.

Leo Lowe Quits State Job.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The fourth of the Emmerson department heads to leave the state service is Leo Lowe of Kewanee, director of trade and commerce. He asked today to be relieved from further duty.

"Director Lowe's resignation has been in since inauguration day," the governor said, "but he asked to be relieved today as the close of the month. Temporarily Ernest Palmer, superintendent of insurance, will act as director."

A wholesale cleaning out of the offices of the Illinois commerce commission by Chairman B. F. Lindheimer was announced earlier in the day. Two of those who departed by request were men who attained notoriety under the Small régime. One was Will Colvin, an assistant commissioner, whose resignation from the board of pardons and paroles was forced by a Will county grand jury. The other was Secretary Julius Johnson, who was accused as far back as 1921 of trying to buy votes of legislators with promises of favors from the commission.

Chairman Lindheimer dismissed a total of 57 employés of the commission and put into force a cut in salaries for those continued in service ranging from 25 per cent for the higher paid to 10 per cent for those lower down on the salary scale.

POLICE CATCH BANDITS WHILE VICTIM WAITS

Attorney Charles Kordowski, 2624 Logan boulevard, was robbed of $4.75 and two fountain pens yesterday by three bandits who halted him in front of 2526 North Talman avenue. A pedestrian saw the robbery and telephoned the Shakespeare avenue police.

Policemen William H. Geisler and John Quill, notified by a radio message, arrived several minutes later. They searched the neighborhood and arrested Sigmund Keld, 21 years old, 2031 Carver street; Chester Price, 24 years old, 2039 North Lincoln street, and Walter Gorski, 17 years old, 1814 Hervey street.

On the way back to the station the policemen were notified by another radio message that a complainant in a robbery case was waiting at 2624 Logan boulevard. They went there and Attorney Kordowski described the robbers.

"Sure," Policeman Geisler told him, "we have the bandits in the squad car."

Kordowski identified the trio and they were locked up on charges of robbery.

BEGGAR STRIKES A DENTIST WHO REFUSES ALMS

Dr. Harper J. Hibbe, 456 Surf street a loop dentist, caused the arrest last night of a beggar who, he charged, had struck him on being refused alms. The prisoner, Richard Yates, 21 years old, who came to Chicago a week ago, was charged with disorderly conduct.

"I was walking in Garland court, back of the public library, when Yates accosted me," said Dr. Hibbe. "He asked me for a dime. I was walking rapidly at the moment, and I refused. Yates called me a cheap skate, adding a vile name, and I stopped in resentment. He then struck me. We scuffled for a moment and he ran away. A policeman caught him."

Yates will be arraigned in the South State street court this morning. Dr. Hibbe said he would appear there to prosecute, to test the right of a beggar to use force against any one refusing him alms.

Richard Spends 85 Cents to Satisfy His Curiosity

Curiosity cost Richard Eickenberg, 4905 Wrightwood avenue, the sum of 85 cents last night, but he found out how robbers operate. As he left his home he encountered two bandits holding up Edward Bonk, 2638 North Lamon avenue, a city employé. "This is a holdup, buddy; keep away," warned one of the men as Eickenberg approached. His curiosity undiminished, Eickenberg moved closer. "All right, then, stick your hands up, too," ordered the robber. That was how Eickenberg lost his 85 cents. Bonk lost $2.

Complete Tax Books; Bills Go Out Next Week

The board of tax appeals yesterday finished its revision of the 1931 assessed valuations on personal property in Cook county, and before the end of the day the last of the personalty tax books had been sent by Assessor Jacobs to County Clerk Sweitzer.

Today Mr. Sweitzer's deputies and those of County Treasurer McDonough will start a race against time to compute tax rates and get the bills to the taxpayers before March 1, the penalty date on the first installment of 1931 real estate taxes. If they adhere to their schedule as outlined country town taxpayers will get their first bills some time next week and the last bill in Chicago will have been sent out by Feb. 20.

Two Years Are Compared.

The assessor's office completed the 1931 assessed valuations on real estate several months ago, but completion of the personalty rolls was necessary in order to arrive at the total of taxable property in the county for the purpose of fixing tax rates. The revised 1931 assessed valuation totals for the various classes of property, compared with the 1930 totals, are as follows:

	1931.	1930.
Personal property [by county assessor]	$ 914,821,404	$ 789,842,262
Capital stock [by state tax commission]	61,742,510	70,813,980
Total personal property	976,563,914	840,656,242
Railroads	194,972,793	216,741,015
Real estate	2,574,271,087	3,439,088,569
Totals	$3,745,807,794	$4,516,485,826

The total 1931 assessed valuations on real estate in the county were reduced 26 per cent from the board of review valuations for 1930, and they will be further reduced to some extent, it is expected, when the board of tax appeals begins hearings on 1931 real estate assessment complaints. Under the old tax laws these complaints were heard and real estate assessments were revised before the tax bills were sent out. Under the new system, in force for the first time this year, complaints are heard after the first half of the tax bill is paid, and any reductions granted are reflected in reduced payments of the second installment of real estate taxes, due this year on July 1.

Part of Tax Load Shifted.

Already, however, the 1931 assessment has shifted a considerable portion of the tax load from real estate to personal property. Real estate was charged with 76.7 per cent of the 1930 taxes, and personal property with only 18.5 per cent. As the result of the reduction of real estate assessed valuations and the increase in personal property assessed valuations, personal property will be billed for 26.1 per cent of the 1931 tax load, and real estate for 68.7 per cent.

The remainder of the tax burden falls upon the real estate and personal property of railroads, which carried 4.8 per cent of the 1930 tax load, and will carry 5.2 per cent of that for 1931.

The 26 per cent cut in assessed valuation of real estate does not mean, as many taxpayers have assumed, that their real estate tax bills will be reduced by that amount below 1930 figures. Tax levies failed to drop by the same percentage with the result that it was necessary to raise tax rates in the county.

See 5 Per Cent Cut in Total Bill.

The Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency has estimated that the total 1931 tax bill within the city of Chicago will be only 5 per cent below the total for 1930. Upon that basis the total tax charges against real estate will drop about 13 per cent, while personal property will be billed for 2.6 per cent more taxes than under the 1930 levy.

Assessor Jacobs "guessed" yester-

RULE OF HITLER IS OPENED WITH RIOTS; 4 SLAIN

Many Wounded at Fascist Fetes.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—Between 13,000,000 and 14,000,000 National Socialists [Fascists] continued their enthusiastic demonstrations today as their leader, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, plunged into the task of ruling the country.

The demonstrations grew to riotous proportions in many cities when inhabitants of communist and workingmen's districts showed their resentment to Hitler's régime. The laboring districts were sullen and agitated, ready to fight at the drop of the hat.

It was evident that Hitler's ascendancy had sharply divided the nation.

Four Slain, Many Wounded.

Four persons were killed and many wounded in political clashes during the day. One communist was slain in Breslau and two Nazis were stabbed in a street fight during a communist demonstration against the Fascist government. A young communist was killed in a riot at Velbert. Afterward enraged communists fired on the Nazi headquarters. In Berlin a policeman and a Nazi were killed, twelve persons were injured, and fifty arrested.

Other disorders against the new cabinet occurred in Hamburg, Duesseldorf, Halle, Schweinfurt, Offenbach, and Hirschberg. A score of major and minor casualties were reported.

With the Nazis demanding the suppression of the communist party in all their demonstrations today, 500 uniformed Nazi students paraded to the stock exchange in Berlin today and staged a demonstration. The youths hurled anti-Semitic epithets and threatened to beat up the "Jewish profiteers."

Predicts Exodus of Jews.

Voelkischer Beobachter, the National Socialist newspaper, predicted an exodus of the Jews from Germany now that Hitler is in control.

"During the last six months many Jews have obtained passports, but to others who refused to believe that Germany would awaken the present events have come prematurely and inconveniently," the paper said. The passport offices did only a normal business Saturday, but on Monday many Jews appeared "to obtain papers as quickly as possible for 'vacation trips' abroad," the paper declared.

William Frick, Nazi minister of the interior, when asked whether he would move to extradite some of the departing Jews, said, "If these people leave, that is something which we can only desire. I won't take any special measure."

Hitler Woos Centrists.

Meanwhile Hitler began his struggle to retain the chancellorship and to pave the way for constitutional rule. He entered negotiations with the Catholic Centrists to enlist their support in the reichstag. Without the toleration of the 70 Centrist members in the reichstag Hitler cannot survive.

At today's cabinet meeting he submitted demands of "concrete guarantees of the inviolability of the constitution and the social rights of citizens" as formulated by Dr. Ludwig Kaas, Centrist leader.

The question of Centrist support will not be settled until the cabinet has reached a formal agreement on this problem. Dr. Kaas today expressed the fear that Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader; former Chancellor Franz von Papen and Franz Seldte, chieftain of the Steel Helmet association of war veterans—all monarchists—would use their influence in the cabinet to induce Hitler to adopt their reactionary "authoritarian course."

Thorny Problem for Cabinet.

The guarantees demanded by the Centrists threw the cabinet into the midst of its thorniest problem—the necessity of reconciling Hitler's Fascist policy with the program sponsored by Dr. Hugenberg for the autocratic rule of the industrial barons and aristocratic landowners.

The national council of the German states met today under the chairmanship of the newly appointed minister of the interior, William Frick, a Nazi. He emphasized the cabinet's desire for loyal cooperation with all German states. Herr Brecht, a republican representative of the Prussian rump government, replied with equal friendliness, promising the full cooperation of his department as long as the new régime respected the constitution.

The national council's mission is to iron out differences between the German states and the federal government. Bavaria is usually the stormy petrel at these meetings, but since Frick is a native of Bavaria he is confident he will be able to direct the council with ease.

Soothe Fears of Creditors.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Reported apprehension among Germany's foreign creditors that Monday's cabinet change, which brought Dr. Alfred Hugenberg to the fore as the new minister of economics and agriculture, will complicate financial negotiations have been soothed by official assurances that there is no cause for alarm.

Dr. Hugenberg, it was recalled, in December said that if Germany's creditors expected repayment they must accept a reduced interest on 4,250,000,000 frozen marks [about $1,062,500,000].

Financial circles believe the retention of Count Lutz Von Schwerin-Krosick as minister of finance will have a favorable effect on debts negotiations, particularly since he is known to be a firm believer in a stable policy. Financial leaders have been quoted as hoping for another year's extension of payments in view of Germany's promptness in meeting interest payments and for more favorable interest terms.

BALTIC STATES STIRRED

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 31.—Germany's persistent attacks against the Versailles treaty, coupled with Chancellor Hitler's ambition to restore the free city of Danzig and Memel to Germany are being carefully followed by the Baltic states, which are against revision of the treaty.

Latvian statesmen said today that their country would support Lithuania should Germany demand the return of the Memel district, while members of the Polish foreign office declared that Poland will go to war before she will surrender one foot of the corridor to Germany.

Efforts of the National Socialists to extend their movement to the Memel district have failed, and the Lithuanian government has arrested and expelled Nazi agitators. However, the Nazis have organized a powerful movement at Tilsit on the Memel frontier. Attempts to smuggle propaganda into Memel have been made.

Nazis Strong in Danzig.

The situation in Danzig is different, Hitler having dispatched one of his best Nazi organizers there, and the Danzig organization is considered very strong. Its avowed purpose is to liquidate the corridor.

In past years rumors have circulated throughout the Baltic states that a secret understanding exists between Poland and Lithuania concerning simultaneous action in the occupation of both Danzig and Vilna should Hitler become the German chancellor. The rumor is as yet unverified and the situation both in Memel and Danzig is quiet. Both Lithuanians and Poles strongly deny the possibility of such an action.

Hitler's success has aroused anxiety in Moscow, according to diplomatic reports. The communist party is holding a meeting to decide what instructions to send the German communists, whose long resolution pledging its loyalty to Dictator Josef Stalin and its willingness to obey Moscow's decisions has been published in both Pravda and Izvestia newspapers.

The German communist party's resolution also mentions that one of its chief planks calls for the instigation of strikes, and if possible general strikes, in order to train the German Reds for "the coming battles in the German revolution."

CAR THIEVES ROB GAS STATION.

Four young gunmen stole an automobile from John Jasper, 2532 North Richmond street, at Sacramento and Milwaukee avenues early yesterday. The robbers drove the stolen car to the Normandy-Grand filling station, 6653 Fullerton avenue, and took $10 from August Johnson, the attendant.

FEAR ROOSEVELT WILL BE TRAPPED IN DEBT PARLEY

Lewis, Reed Warn Him of One Man Negotiations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Two senators, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, in the senate today warned President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt to watch his step in his handling of the war debts and economic negotiations with Great Britain. Both cautioned Mr. Roosevelt against committing this country to a debt agreement which would sacrifice American interests.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] warned Mr. Roosevelt against acting as his own ambassador in the conduct of the war debt negotiations with Great Britain, now set tentatively for March 5. Lewis declared that President Wilson had rejected the advice of senate leaders by going personally to Paris to negotiate the peace treaty following the world war, only to be "outwitted" by the tricks and frauds of European diplomacy.

Reed Greatly Disturbed.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] said he had been gravely disturbed by the reports of the negotiations between the President elect and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador.

He said he feared Mr. Roosevelt would make the same mistake as had Wilson and attempt to do all the negotiating himself. Reed also criticized Mr. Roosevelt for proposing to allow defaulting nations to negotiate new agreements, adding such a step would merely mean the exchange of one promise which is no good for another that is no better.

Replying to Reed, Senator Lewis said he could not believe that President Elect Roosevelt had gone over the head of President Hoover and congress to negotiate on the debts with Sir Ronald. He asserted that it was his opinion that Europe was attempting to maneuver this country into a position where it could repudiate its eleven billions of debts.

Must Be Approved by Senate.

"I cannot believe," Senator Lewis said, "that President Elect Roosevelt would tolerate the British ambassador going to him to deal directly when he knows that if he reaches a judgment it must be approved by the senate.

"I will say to the senator from Pennsylvania that if the President elect were so to fall from his plane of high character, his sense of obligation, his knowledge of statecraft, and his allegiance to the American people as to deal directly over the heads of the President and congress, then I say that would be a folly he will regret."

Senator Lewis began the colloquy with Senator Reed by warning that a plot was afoot on the part of the debtor nations to win a moratorium which would give them time to recover economically and which would, through the withholding of debt payments, cripple the United States. He predicted the debtors would first seek cancellation, then, if defeated, revision. They, he added, would then demand a moratorium and offer spurious concessions with the result this country would collect no more debts.

"I am somewhat surprised at the news of the Roosevelt-Lindsay conference," Senator Lewis said. "I was educated to believe that an ambassador who has a message to deliver touching affairs of state should deliver it to the secretary of state. I am unwilling to assume the British ambassador has gone over the heads of the President and the congress. I believe President Elect Roosevelt has too much training in statesmanship to violate these precedents."

"When President Wilson chose to go to Paris in person he thereby lost half his authority and half his bargaining power," interrupted Senator Reed. "If Mr. Roosevelt should reach an agreement concerning the debts and congress should disagree, the moral obligation behind the debts would be gravely weakened."

"I was delegated to warn President Wilson against the peril of going to Paris," replied Senator Lewis. "He felt, however, that his very presence would suggest he was speaking for the American people. As a result, President Wilson was outdone and outwitted by the tricks and frauds of European diplomacy. It broke the character and strength of America in the eyes of the world and the heart of President Wilson."

Moral Obligation to Pay.

"The only sanction behind these debt obligations," continued Mr. Reed, "is the moral obligation to pay. We hold no collateral. We shall never resort to war to collect them. For President Elect Roosevelt to make an agreement which Europe would consider the official promise of the United States and for congress to disapprove that agreement would destroy that moral obligation."

Senator Lewis pointed out that President Hoover's personal conferences with Ramsay MacDonald and Premier Laval had proved rather disastrous for the United States.

Today's developments on the war debts front included arrival of unconditional acceptances by Italy and Czechoslovakia of the Roosevelt invitations to discuss war debts and economic problems this spring. The two governments are understood to have expressed their thanks for the opportunity to start their cases. Italy, according to reports, advised the state department that she saw no reason for balking at including economic problems in the war debt discussion

EX-FOREIGN MINISTER FEARS FOR GERMANY'S FUTURE WITH HITLER

Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, foreign minister of Germany in 1917 and 1918, who will speak at a dinner of the Carl Schurz memorial foundation tonight, predicted that Adolf Hitler's path as chancellor will be beset by many difficulties, in an interview at the Drake hotel last night. In turn, Hitler's difficulties threaten to keep Germany's industry instable, he said.

"When I left Germany three weeks ago business was in much better shape and the people in much better spirit than for many years past," Dr. von Kuehlmann said. "There were decisive evidences of recovery in the coal, iron, steel, textile, and chemical industries, and confidence was gaining in governmental, industrial, and banking circles. Now all this may be upset by political unrest.

"As a man whose training has been received only in making speeches, Hitler can be expected to encounter great difficulties in taking up the intensely complicated work of building the German republic. The whole thing might very easily come tumbling down. So far there is no evidence whatever that the German people desire a return to the monarchy."

BRITAIN GLOOMY; RECEIVES ENVOY'S REPORT ON DEBTS

Says Roosevelt Insists on Advantages for U. S.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Although Sir Ronald Lindsay's full report on his recent conversation with President Elect Roosevelt has not been received here, enough has been cabled by the British ambassador to sadden British diplomats, who were obsessed with the idea that they would be able to get better terms from Mr. Roosevelt than from President Hoover.

Preliminary reports on the informal negotiations with Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers convince the British that if they are to get even a scaling down of the war debts, to say nothing of cancellation, they will have to give something substantial in return.

Fight Return to Gold.

With this in view all public men are now devoting themselves to proving—to their own satisfaction, at least—that there is nothing they can give. Britain, they insist, cannot go back to the gold standard. That, they declare, is obvious because the United States has all the gold.

Britain, it is contended, cannot give tariff preferences to American goods in British markets because of the empire trade agreements reached at Ottawa last summer. These agreements are to run five years.

Ceding of territory is not done in the best British circles—and that is that.

At the same time intensive propaganda is being put out by politicians, bankers, and others to prove that Britain is much better off than the rest of the world, including the United States. The speech made by Reginald McKenna, chairman of the Midland bank, at that institution's annual meeting a few days ago was typical of this.

Intended for Home Consumption.

These speeches are intended for home, not for American consumption, but it is impossible to prevent them from being cabled across the Atlantic, and now the politicians and bankers are faced with the difficulty of reconciling the two pictures—one of a bankrupt Britain which cannot pay and the other of a prosperous Britain.

A keen American observer said today that there really seems something in the talk of a British trade revival, although it is based entirely on the export advantage due to depreciated currency.

Italy Accepts Invitation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 31.—The Italian government announced today that it has accepted the invitation of the United States to a war debts conference after the inauguration of President Elect Roosevelt on March 4. The government's announcement made no mention of trade or other concessions to the United States in return for a reduction in the Italian debt, nor did it reveal who would conduct the discussions for Italy.

DAY IN WASHINGTON

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] warned against possible new drive for war debts moratorium and Reed [Rep., Pa.] criticized personal negotiations.

House labor committee approved Connery bill for 30-hour work week.

Chairman Atlee Pomerene of Reconstruction corporation board criticized before senate committee banks failing to lend money on railroad securities.

Millers and macaroni manufacturers opposed before senate agriculture committee domestic allotment farm relief bill.

Senate agreed to 15-minute debate limit in hope of passing necessary appropriation bills.

Representative Boylan [Dem., N. Y.] charged in house President Hoover employed "phantom budget" in stating appropriations committee boosted his recommendations $163,000,000.

FRENCH CABINET COMPLETE; FACES STORMY FUTURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 31.—While Premier Edouard Daladier was completing his new French cabinet today the chamber of deputies voted provisional credits to enable the government to carry on for the month of February pending the adoption of a formal budget.

Daladier, who announced at 1 a. m. today that he had succeeded in filling the more important posts of the new government, completed his task during the day and presented the list of new ministers to President Albert Lebrun.

Political observers were skeptical of the ability of the new ministry to remain in power long. The government, except for a few minor changes, is practically the same as the cabinet of Joseph Paul-Boncour, which was overthrown last week.

The powerful Socialist party, which was directly responsible for the overthrow of Paul-Boncour, refused to participate in the Daladier government, and it is difficult to see how Daladier can weather the storm when he attempts to put his financial program, which is practically the same as that of Paul-Boncour, through the chamber of deputies. The Socialists refuse to consider increases in taxation or reduction in the salaries of civil servants.

Premier Daladier will present his new government to the chamber Friday. It is not expected that he will be overthrown at that time, since the Socialists will probably wait until the new premier presents his program.

JANUARY SETS 53 YEAR RECORD FOR MILDNESS

2d Warmest in History of Weather Bureau.

The month just passed was the warmest January in Chicago since 1880 and the second warmest on the records of the Chicago meteorological office.

The average mean temperature for the month was approximately 37 degrees. The normal is 23.7 degrees. Only one day, Jan. 12, was recorded as below normal. The minimum temperature on that date was 16 above zero. The high mark of the month was 57 on Jan. 19.

For three successive years January has been abnormally mild. That of 1932 had an average mean of 33.6, making it the third warmest since 1871, and 1931 a mean of 32, thereby being put into fourth place.

Expects Mild February.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel held out hope that February might also be milder than usual. Only in one instance in the last 62 years, he said, has a mild January been followed by a cold February.

Today's forecast is for rain, probably turning to snow, and temperatures somewhat lower than those of yesterday, when a maximum of 43 degrees was reached at 3 p. m.

Snowfall last month was exceedingly light, only nine-tenths of an inch being recorded. The normal snowfall for the month is 9.3 inches. However, the rainfall was 2.15 inches, or a quarter of an inch above normal. Three-fourths of this occurred on the 19th, when there was a severe thunderstorm.

"No Permanent Change."

Any hopes or fears that the climate in the United States is changing permanently and that palm trees may grow in a thousand years or so along Lake Michigan's shores are held by scientists to be without foundation despite the procession of mild winters recently.

Prof. E. S. Bastin, chairman of the department of geology at the University of Chicago, said that while it was true that the earth in times past had had a different climate, with tropical plants growing in England and in Labrador, the causes were not known in detail.

"The old theory that the earth was once a molten ball is discarded," he added. "We believe that the interior heat of the earth is about constant and therefore has no effect on climate. Climatic factors of importance are radiation from the sun and shifts in atmospheric circulation. The mild weather we are having is due to the atmospheric conditions and does not furnish a basis for hypotheses extending over thousands of years."

PROMISES ADDED MILE OF OUTER DRIVE BY JULY 1

Assurance that an additional mile of the Lincoln park outer drive, from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue, will be completed by July 1 was given yesterday to James Simpson, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, by A. D. Plamondon, new president of the Lincoln park board.

Widening of Foster avenue by ten feet between the drive and Sheridan road will also be completed when the new stretch of the outer drive is opened for traffic, Mr. Plamondon said.

"I have been informed by the contractors in charge of this work that nothing now foreseen will prevent their finishing at the end of June and it is our expectation that with the opening of the new stretch of drive the park administration will have well under way the work of beautifying the vast new park area," Mr. Plamondon said. "Lack of money will, of course, prevent us from completing much of the proposed improvements. I can definitely assure the residents of the Clarendon avenue district, however, that the new beach will be available next summer. It is our plan to build a temporary bathhouse."

LEITER HEIRESS SEEKS CONTROL OF HER ESTATE

Gets Third of Her Mother's Fortune.

Miss Audry Nancy Campbell, 19 years old, debutante and granddaughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago capitalist, yesterday filed a bill in the Superior court seeking the control of her estate, which now is held by her brother, Colin L. Campbell, a resident of California. Miss Campbell also asked for a court order declaring her to be of legal age, and placing her residence in Illinois.

Attorneys explained that the action is friendly, Campbell having already agreed to his sister's demands, with the provision that he be relieved of responsibility by court sanction. Miss Campbell's estate consists of a one-third share in the $2,000,000 fortune left by her mother, Mrs. Nancy Lathrop Carver Campbell, daughter of Levi Leiter, and the income from one-twelfth of her grandfather's estate.

Mrs. Campbell died on June 22, 1930 in California. Her will is still in the process of being probated in Goleta, Cal. Under the laws of that state, the lawyers explained, a woman becomes of legal age when she is 21.

Miss Campbell came to Chicago a few months after her mother's death, the bill explained, and she has been living with her aunt, Mrs. Juliette Leiter, widow of Joseph Leiter, sportsman and capitalist, at 44 Bank street.

Under Illinois laws, the attorneys explained, Miss Campbell already is of legal age and would immediately gain direct control of her estate and the trust income. The attorneys explained that the principal of the trust from Levi Leiter's estate would revert to Miss Campbell upon the death of her aunt, Lady Hyde.

The hearing on the bill has been set for 4 o'clock this afternoon before Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

JANUARY AUTO TOLL SHOWS BIG DROP OVER 1932

John Hersh, 46 years old, 3252 Diversey avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by a taxicab as he alighted from a street car at Harrison and State streets. He died an hour later at St. Luke's hospital. The driver, Frank Soverino was not held. This death increased the 1933 automobile toll for Cook county to 75 for the first month of the year. In January, 1932, the auto death toll was 131 and in the same month in 1931 the total was 113.

HIGH HAT NIGHT CLUB RAIDED; 15 HELD; SEIZE RUM

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The Mayfair Yacht club, exclusive night club, with a nautically decorated porch on the East river for yatchsmen and a 50th street entrance for those who travel by land, was raided by federal agents tonight.

Two agents, clad in evening cloths, who had worn toppers and sticks to gain entrance to the resort, announced, after finishing their meals and drinks which they asserted were brandy, that "the ship is sunk." Twenty-five couples, also clad in evening dress, were permitted to take to boats or motors without being molested.

Joined by five other agents, the pair searched the place and found, they reported, 250 bottles of assorted liquors. Fifteen employes were arrested on charges of violating the Volstead act. Five members of the club's string orchestra and several women employes were spared arrest.

DENMARK BARS STRIKES; AVERTS GREAT LOCKOUT

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Lockouts and strikes will be illegal for 12 months as the result of a bill passed by both houses of parliament today. Following passage of the bill the Employers' association called off a lockout scheduled to begin tomorrow, which would have involved 100,000 iron workers and others. The dispute was over wage reductions.

The decision reached was a compromise by the government with the Liberal opposition concerning the terms of a reduction and stabilizing of the Danish currency at 670 kroner to $100, and the canceling of 20,000,000 kroner [$3,038,000] in taxes on landed property.

The government, on the other hand, obtained support of the opposition for a new state loan for social reforms and public works made necessary by increasing unemployment. The compromise was unpleasant, Premier Stauning said, but it offered a guarantee that no Danish man, woman, or child can suffer from hunger this winter.

Married Women Barred from University Jobs

Columbia, Mo., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Marriage after next July 1 of any women employed by the University of Missouri will cost them their jobs, President Walter Williams announced today that "any woman employed in the university, marrying after July 1, will automatically forfeit her position at the university."

4 GUNMEN RAID COUNTY OFFICE; LOOT IS $8,000

35 Held Up in Gary Auto Bureau.

Four gunmen invaded the Indiana auto license bureau in the basement of the branch county building in Gary last night, menaced thirty-one applicants and several employes, and stole approximately $8,000. The building is situated at 4th avenue and Broadway. It houses the sheriff's branch office and two courts. The county seat is at Crown Point.

Wait in Line for Plates.

When the four robbers entered, the thirty-one applicants, several women among them, were standing in a line, with their money in hand, waiting to purchase auto plates. Behind the counter were William J. O'Donnell, in charge of the distribution, and three clerks, Miss Ruby McCormick, Miss Mildred Leach, and Frank Przinski.

"Stand as you are," ordered the bandit leader, as he waved his revolver threatingly at the people.

Customers Are Robbed.

His companions then went behind the counter, and emptied the cash drawer of the receipts for Monday and yesterday. This amounted to between $7,000 and $8,000. Then the three passed down the line of standing applicants, and plucked the bills, which were to buy plates, from their hands. This amounted to about $200. The gunmen then departed, locking the basement door behind them. O'Donnell said that he carried liability insurance up to $2,000.

The robbery, it was revealed, will deprive the American Legion in Gary of a percentage of the license sales. Under an agreement with an Indiana state official O'Donnell was authorized to sell license plates in Gary. He was to receive approximately 25 cents on each plate. Expenses, including his salary, were deducted from this fee, but the profits were to go to the Legion.

$10,000 Truckload of Silk Stolen in New York Street

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Robbers stole a truck containing $10,000 worth of silk in West 36th street today, kidnaped the driver and his helper, and turned them loose only after the silk had been taken from the truck, which was then abandoned.

MRS. KILBOURNE WINS A DIVORCE WITH RAID STORY

It was a jolly party in Suite Ten Hundred-something of the Drake hotel which Mrs. Florence Butler Kilbourne of Oak Park described yesterday to Judge Craig A. Hood in the Circuit court.

At least Mrs. Kilbourne, her attorney, Robert Cantwell Jr., and two detectives, all of whom attended the party in the rôles of gate crashers, had a merry time. For Don B. Kilbourne, Mrs. Kilbourne's husband, and Mrs. Neva Edwards, an old friend of Mrs. Kilbourne, the occasion was attended by some embarrassment. According to Mrs. Kilbourne, this was due partly to the fact that Kilbourne answered the door clad only in a pair of shorts, while Mrs. Edwards had slipped on her dress without bothering to don her lingerie.

Mrs. Kilbourne's story.

Mrs. Kilbourne told the story on the witness stand, and upon her testimony and that of the detectives Judge Hood said he would grant her a divorce on charges of adultery. A decree, fixing the amount of her alimony, is to be presented to the judge on Saturday by Attorney Cantwell and Carl W. Mulfinger, representing Kilbourne.

Mrs. Kilbourne, who lives at 414 Linden avenue, Oak Park, and is the daughter of J. Fred Butler, head of the paper company bearing his name, testified that she is 40 years old and was married to Kilbourne on July 5, 1915. A question by Attorney Cantwell launched her upon her recital of the doings at the Drake.

"We separated in August last year," Mrs. Kilbourne had testified, "when I came home from a dude ranch in Montana and discovered that Mr. Kilbourne was no longer living with me. He had taken his things and left."

The Evening of Nov. 19.

"Do you remember anything particular about Nov. 19, 1932?" asked Attorney Cantwell.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Kilbourne, smiling. "Mr. Cantwell telephoned me at my home that evening and an hour later came around in his car and drove me to the Drake. We got there about midnight and went to the tenth floor to the room of a Mr. Davis, a detective whom I had retained to watch my husband. Then we three and another detective went to Mr. Kilbourne's suite on that same floor.

"Mr. Davis knocked on the door and said he was a telegraph boy with a message for Mr. Kilbourne. After a few moments Mr. Kilbourne opened the door. We pushed in. He had only his shorts on."

The picture which she had recalled seemed to amuse Mrs. Kilbourne. She laughed heartily.

She Finds Mrs. Edwards.

"I immediately walked into the bedroom," continued Mrs. Kilbourne, smiling, "and saw a woman on the bed. She had on some sort of a black dress. Her lingerie lay on a chair beside the bed. I thought I recognized the woman as Mrs. Neva Edwards, who was for many years a very close friend of mine. I walked over and tapped her on the shoulder and said, 'Neva, is this you?'

"My husband meanwhile was running around shouting, 'Hey! Wait a minute until we get our clothes on!' With that Mrs. Edwards turned over and I saw for sure who she was.

"I told her, 'Neva, get up! Get up!' Then she sat up. I sat down on the bed beside her for a moment to chat. I said to her, 'Neva, where is your good judgment—on a vacation?'

"Neva said, 'Florence, what are you going to do?' I told her there were several things I could do. I said, 'You can take Don, as you seem anxious to do, but you'll have to have a good head and a pocket full of money to handle him.'

John Davis, 1626 North Albany avenue, the detective who was mentioned by Mrs. Kilbourne, testified that he took an apartment in the Drake which was so situated that Kilbourne had to pass the door to reach his own suite. Davis lived there for several months, he testified, and frequently saw Kilbourne and Mrs. Edwards walking together in the hotel.

Kilbourne, who is a produce commission merchant, stood in the rear of the courtroom while his wife was on the witness stand. Mrs. Edwards, whose address was given at a previous hearing as 1503 East Oak street, Evanston, was not present.

DEMOCRATS DO LITTLE ON THEIR ECONOMY PLANK

No Evidence of Promised Billion of Saving.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The Democratic new dealers are all at sea on the program of reducing the cost of the federal government.

Although pledged by their national platform to a 25 per cent cut in expenditures, which would amount to upward of 1 billion dollars, they have made no effort to redeem the promise in this session of congress. Their excuse is that so drastic a reduction requires legislation which cannot be procured until the overwhelming Democratic next congress meets.

Present Claims Disputed.

As a result, only cheese paring of current appropriation bills is being attempted with even that modicum of economy in dispute. Whereas Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, asserts that the appropriations are being scaled 100 millions below budget estimates, President Hoover charges that in the bills so far considered the expenditures exceed the budget by 163 millions.

Although it was assumed that the 25 per cent cut pledged by the Democrats meant a billion dollar slash in the cost of the central government, some of the new dealers are saying that the platform promise applied only to expenditures exclusive of service on the debt. That would mean a cut of about 700 millions. In one of his campaign speeches, Mr. Roosevelt appeared to take that view.

Baruch Sticks to Billion.

On the other hand, the author of the 25 per cent campaign pledge, Bernard M. Baruch, who is not unlikely to be a member of the Roosevelt cabinet, has stoutly maintained for months that the platform commitment is for a cut of more than 1 billion. He has furnished Mr. Roosevelt with an estimate of possible economies aggregating nearly 1 billion 200 millions.

According to Mr. Baruch, the following savings can be made in the annual cost of the government without impairment of its appropriate functions:

Veterans' bureau	$ 460,000,000
War and navy departments	175,000,000
Farm board	136,000,000
Commerce department	30,000,000
Department of agriculture	100,000,000
Postoffice department	150,000,000
Revision of pay schedules, relinquishment of improper functions, restriction of federal aids and subsidies, regrouping and redistribution of functions and merger, abolition of regrouping of independent agencies.	200,000,000
Total	$1,191,000,000

To balance the budget it is necessary to increase taxes or reduce expenses or do both, says Mr. Baruch. But the limit of taxing power, he thinks, has been reached, for in addition to the prior charge of taxes there is, so far as the debtor class is concerned, the prior charge of a colossal private debt.

Bare Existence Left.

"The combination of these charges on individual income [even allowing for the offsetting nature of some items]," said Mr. Baruch, "leaves little margin over the cost of bare existence."

Unable to float long term bond issues except at interest rates that would ruin banks, insurance companies, and other holders of present issues of government bonds, the government faces the end of borrowing and has moved in the direction of inflation.

"Unable to reduce spending, unable to increase revenue, and finding it impracticable to borrow in the normal sense," said Mr. Baruch, "we have devised a novel and somewhat obscure fiscal policy. The method is for the treasury to issue its short term obligations for such spending as is not covered by revenue.

"These are sold in the open market, but about as fast as they are emitted an almost equal amount of government obligations—mostly short term—are purchased by the federal reserve and paid for by increasing the volume of federal reserve notes or writing up bank credit.

Impairs National Credit.

"It is a process of dilution. To finance the various emergency palliatives and our inevitable new deficits, we must find four billions of dollars and no sounder method than this has yet appeared. The tendency is to impair the national credit and to make the future of money uncertain.

"We are face to face with the pivotal fact of this depression. People who still have money are afraid to spend or invest it. Thus domestic trade remains stagnant. There is less employment because there is less trade. There is less trade because the future of money is in doubt. The future of money is in doubt because of a staggering gap between government income and outgo and because our fiscal policy is obscure.

"It is not money that is scarce; it is confidence in money. If the stability of money and credit were established beyond peradventure in the eyes of the world, timid money would rush from hiding seeking investment.

"There would be more sound money asking to work than all the inflated money we purpose to create. It is the key to recovery, and it depends upon the simple expedient of balancing the budget in the only way left for us—by reducing spending by about one billion dollars."

A LAME DUCK SINGS HER SWAN SONG IN MIAMBIC TRIAMETER

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Ruth Bryan Owen, laughing at her own political lameness, wrapped up the woes of the next congress, for which she was defeated, into a neat bundle of satiric verse, entitled "Last Will and Testament of a Lame Duck," and read it today at the luncheon the National Woman's Press club gave in honor of the women in congress.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN.
[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

When the defeated Democrat from Miami, Fla., had finished reading her swan song Representative Florence Kahn, a victorious Republican from California, grabbed for the paper and shouted:

"Give that to me; I'm going to read it into the record this afternoon."

On the other side of Mrs. Owen, Senator Hattie Caraway also reached for the paper, saying, "Now let me have it! I want to read it in the senate."

Mrs. Owen protested: "I don't think it would be dignified."

"Ridiculous," argued Mrs. Kahn; "every masculine lame duck in congress will be sorry he wasn't clever enough to think of writing it first."

So the following poem went into the record, on both sides of the capitol:

To members in the coming session,
We leave what's left of the depression.
With 50,000 tomes appended,
Telling just how it can be ended.

To congressmen who'll draw our salary,
We leave all gunmen in the gallery,
All communists who march and fight
And threaten us with dynamite.

Those stalwart ones may have the onus
Of laying hands upon the bonus.
The currency—to them we hand it
To shrink, contract it, or expand it.

We'll let them exercise their talents
On making that thar budget balance,
And, pointing out with no delaying,
A tax the public won't mind paying.

To make this simple as can be
We leave them to technocracy.
To them we're leaving the analysis
Of beer producing no paralysis.

To them we leave, with stifled sobs,
All persons who are seeking jobs.
Our pangs of exile 'twill assuage
To know we have no patronage.

To you, dear ladies of the press,
We leave unfeigned thankfulness.
All you have done to give us pleasure
Are memories we will always treasure.

While we roam that vast expanse
Where lame ducks seek their sustenance
When happy days are here again
Please let us know just where and when.

PUBLIC UTILITY GIFTS LEAD IN WELFARE DRIVE

The largest contributors to the Emergency Welfare fund's drive to finance private charities have been the utility companies and their employes, the headquarters of the fund announced yesterday. Thus far in the campaign for $7,500,000 these organizations have contributed a total of $523,870, or about 87 per cent of their quota. Ranking second are the banking institutions, having pledged $367,000, or about 64 per cent of their allotment.

The ten groups which are leading in total subscriptions follow, with their percentage of quotas:

Public utilities	$523,870	87%
Banks	367,000	64%
Machinery	343,847	65%
Packing	208,013	79%
Steel	225,722	53%
Groceries	202,279	78%
Publishing	201,266	89%
Rail supplies	181,564	90%
Attorneys	151,217	100%
Transportation	141,214	40%

An effort is being made by the welfare fund to solicit all contributors last year who have not yet given to this year's fund.

DECLARES R. F. C. MUST CONTINUE TO AID RAILROADS

Pomerene Says Banks Keep Money in Storage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Lacking help from the banks, the government through the Reconstruction Finance corporation must continue to finance the country's railroads, former Senator Atlee Pomerene, corporation chairman, declared today.

Then he added to this declaration, made before a senate subcommittee, the charge that the banks were not doing their share.

"They get the country's money," he said, "and then treat it as if it were in cold storage."

Faces Chief Rail Policy Critic.

The R. F. C. chairman faced across the committee table Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], chief congressional critic of governmental railroad policies and author of the resolution which is the basis of the hearing. If passed, the resolution would suspend until further act of congress all finance corporation loans to the carriers.

Chairman Pomerene had one answer to suggestions that this loan or that type of loan should not have been made. It was necessary in order to save roads from receiverships.

"And the reason for such loans goes still further," he reminded the committee. "Many railroad bonds, trust certificates, and other securities are held by banks, insurance companies, and other financial institutions. Thus the loans helped these institutions."

Dozens of Roads Lose Money.

But the question raised by Senator Couzens was as to whether some of these roads could be saved by any amount of loans.

"Dozens of railroads," the senator explained, "would be losing money even though they had no fixed charges." He pointed out that between 125 and 130 out of 162 carriers were operating at a loss.

Out of $337,435,093 authorized, the corporation has advanced $290,855,553 to railroads, of which $11,881,000 has been repaid, Mr. Pomerene testified. The purposes of the loans, he said, were as follows:

To pay taxes, $19,622,000; to pay past due vouchers, $20,172,000; to pay interest, $73,960,000; to meet equipment trust certificate maturities, $21,221,000; to retire funded debt, $81,609,000; to pay loans to banks, $37,793,000; to pay other loans, $16,171,000; to finance new construction and improve equipment, $51,795,000; miscellaneous purposes, $5,381,000.

Senator Couzens was critical of loans made to repay banks and to repay "other loans."

"It is my view," he said, "that the corporation has fallen down badly in loans to pay banks without examining the bank records to show the necessity for the payments."

Mr. Pomerene again pointed out the danger of receivership and said such loans constituted only 11 per cent of the total.

"But I'm disposed to agree," he said, "that the banks have not done their full duty."

Close After Receiving Help.

Bank loans also were discussed, and it was brought out on request of Senator John J. Blaine, Wisconsin radical, that 590 banks receiving $89,362,278 in loans subsequently had closed their doors. Such loans outstanding now total $66,857,899, it was shown. Total loans to banks stand at $939,649,271 to some 5,200 institutions.

Northern Ireland Railway Strikers Interrupt Service

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Sporadic violence and interference with train operation marked the first day of the railway strike over wage cuts in Northern Ireland. Five thousand men walked out last midnight. When the train from Greenore, the mail port in County Louth, reached Dundalk a party of men boarded the engine, poured water on the fire and removed the engineer and fireman.

COOK COUNTY GETS R.F.C. LOAN OF $5,482,000

State Nears Limit of Federal Help.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Illinois today received another six million dollar loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to provide relief for its idle during the month of February. Of the total advanced, $5,482,000 is to be devoted to relief purposes in Cook county alone, while $518,250 will be expended in 28 downstate counties.

Today's was the seventh relief loan granted to Illinois by the federal credit agency, and it brought the total thus far borrowed by the state to $38,483,478.

Borrowing Near Limit.

Since the emergency relief and construction act limits to $45,000,000 the amount of relief money which may be advanced to any one state, Illinois may obtain only $6,516,522 more from the government agency.

Directors of the corporation warned that the state is nearing the limit of federal help in meeting its relief problem. They approved the loan today, they said, "with the understanding that the state of Illinois will give most earnest consideration to further plans for meeting relief needs," and they pointed to the fact that under the law only a comparatively small amount remains available to the state.

Loan for New York.

In addition to the Illinois advance, the corporation today granted New York's first request for federal aid in meeting the relief problem in that state.

A loan of six million dollars was approved to supplement local resources in 42 of the 115 welfare districts of the state.

At the same time a new loan of $412,700 to Ohio was approved by the corporation, bringing to more than 10½ millions the aggregate amount advanced to that state; while Montana received $29,970 to supplement a total of $1,120,976 previously advanced.

ASK CONVERSION OF HIRSCH JUNIOR INTO HIGH SCHOOL

Two hundred residents of the south shore district, all parents of children just graduated from three elementary schools, met last night at 7510 Yates avenue and adopted resolutions requesting that the Hirsch Junior High school be converted into a four year high school for their children.

It was pointed out that of 192 pupils graduated at mid-year by Mann, Bradwell, and Bryn Mawr elementary schools, only a part can be accommodated in the Bowen and Hyde Park High schools, which are already overcrowded. The claim was advanced that there is no place for the new high school students.

A committee appointed at the meeting last night will present the appeal to the board of education Friday.

ASK FOR VACANT FARMS FOR USE OF CITY'S IDLE

Warner G. Baird, chairman of the garden committee of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday appealed to fifty large banks and insurance companies for the use of unoccupied farms under their management or in their possession to be cultivated by the idle.

"It occurred to us that you might have some unoccupied farms within a 100 mile radius of Chicago that might be available for use this coming summer for the unemployed," Mr. Baird's letter read. "Last year the garden committee had a number of plots of land which were successfully farmed by some of these men and a number of them have expressed the desire to get located on a farm.

"They would be unable to pay any rental on the farms for the coming summer, but we believe they would make good tenants and would get the farm in shape. Our committee will be glad to give necessary supervision. If you have any such farms we would appreciate hearing from you."

The proposed cultivation of entire farms marks a branching out of the subsistence program of the garden committee, Mr. Baird said, almost to the extent of a back to the farm movement.

"This appeal is not restricted to banks and insurance companies," he declared. "We are desirous of receiving any property held by real estate companies or individuals to be cultivated by the idle under our direction. Such offers will be received at the offices of the commission, at 10 South La Salle street.

"It's a positive joy"—says Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair —"to see how much longer clothes last.. dipped only in these pure mild suds."

SWIMMING across Lake Geneva... aqua-skiing over its white-capped surface in the wake of a high-powered speed-boat.... riding at a brisk canter along North Shore bridle paths—these exciting sports are all in a day's play for Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair.

All in a day's work is the exacting task of managing her country house... or during colder months, her lovely town apartment on the near North Side. Delicately tinted walls to keep spotless from Chicago smoke! Sheer gauze curtains, exquisite table linens, treasured bits of lace to preserve in all their enchanting beauty...

"When one sees the irreparable harm that can come to fine fabrics as a result of dipping them in the suds of cheapened soap flakes," declares Mrs. Blair, "one becomes very cautious. That's why I have always insisted on American Family Flakes—because I know from long experience that it is absolutely pure.

"Not only my sheerest chiffon stockings and dainty lingerie, but everything washable is dipped only in these pure, mild suds. And it's a positive joy to see how much longer clothes last—how soft and fluffy my woolens come out of their American Family tubbing.

"In the kitchen, too, American Family is used exclusively—because it is safest and fastest—leaves china and glassware sparkling clean, without any polishing at all."

If you are one of the millions of women who must make every penny count you cannot afford to risk your clothes and household linens to the biting suds of cheapened soap flakes. For these so-called bargain flakes are often laden with free lye and other harsh destructives. They can ruin clothes worth many dollars in a single washing. And often do!

Play safe instead, and insist on American Family. You'll find it doubly quick—because it was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. It makes double the suds... and it's the rich, creamy double-suds that makes the difference, keeps the hands always satin-smooth.

MRS. CHAUNCEY B. BLAIR—whose husband is a member of the insurance firm of Blair & Halland, Inc. The Blair name has long been identified with an old Chicago family of bankers and financiers. Mrs. Blair is winsome, bright and vivacious. She virtually "lives on a horse," and though she leads an active social life, she much prefers a ride with her husband through wooded country trails.. or an invigorating swim. She spends much of her time at her lovely summer home on Lake Geneva.

ROOSEVELT ASKS HULL TO CONFER WITH HIM TODAY

Tennesseean Is Reported Slated for Cabinet.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—In the midst of a close huddle on cabinet appointments, President Elect Roosevelt today sent for Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee, who will arrive here tomorrow.

CORDELL HULL.

Mr. Roosevelt broke the huddle, in which he participated with his principal lieutenants, James A. Farley, Edward J. Flynn, Frank C. Walker, and Louis M. Howe, long enough to receive newspaper men, and he announced that Senator Hull, Prof. Raymond Moley, his economic adviser, were on the calendar for tomorrow's discussion in the "Little White House" on Pine mountain.

Moley Reports Findings.

Senator Hull is believed to be the President elect's "ace in the hole" so far as the secretaryship of state is concerned, and it definitely is reported here that if another man is found for that post, the Tennesseean will get some other spot in the cabinet.

Prof. Moley's visit here is stated to be first for the purpose of informing Mr. Roosevelt of the developments in Washington, where Mr. Moley has been conferring with Secretary of State Stimson and other officials on the impending conference with an English delegation on the war debts issue.

It is also declared that Mr. Moley will join the huddle in the general discussion on cabinet appointments, which is due to continue here until Friday, when the President elect and his advisers start southward, Mr. Roosevelt to board a yacht and Farley, Walker, and Flynn to continue their vacation at Miami.

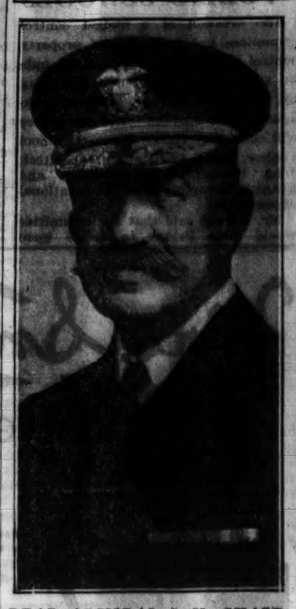

Lippmann Sees Roosevelt.

The President elect was visited today by Walter Lippmann, New York political commentator, who was invited by Mr. Roosevelt to discuss pending world issues with him.

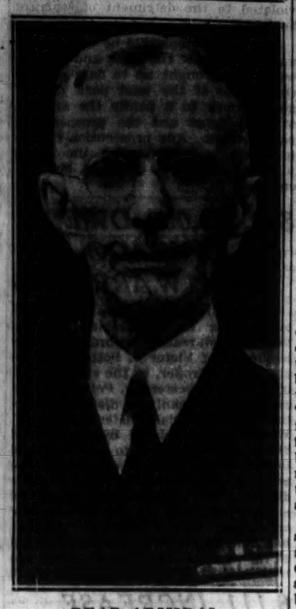

Mr. Roosevelt today revealed that he will invite the Vice President elect, John N. Garner, to join in all cabinet meetings. The President elect recalled that when he was campaigning for Vice President in 1920 with James M. Cox he proposed to the presidential candidate that he, Roosevelt, should participate in cabinet meetings in the event of their election, and Mr. Roosevelt declared this was the first time such a suggestion had been made. Mr. Cox announced to newspaper men at the time that he would adopt the suggestion, and later President Harding followed the idea by having Vice President Coolidge to cabinet meetings.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Howe left this afternoon for Atlanta, where Mrs. Roosevelt was scheduled to speak tonight, after which she will depart for Philadelphia to make another talk tomorrow. Henry Morgenthau, the President elect's agricultural adviser, also left Warm Springs to go to New York

Two Veteran Admirals Retired

Reach Age Limit

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Two of the navy's highest ranking officers, who joined the service the year before the first steam warship was launched, retired today because of age.

They are Rear Admiral Jehu V. Chase, a native of Pattersonville, La., and Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield of Jerusalem, N. Y.

Both were appointed to the Naval academy in 1886 and later served as commander in chief of the United States fleet with the rank of admiral, the highest naval post.

Chase recently has been chairman of the general board in Washington and Schofield has served as a member. Their retirement is mandatory, as under the law a naval officer must leave the service at the end of the month which he became 64 years old.

Chase reached this age on Jan. 10 and Schofield on Jan. 4.

The vacancies created on the general board are to be filled by Capt. Alfred Wilkinson Johnson, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation, and Frederick Joseph Horne, chief of staff of the 14th naval district with headquarters at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

NEW LAW TO LOCK UP MORONS WHO IMPERIL PUBLIC

Measure Is Drafted by Committee of Experts.

Completion of the draft of a new law aimed "to protect law abiding citizens from the mentally defective delinquent who is a constant menace to society" was announced yesterday by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic. The law provides for the permanent incarceration of dangerous defectives in a walled institution. It was drafted by a committee headed by Dr. Hoffman and composed of experts in mental diseases, sociologists, and legal authorities.

The committee was formed as a result of agitation over disclosures that several defectives, sent by the Juvenile court to the hospital for feeble-minded at Dixon, escaped and committed robbery, rape, and murder.

Notables on Committee.

The medical members of the committee beside Dr. Hoffman are Dr. Peter Bassoe of Rush Medical college, Dr. Ralph C. Hamill of Northwestern medical school, Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, state criminologist; Dr. Warren G. Murray of the Dixon State hospital, and Dr. E. H. Ochsner, representing the Chicago crime commission.

Other members of the committee are Andrew A. Bruce of Northwestern law school, Edwin H. Sutherland of the University of Chicago, Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court, Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court, Superior Judge John P. McGoorty, Public Defender Benjamin C. Bachrach, and Harry Barrett Chamberlain, director of the Chicago crime commission.

Graham to Introduce Bill.

The committee's bill for the safeguarding of the public from dangerous morons will be introduced in the state senate by Senator Richey V. Graham. It is in the form of an amendment to the statute which provides for the care of feeble-minded persons.

The law would confer broad powers on the state department of public welfare in keeping dangerous defectives locked up. Instead of being sentenced to any particular institution all such defectives would be sentenced to the custody of this state department, which has jurisdiction over all prisons, reformatories, and asylums.

An outstanding feature of the law is a provision that when any criminal serving a sentence in a prison or any feeble-minded person in a state hospital is found to be delinquent, defective and dangerous if permitted to be at large such persons may be confined in the institution for dangerous defectives.

Propose Use of Old Prison.

The committee is emphatic in recommending that such dangerous defectives be confined in a walled institution. As has previously been suggested, it is proposed that the women's prison at Joliet, which is soon to be abandoned, should be used for this purpose—temporarily, at least—to save the state the expense of building a new institution. At the Dixon State hospital the inmates are all housed in cottages and there is no effective way to prevent the escape of dangerous morons.

The committee's bill provides that prisoners who escape from the institution for delinquent defectives be returned at state's expense. The counties are now responsible for such return.

ROOSEVELT WAGERS 80 PCT. OF CABINET STORIES ARE WRONG

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 31.—(AP)—President Elect Roosevelt has made a friendly wager with one of his political associates that no cabinet officer will be named by him before he sails Saturday for a fishing cruise of ten days.

Talking with newspaper men today about stories of probable cabinet lineups, Mr. Roosevelt told of his bet and added:

"I will bet you that 80 per cent of your stories on the cabinet will be wrong."

"Have 80 per cent of the cabinet stories so far been wrong?" he was asked.

The President elect laughed and stood by his proposition for the future.

JUDGE DENIES PLEA TO SAVE IGGY VARECHA

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court yesterday reaffirmed his decision that James [Iggy] Varecha, 17 years old, confessed killer and rapist, must die in the electric chair on Feb. 17. The judge overruled the contention of Defense Attorney W. W. Smith that the Criminal court had no jurisdiction in the case of the youthful killer.

Varecha was sentenced to death on his plea of guilty to the murder of Frank F. Jordan in an attempted robbery on Nov. 16. At the time of the murder Varecha was a fugitive from the Dixon institution for the feeble minded, where he had been sent by Juvenile court authorities. Attorney Smith argued that Varecha had been adjudged feeble minded by the Juvenile court and had never been returned to the status of a legally responsible person. The Criminal court, Attorney Smith said, had no right to accept a plea of guilty from a feeble minded ward of the Juvenile court.

Attorney Smith, after his motion was denied, asked a stay of execution to take the matter to the Supreme court. Judge Prystalski announced that he would hear arguments on the request on Friday.

SWIMMING POOL FOR ROOSEVELT BRINGS PROTEST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Representative Schafer of Wisconsin, a "lame duck" Republican, objected on the floor today to an appropriation for a swimming tank in the White House for President Elect Roosevelt.

When the independent officers appropriation bill, including the customary $50,000 for repairs to the White House allotted each incoming President, came before the house Mr. Schafer asked Representative Woodrum of Virginia, in charge of the bill, about it.

"Does the gentleman object to a pool for the President of the United States recommended by his physicians as a means of maintaining his health?" asked Mr. Woodrum.

"There are lots of people in Washington who haven't a swimming pool," replied Mr. Schafer.

"Very well," said Mr. Woodrum, "the gentleman can move to strike it out when the bill comes up for amendment."

NEW LEGISLATOR IS REVEALED AS RUM DEFENDANT

John C. Kluczynski, who was elected a state representative from the 4th district last Nov. 8, has been on probation for violation of the prohibition law since Nov. 26, examination of records of the federal court revealed yesterday.

The arrest of Kluczynski, who lives at 1324 West 52d street, followed a raid on a saloon at 4756 South Western avenue in September, 1931. An examination of accounts seized in the raid led prohibition agents to the conclusion that Kluczynski owned the saloon. After gaining a number of continuances Kluczynski appeared before Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson after the Nov. 8 election and entered a plea of guilty.

Judge Johnson sentenced Kluczynski to six months in jail and fined him $500. The sentence was suspended and Kluczynski was granted probation. There was no evidence at the hearing to indicate that the defendant had been elected to the legislature.

Police records show that Joe Saitis was arrested in September, 1926, in a saloon operated by Kluczynski at 4756 South Hermitage avenue. The saloon was characterized as a Saitis "gang hangout" by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker at that time. Kluczynski was arrested in a later raid on the same saloon in which five guns were found by the police. Kluczynski was discharged when he was arraigned in the Municipal court.

BREASTED FINDS MAN AT DAWN OF A NEW CREATION

Savant Recalls World's First Depression.

It is 'Ptah is the heart and tongue of the gods.' Now Ptah was their conception of a supreme deity, and heart means mind and tongue means creative power. So we have a supreme mind creating by thought Read the first chapter of John's gospel."

Man's Unquenchable Spirit.

Dr. Breasted has just sent the manuscript of a new book called "The Dawn of Consciousness and the Age of Character" to his publishers. In his preface he elaborates on this theme of man's destiny and his unquenchable spirit.

"The most present need of America at the present critical juncture is not more mechanization but more character," he says. "Over 4,000 years ago the social prophets of Egypt were hurling the same truth regarding their own land at the technocrats who built the pyramids, the greatest feat of engineering ever achieved in the ancient world.

"The process of mechanization which America has carried farther than any other people will, of course, go on, and should go on, but not at the cost of character. The latest engineering vagary, a typical American fad called 'technocracy,' according to its vocal high priest, is a complete substitute for all the normal processes of human society, and as for any traditional sense of social reponsibility we have the pontifical deliverance that technocracy would even displace philanthropy.

History Being Displaced.

"A glance around us at our present social situation discloses that this is only one of many points at which human experience is being blithely thrown overboard. Even in the public schools human development, which is the subject matter of history, is being displaced by a vague miscellany called 'civics' and 'social studies.' The alleged educational authorities who are ruling history out of our schools are cumbered with little knowledge of human experience or the development of humanity.

"The most fundamentally important thing in the developing life of man has been the evolution of morality, the emergence of character, a transformation of human life which can be historically demonstrated to have begun but yesterday.

"Man began as an unmoral savage. How did a world totally without any moral vision rise to social realization and learn to listen with reverence to the voices within? It is now quite evident that the ripe social and moral development of mankind in the Nile valley, which is 3,000 years older than that of the Hebrews, contributed essentially to the formation of Hebrew literature which we call the Old Testament.

Vision of Character.

"The rise of man was the result of man's social experience, rather than 'revelation.' It is a fact of profoundest meaning for thinking people today. Out of prehistoric savagery, on the basis of his own experience, man arose to the vision of character. That achievment, which transformed advancing life, human and animal, on our globe was from a characterless universe, as far as it is known to us, to a world of inner values transcending matter, a world for the first time aware of such values, conscious of character, striving to attain it.

"With that achievement man had discovered the new country, but he had not yet explored it. The discovery is a recent event and explorations have consequently but just begun. They are an unfinished process which must be continued by us by every generation."

Starts on Journey Today.

Dr. Breasted starts today on a three months' tour of the near east. There are 12 expeditions of the institute in the field, and six have built new headquarters in Asia and Egypt since Dr. Breasted was last there. He will travel by train, ship and airplane and expects to arrive in Persepolis, the ancient capital of Persia, about Feb. 20. Here he will inspect the sculptures of the palaces and the Stone age village two miles from the capital, both of which have recently been uncovered

Dr. Breasted began this work in 1894. His first trip was made on a donkey. This one will be largely by airplane. Mrs. Breasted will accompany him, also Reed Haythorne, cameraman, who will take motion pictures of the recent discoveries for the institute picture "The New Past," which will be released in the autumn

WEST PARKS '10 MILLION IN RED', AUDIT INDICATES

Attacks Extravagance of Former Board.

'taxes against which warrants are drawn shall be set apart and held for their payment,' the commissioners authorized the transfer of $533,000 from the 1929 tax collections to the corporate fund, whereas this cash should have been used exclusively for the retirement of tax anticipation warrants and interest thereon. Such action by the commissioners seems to us to be a direct violation of the statute.

"Bond and interest levies have been excessive to the extent of $938,966 for the last seven years.

"The commissioners withheld portions of cash received on pension funds, tax levies for the years 1926 and 1927, and all of the cash received on pension funds and tax levies for the years 1928, 1929, and 1930. The total amount withheld from pension funds is $643,518.

Income Tax Below Expenses.

"The corporate deficit as of July 31, 1932, is $3,183,528; the corporate income of the year ended Feb. 29, 1932, was $2,100,000; the expenses for that year were $3,300,000, and interest was $250,000, showing that in order to keep operating expenses within corporate income the commissioners must reduce expenses by 42 per cent.

"In our opinion the pay rolls are conclusively shown to be excessive. It is also our opinion that this excess results from having too many employés, also from paying exorbitant salaries in relation to the class of service rendered."

The report commented on the fact that many tax warrants were redeemed out of turn—favoritism having been shown. The amount of warrants given employés and other debtors of the parks was listed along with the redemptions. Speaking of warrants found to have been paid ahead of others of earlier issue, the report said: "These warrants were apparently discounted by the employés with brokers and others but were retired by the commissioners at face value. In most instances no interest was paid on these warrants."

"Favored" Warrant Holders.

A list of "favored" warrant holders, together with the amount of the warrants redeemed for each, was given as follows:

Joseph Donlon	$1,000
Philip E. Gilbert	200
George Frees	300
James W. Hamilton	550
G. De F. Kinney [state director of finance under Gov. Emmerson]	450
Paul L. Mann	500
Julius H. Miner	1,875
The Morland corporation	1,500
Paul Morton	5,000
John A. Pelka [treasurer of the west parks]	625
W. H. Wade	450
J. W. Welsh	2,325
Harry Witz	3,400
Various employés	1,875
Other individuals	500

"Certain employés have been given pay advances of $12,257," said the report, citing the names of the favored employés. "It will be noted that certain employés have received as much as five months' salary whereas the large number of employés who have received no advances have not been paid for twelve months."

In its conclusion the report stated:

"To us the important facts are that the taxpayers were permitted to be billed twice for the same items."

Rights of Investors.

The reply by Mr. Rossetter to Attorney Roberts contained this statement:

"It is our opinion that the statute is definite in this respect: That investors in tax anticipation warrants must have their rights protected according to law and that, regardless of related circumstances, the statute was violated to the detriment of warrant holders."

President Joseph said he was having a study made of the audit and that he wanted it brought up to date so that the people of the west park district might know to a penny the amount of their debts and the prospects of paying them. Any prosecution that is to follow is a matter for the grand jury and the state's attorney, Mr. Joseph said.

HOUSE GETS BILL TO COMPEL 5 DAY WEEK IN INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—(AP)—An ambitious legislative attempt to spread employment by compelling all industry and business to limit working time to five 6 hour days a week was put up to the house today, but its chances of reaching a vote this session were dim.

The bill would achieve its purpose by making liable to a $1,000 fine or three months' imprisonment, or both, any person knowingly transporting in interstate or foreign commerce commodities or articles produced by workmen employed for longer than six hours a day, five days a week.

$99,400,000 OWED BY CHICAGO ON TAX WARRANTS

Chicago has more than $99,400,000 outstanding in unredeemed tax anticipation warrants, according to the testimony of Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controller, in the sanitary district hearing yesterday. Petterson was called by the sanitary district to testify before Special Master Edward F. McClennen, appointed by the United States Supreme court to hear evidence in the suit of six lake states who are seeking a receiver for the sanitary district. His evidence was offered in substantiation of the district trustees' contention that a depleted treasury has handicapped it in the carrying out of the supreme court program for the building of sewage disposal plants.

6,111 INCREASE IN ENROLLMENT OF CITY SCHOOLS

Enrollment in the Chicago public schools for the second term showed an increase of 6,111 students over a year ago, according to the figures announced by Supt. William J. Bogan yesterday. The number of students in the senior high schools reached 104,302, an increase of 4,664 students over last February's registration. Junior high school students numbered 46,612, an increase of 4,606.

SYSTEM PLANNED TO CUT WASTE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The creation of a budget control committee and a bureau of property control to eliminate waste in the public schools was announced yesterday by Howard P. Savage, business manager of the system. The committee will consist of Harry Brackett, school auditor; John Christensen, architect; John Howatt, chief engineer, and Frank Sullivan, director of educational expenditures.

Mr. Savage said that the committee would meet Friday to decide upon standard equipment for every school. "After this has been set up," he explained, "if a requisition comes in for something not needed in a school room it will be turned down."

The bureau of property control will be headed by Robert Riggs, assistant to the president of the school board. Mr. Savage said that all equipment in the system would be listed and that expenditures would be studied day by day.

CAR KILLS BOY FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Returning home from her first day in school, Bobbie Ruth Bruns, 6, was fatally injured yesterday by a motor truck. Paul Dillon of Proctorville, O., driver of the truck, was held under $1,000 bond to await a hearing on manslaughter charges.

PEGLER TELLS OF BIG PARADE EARLY IN MARCH

Notables and Others at Inauguration.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Great preparations are being made for the inaugural parade in this city on the fourth of March.

There will be a mile of grandstand seats, most of which probably will fall into the hands of the speculators, thus starting the new administration off with a successful scandal.

If it seems as if there is to be no scandal over the scalping of the tickets and the flouting of the people's rights, Mr. Mike Jacobs, the scandal man of the Madison Square Garden corporation, undoubtedly can be induced to come down to Washington as a matter of party loyalty and patriotism and improvise one. Mr. Jacobs favors the theory that the citizens are never as anxious to get tickets as when the tickets are most expensive and hardest to find and has often said that, given a good scandal, he could get 80,000 customers into the Yale bowl at $10 each to watch a man read a book.

As a personal friend of James A. Farley, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, Mr. Jacobs certainly will do everything in his power to prevent the flop of the inaugural parade.

Enough for Army-Navy Units.

Mr. Farley will be marshal of the second division of the grand parade, next in line to the military and naval division, which will march under the command of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone. There was some question at first whether there should be any military and naval division this time, as it did not seem that there was enough army and navy left to make a parade.

A corporal would be more appropriate to command the unit which would be mustered by twos and threes from various posts around Washington, but the government offices will be closed all day and the general will have nothing else to do. In addition to the twos and threes of the regular establishment, there will be units of the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C. turned out to make a crowd in the military and naval division and an impression on the Japanese attachés. Otherwise, the attachés might quit the show and dash to the cable office to tell their government that now is the time to start a war with the U. S. A.

No Formal Name.

Mr. Farley's division seems to have no formal name, but by any name would consist of governors and their staffs, ladies and gentlemen of the Democratic national committee, miscellaneous deserving Democrats, and Mr. Eddie Dowling, who rode into office as court jester on the landslide, succeeding Mr. Will Rogers. Mr. Dowling may not be any funnier than Mr. Rogers, but the citizens wanted a change. Mr. Dowling has not announced the program of his administration as yet, and his jesting up to the present time is said to have been nothing but light practice. He expects to get funny in a serious, possibly even grim, way after the inauguration.

Mr. Farley will neither walk nor ride a horse in the parade. The route is too long for the statesman who will become the head man of all the letter carriers after the fourth of March and, aside from his own comfort, he does not wish to set a painful example for the governors and committeemen whose dogs may not be in shape for the ordeal.

Farley Makes a Sacrifice.

It was thought, also, that there might be an unfortunate suggestion in the scene if the man in charge of the patronage should ride along Pennsylvania avenue on a horse. The citizens have an unpleasant attitude toward patronage just now, and considering that Jesse James rode a horse, it was thought that it would be better all around for Mr. Farley to ride in a limousine. Mr. Farley intends to keep the patronage on a high plane of patriotic service.

For the inaugural parade, he may use, if he so desires, the official high-hat limousine of the postmaster general's office, purchased for the retiring postmaster general, Mr. Walter Brown. If the limousine proves too low for his high hat, the precedent established by Mr. Brown will permit him to put in for another one at government expense as soon as he takes office. Mr. Brown's need of a limousine with adequate high hat room expires at that time, and the car reverts to the government, but not the hat. However, he may deed the hat over to the Smithsonian as a national treasure.

Limiting Kentucky Division.

There has been a tactful suggestion that the governors riding in Mr. Farley's division limit their official staffs to convenient numbers. This was done in the hope that the governor of Kentucky would not ball up the parade by entering all his honorary colonels, admirals, and commodores. It was estimated that the Kentucky governor's staff alone would take several hours to pass the reviewing stand and there was also the problem of the expense of badges and limousines to be considered. The badges and rosettes are supplied by the local committee and a full showing of the Kentucky honoraries would use up all the profits, leaving nothing for charity.

Deserving Democrats riding in Mr. Farley's division will be requested not to point excitedly at the treasury as they pass by and to refrain from singing "Happy Days Are Here Again" until the parade has disbanded. Mr. Farley does not wish them to give the public an impression that they can't wait.

More or Less Patriotic.

The next division will be made up of more or less patriotic societies, including organizations which maintain lobbies in Washington to chisel money out of the treasury, and behind them will come what might be called the miscellaneous or too confused to classify division. In this final group, which will march on the hoof owing to the requisition of all the government cars and the local funeral hacks for the more dignified groups, there will be many political marching clubs, in high hats, from various cities of the United States. It is doubtful, in view of political developments, that any of the famous old Tammany marching and chowder clubs will be represented as such, but, for example, the Hinky Dink guards will be eligible for room in line and other deserving Democrats of many cities will be seen in proud and eager array.

Mr. Roosevelt will call on Mr. Hoover at the White House about 11 a. m., and they will ride to the capitol together, where Mr. John Nance Garner will be sworn in as Vice President in the senate chamber. After that, nothing more will be heard of Mr. Garner for four years unless he turns out to have a sister with decided preferences as to the location of her seat at dinner.

Here Citizens Stand Aside.

Mr. Garner and the retiring forgotten man, Mr. Charlie Curtis, will stand together for this inaugural which will be attended by the members of both houses and the entire diplomatic corps of the capital, dressed up in their lace cuffs and ostrich feathers and clanking like yard engines with the weight of their swords, medals and epaulets. The citizens will be gently but firmly pushed in the face at this ceremony as the public galleries will be entirely taken over for the friends of the senators and congressmen. The proceedings will be broadcast, however, and persons wishing to hear Mr. Throttlebottom's last words as he disappears into the long silence may do so by radio. It is hoped that Senator Huey Long will not select this time to start another filibuster.

After this ceremony, Mr. Hoover will mutter "hurry up" to Mr. Roosevelt and a few minutes later in a big stand on the steps of the capitol building, Mr. Hoover will formally confer his headaches on his successor. There will then elapse a period of an hour or so while they dash to the White House together and Mr. Hoover shows Mr. Roosevelt how to work the furnace and the ice box and they snap at a sandwich.

The Deserving Arrive.

In the meantime, the deserving Democrats backed up in the streets beyond the capitol will be moving slowly into the parade behind Gen. Pershing, the grand marshal; Gen. Malone, and the military and naval unit. Flasks will be worn at the alert position.

Passing the White House, they will receive a salute from both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt, and following that, they will have nothing to do but amuse themselves, which they will find ample facilities for doing the moment the Democrats move in with their mandate to repeal prohibition. On the fourth of March, it will not be necessary any longer to depend on Maryland corn, or hootch, in Washington, as the policy of the new administration will be quite the reverse of Mr. Hoover's.

GEORGE B. HOLBERT, MAGAZINE OFFICIAL, SHOOTS HIMSELF

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—George B. Holbert, 60 year old attorney and former president of Town Topics magazine, shot himself in the head late last night in his home in Summit, N. J., and died a few hours later in Overlook hospital. He had just been served with a bench warrant, based on an indictment by the New York county grand jury.

In December, 1931, Mr. Holbert was ousted as trustee of one of the funds left by the will of Mrs. Emma Mann Vynne, daughter of the late Col. William Mann, the owner of Town Topics, and was directed by the court to pay $26,636 left to ten employés of the magazine.

On Jan. 20 he was indicted, charged with grand larceny in the first degree.

BIG INSURANCE CONCERN GIVES AID TO FARMERS

Prudential Moratorium for U. S., Canadian Owners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Suspension of all foreclosures on owner-occupied farms in the United States and Canada, to be effective indefinitely, was announced today by the Prudential Insurance company at its home offices in Newark, N. J. An investment of 200 million dollars and 37,000 farms are involved in the suspension.

At the same time the moratorium on farm mortgages in Iowa, similar to that announced yesterday by the New York Life Insurance company in compliance with the request of the governor of that state, was declared today by the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company of Newark.

Other life insurance companies in the east were reported today to have been following the practice of refraining from foreclosures on Iowa farms, but officials of the companies refused to discuss the matter today.

In the case of farms occupied by tenants, the company said, the Prudential will proceed as usual, adding, however, that there were exceptional cases in which the company will not foreclose.

Nearly Sixth in Litigation.

The Mutual company's action involves $32,670,000, of which five million dollars is in foreclosure litigation. In announcing its policy the company said it was in response to the request of Gov. Clyde Hering of Iowa that all foreclosure proceedings in that state be suspended until some form of legislative relief could be worked out for its farmers.

Cow 4c and Horse at 2c.

Tuscola, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—A forced sale of farm property to satisfy a chattel mortgage for $2,750 on the Charles Grady farm near here today resulted in bids of 4 cents for a cow, 2 cents for a horse, and before the sale ended the mortgage holder's representative was chased away by a crowd of several hundred that came through the mud to see that Grady's chattels were returned to him.

Claim $2,750; Sale Price, $4.90.

Ivesdale, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Farm equipment and live stock mortgaged for $2,750 brought $4.90 today as neighbors of C. B. Gradz prevented competitive bidding at a chattel mortgage sale and escorted off his farm a representative of W. A. Doss of Monticello, who held the mortgage. The crowd at the sale was estimated at one thousand. It was the first time a mortgage sale had been blocked in this part of Illinois.

Gets Farm Back.

Deshler, O., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Cecil Kistner, 28, farmer was one of 2,000 farmers that witnessed the auctioning of his farm implements — 2 horses, 2 cows, and his household goods to satisfy a mortgage for $400. The entire property brought just $2.15 and the buyers told Kistner to keep it after paying a $5 collection charge. No protest was made by the finance company holding the mortgage.

Oppose Bryan's Plan.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Proponents of a farmers' holiday and positive moratorium on farm debts today branded the plan of Gov. Charles W. Bryan to create a conciliation board to adjust farm debts as "milk and water stuff." F. C. Crocker, official of the State Farm Holiday association, said it offered no hope of relieving the situation.

Shot Seeking Farm.

Mound City, Kas., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Luther D. Marr, real estate man and former banker in Kansas City, was found shot on a highway near here last night and died after being taken to Fort Scott. Marr, who drove here to foreclose on a 500 acre farm involved in a city property trade, was shot with both .22 and .38 calibre firearms and his body dragged from his motor car, also pierced with bullets. He was returning to Kansas City after having bought back the farm at the sale yesterday.

Personalty Valuations Compared

The following tabulation, prepared by the board of tax appeals, shows the assessed valuation of personalty by townships as fixed by the assessor for 1931 and the revisions made by the board of appeals, compared with the valuations and revisions for 1930:

NEW LOAN PLAN IS OFFERED TO CITY EMPLOYES

When Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th] won a $2,000 wager on the November election he set up the money as a revolving loan fund for unpaid city employés in his ward. From that revolving fund developed a plan, announced yesterday, by which city employés will be able to use their past due pay checks as a basis for credit in getting the more urgent necessities for themselves and their families.

Under the new credit plan an employé receives from his department or bureau head an identification and receipt slip such as he gets on any regular pay day for presentation at the controller's office, where his check is given him. He takes this slip to the controller's office and indorses his pay check, which may not be issued for several months, to the store extending him credit.

The identification and receipt slip is mailed to the store and the employé gets credit for purchases there up to the amount of the check. When the pay roll is met the store presents the receipts at the controller's office and gets the check, already indorsed to it by the employé.

Ald. Govier, when he found that his $2,000 fund was not sufficient to relieve the employés who asked him for aid, went to the People's store, 11201 South Michigan avenue and arranged for operation of the plan outlined above. Yesterday T. P. German, city auditor, reported to Mayor Cermak that the department stores of L. Klein & Co. and Goldblatt Brothers, Maurice L. Rothschild & Co., and the Straus & Schram company, furniture dealers, had agreed to the operation of the plan.

Negotiations are being carried on now with various loop and outlying department stores, coal dealers, and other merchants.

Woman's Robbery Story Investigated by Police

The police at Blue Island were striving yesterday to learn whether Mrs. Florence Smith, 2411 New street, Blue Island, who was found unconscious Monday at 117th street at Western avenue, was a victim of an attack by robbers. Mrs. Smith said that she had collected $385 in Chicago and was taking the amount home when her mind suddenly became a blank. There was no money in her purse, but the robbery story was weakened by the fact that she did not appear to have been slugged. She refused to tell where she had collected the money she said she had. Her condition is not serious.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 72; recovered, 67; stripped, 13. (From Chicago police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Monday.) Auto cases in court: Sam Taylor, tampering with an automobile, 60 days in the Bridewell; Louis Codulo, John Higgins, Alexander Graber, and Guy Mazzanais, charged with larceny, held to the grand jury, by Judge O'Connell.

FARM PROGRAM OF DEMOCRATS IS POSTPONED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The Democratic leadership in congress virtually has abandoned plans to pass a comprehensive farm relief program in the few remaining weeks of the short session. Effort will be concentrated on the passage of legislation to prevent foreclosures on farm lands.

This was disclosed today by Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, senate Democratic leader, testifying before a senate banking and currency subcommittee before which various Democratic farm mortgages relief bills are pending.

"It is doubtful," Senator Robinson told his colleagues, "whether there will be sufficient time before this congress expires to permit a complete and detailed b of a permanent character to be worked out. It may be better, therefo , to try to work out a bill to suspend foreclosures on an emergency basis than to deal with the whole farm relief question on an emergency basis."

The bill which Senator Robinson thought should be taken as the basis of a measure to halt foreclosures is the Hull bill, which would give the R. F. C. one billion dollars of federal money to be used in paying off farm mortgage holders, the farmer then agreeing to pay the government on easier terms.

PERSONALTY TAX REVISION ENDED; START ON BILLS

Books Leave Assessor and Appeals Board.

day that the total 1931 tax levies might be 10 per cent below those for 1930. On that basis taxes on real estate in the county would be 18 per cent lower and those upon personalty 2.4 per cent lower.

These, however, are only averages, applied to the total assessed valuations for the county. The reduction in real estate assessed valuations was not a uniform 26 per cent for every piece of property in the county and it has been predicted that some classes of real estate owners, because of the mounting tax rates, will find their 1931 tax bills actually higher than their 1930 bills were.

Board Cuts Off $128,567,895.

The total of 1931 personal property assessments on the tax books as they were sent to the appeals board by Assessor Jacobs was $1,043,389,299. This included $8,310,919 in assessed valuation against insurance companies with headquarters in other states.

The appeals board trimmed $128,567,895 from this total in hearing complaints by 34,877 taxpayers. The board members, George Nixon and Fred Brummel, asserted yesterday, however, that of these reductions Assessor Jacobs agreed to changes totaling $87,932,944. Commenting on this statement, Mr. Jacobs said that he has in his office a record of all reductions recommended by himself and his assistants, but that because of the rush of finishing the tax books and sending them to the county clerk yesterday it was impossible to strike a total of these reductions.

Bistor Petition Denied.

As soon as they had completed the revision of the personalty valuations and started the tax books on the way to the tax collecting offices the appeals board members denied the petition of the association of Real Estate Taxpayers for a general revision of those assessments.

The petition was filed ten days ago by James E. Bistor, president of the association and one of the leaders of the so-called tax strike. It was based on allegations of failure to assess personal property similar to those made by the association in half a dozen unsuccessful court attacks on the validity of Cook county tax levies.

In denying the petition, the members of the appeals board pointed out that Bistor did not file it until the last day on which the board was receiving complaints, and after the hearings of complaints in all but one township in the county had been practically completed.

"To receive and grant an application for a general revision at this late time would cause endless confusion and nullify the work of the board in hearing over 34,000 individual complaints," said Mr. Brummel and Mr Nixon. "Every taxpayer who has filed a complaint has been given a hearing by this board. The board will not entertain an application for a general revision at this time."

When the petition was filed County Attorney Hayden N. Bell advised the members of the board that the statutes give them no power to order a general reassessment.

NEW SCHEME TO BEAT GRAIN TRADE OFFERED; LAND LEFT FALLOW

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 31.—(AP)—A wheat farmer today urged others in the United States to buy wheat now at current prices, hold it until next September, and then sell at a profit, meanwhile allowing fields to lie fallow.

Mark Andrews, former sheriff, advanced the plan because, he said, "the grain trade is willing to bet us right now that wheat will not be worth more than 48 cents a bushel delivered at Chicago in September."

"It costs 29½ cents a hundred, or 18 cents a bushel, to get the wheat to Chicago from Fargo, so that means they don't believe the wheat will be worth more than 30 cents a bushel in Fargo. It costs 26½ cents a bushel to get wheat from Beach, N. D., to Chicago; 24 cents a bushel to get it from Dickinson, Williston, or Crosby.

"That would mean a price of 21½ cents a bushel at Beach, 24 cents at Crosby, Williston, or Dickinson.

"Is there a farmer in North Dakota or Montana who can or will attempt to grow wheat on such a basis?

"Here is the most amazing opportunity in the history of grain growing in this country to beat the grain trade. Instead of raising this wheat why not let our land lie fallow, or summer fallow it, or grow some other crop on it and buy the amount of wheat we expect to raise?

"They will carry it for us from now to September without a cent of cost to us and deliver it at Chicago."

RULES BANKRUPT LAW VOIDS WAGE ASSIGNMENTS

A ruling of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday held, in effect, that bankruptcy proceedings void the claim of a loan bank holding a wage assignment against the bankrupt. The judge issued a temporary injunction restraining the Money corporation, 100 North La Salle street, from collecting on a wage assignment against Frank Wiggins, 57 years old, 5331 North Winthrop avenue.

The temporary injunction is to remain in force until Wiggins is discharged as a bankrupt. Judge Carpenter indicated that he would make the restraining order permanent when the bankruptcy proceedings are concluded.

"The principle of bankruptcy is to give a man a fresh start," Judge Carpenter said. "When a member of society has made a number of improvident contracts covered by wage assignments, it is the spirit of the bankruptcy act to give that man a clean slate."

The case is the first in which a federal court has ruled on the contention of a loan bank that its claim under a wage assignment is not cleared with the rest of the claims of creditors listed in a bankruptcy action. The state Supreme court has ruled in favor of the loan banks. Judge Carpenter's ruling, if upheld in the higher courts, will take precedence over the Illinois Supreme court, attorneys pointed out.

PROFESSORS ARE CURSE TO NATION, F. H. PRINCE SAYS

Cowards as Rule, Claims Stockyards President.

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Frederick H. Prince, president of the Chicago Stockyards company, returned today from Europe on the Aquitania with some sharply worded advice to Americans and especially to the part played in government by professors, whom he described as one of the "chief curses of the country."

"Professors," he said, "are cowards as a rule. Men do not shirk life unless there is some cowardice entering into the action, and professors do not hesitate to accept the endowments of those who have served the people and the nation in commerce and industry, but do nothing themselves but talk.

Farmer Land Broke, He Claims.

"You have only to think back the last ten years upon the difficulties into which we have been drawn because of the influence of the professors to realize that the sooner we get away from this influence the better we will be."

Asked his views on the farm situation, he said:

"I don't think the farmer is as badly off as he says he is. His chief trouble is that he is land poor and stocked up with mortgages that have made him land poor. Did you ever see a farmer—outside of New England—who did not want to buy the next piece of property to him? That's one of the troubles.

Urges General Moratorium.

"A second trouble is that there has to be a general moratorium on mortgages. We are getting it indirectly. Let's be honest and take it on the chin and write off these mortgages on the basis of 50 cents on the dollar. This does not apply to farms alone, but to all business."

Answering a question on war debts, he said: "Never mind about Europe. If we take care of our own back yard she'll take care of hers. We aren't so poor and we aren't so miserable, but it's time we were engaging in a big measure of common sense. Chuck out the professors; declare a moratorium on farm and general business debts, and forget about Europe. That will lead us somewhere."

FEES OF $97,000 FOR MACCHESNEY ASSAILED IN SUIT

Conspiracy Is Charged by Two Bondholders.

Nathan William MacChesney, a lawyer prominent in diplomatic, political, and real estate circles, head of the bondholders' protective committee for the 1400 Lake Shore drive building, was charged yesterday with conspiring to defraud holders of $3,724,000 worth of outstanding mortgage bonds on the property, which is now in foreclosure. The charges were made in a bill filed in the Circuit court.

With MacChesney a group of men who allegedly organized the Schiller-Lake Shore building corporation and the Schiller Street building association are named defendants. The entire coterie is charged with planning the alleged conspiracy from the time the corporations first were organized and the mortgage bonds sold on the 1400 Lake Shore drive building.

Suit Attacks $97,000 Fees.

The suit asks that $97,000 in fees sought by MacChesney as attorney for the Chicago Title and Trust company, which was trustee for the bond issue, as head of the bondholders' committee and as attorney for the committee, be set aside. It also asks for a court order to halt the sale of the property by a master-in-chancery, which is set for Feb. 4, and demands that the decree for sale, entered by Circuit Judge Stanley Klarkowski last July, be set aside.

The bill also challenges the $30,000 fee which has been approved for Chester R. Davis, trust officer for the Chicago Title and Trust company, as receiver for the property.

The suit was filed in behalf of Miss Helen Sussman of 519 Aldine street, and Valeria Reich, both of whom are bondholders of the property. They charged in the suit that the defendants planned to bid in on the property at the coming sale, at a price which would defraud a group of bondholders who have not deposited their bonds with the MacChesney committee.

Building Called Valuable.

The committee then would obtain title to the building which is an extremely valuable structure, the bill declares. The non-depositing bondholders would be paid off at a small percentage of their original investment and the depositing bondholders would acquire certificates of interest with a lien against the income from the property, the bill asserts.

The suit charges that the non-depositing bondholders include fully one-third of all those persons who purchased bonds in the building.

Attorneys Alexander Wolf and Stephen Love, who drew and filed the suit, asserted that Anton, Arthur and Walter Wille, brothers, with William T. Hooper and Fred W. Janusch, organized the Schiller Street Building association soon after the 1400 Lake Shore drive building was constructed.

The group, according to the bill, leased more than half the apartments in the building under one leasehold, and then subleased the apartments.

$496,000 Diversion Charged.

During the period from June to December of 1930, the building association accumulated a fund of $136,000 from its tenants and piled up debts of $360,000 to the building corporation "for special assessments," the bill declares. It charges further that this debt and accumulation of rentals amounted to a diversion of $496,000 from the funds which belonged to the bondholders.

The semi-annual payments of interest and principal against the funded debt of the property amounted to $185,000. This amount was on hand and could have been paid, the bill asserts, if the conspiracy had not exisited at the time of the defaults, November of 1930.

The bill declares that the bondholders possess now a secondary lien due to a prior claim of $88,083 which has been granted the Chicago Title & Trust company as trustee. This amount of money, the bill charges, includes a $75,000 fee approved for Attorney MacChesney as counsel for the trustee, and a $10,000 fee for the trustee.

The bill asserts that MacChesney has asked a fee of $7,500 as chairman of the bondholders' committee for the building, and has demanded an additional $15,000 fee as attorney for the committee he heads.

Has Widely Varied Duties.

MacChesney, in addition to his legal duties, is a real estate broker, a general consul for Siam, and a trustee of both Northwestern university and the Public Health Institute.

He is known among other things for the length of the paragraph describing him in "Who's Who in America." This description is longer than the paragraph devoted to President Hoover, who recently recommend MacChesney as minister to Canada. The senate so far has not approved the appointment.

In defending the fees asked by him MacChesney said recently that the money was not for himself alone, but for five men in his law office who worked on the case for two years. He also said that the fees were to be paid in bonds on the building which are greatly depreciated.

BILLS AGAINST STEVENSES TO BE RETURNED TODAY

Indictments against James W. Stevens and his sons, Ernest J. and Raymond W., on charges of conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the Illinois Life Insurance company, will be returned today, according to State's Attorney Courtney.

The indictments, voted by the grand jury on Monday, were to have been returned yesterday, but the state's attorney said his determination to make them legally "fool proof" required another day's work. The Stevenses are charged with conspiracy to defraud the company of more than $1,000,000 and with embezzlement. Three true bills were voted against each.

Officials of the Mutual Trust Life Insurance company yesterday objected to a story in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 28, which called the $150,000,000 Illinois Life Insurance company the largest in the state. They said Mutual Trust has $170,000,000 of insurance in force and that Franklin Life and National Life of the U. S. A. are each larger than Illinois Life.

CHATELAINE TOWERS SOLD

Under a reorganization plan already approved in court the 20-story Chatelaine Towers, 211 East Chestnut street, in the Streeterville area, has been sold at a foreclosure sale for $100,000. The bid was made by a bondholders' committee and the order of court approving the sale will be signed within a few days.

Ninety per cent of the bondholders who still possess $738,000 of the original $800,000 issue, have deposited their bonds with the committee, consisting of F. W. Barnhard, R. F. Condon, Burton D. Evans, C. H. Meacham, K. J. Reinhardt, and a group represented by the Ritchie Bond & Mortgage company. These bondholders will receive certificates of ownership in the property. Under the present plan, it is expected the certificates will be paid off with interest in approximately 15 years.

79 Apartments in Building.

The building has a roof bungalow and 79 apartments which at present, according to the management company which has charge of the structure, are 100 per cent rented. The gross annual income amounts to $156,170. The operating costs, exclusive of depreciation ,and taxes, amount to $46,485. Delinquent taxes, penalties, and estimated 1931 and 1932 tax bills total $82,525. In the reorganization process $128,000 was borrowed by the committee from an eastern insurance company and must be added to the $738,000 mortgage bond debt.

BROWN DEFIES HOUSE GROUP ON AIR MAIL RATES

Changes in Effect Today Despite Opposition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Walter F. Brown today hurled open defiance at the house postoffice committee with the announcement that a number of important changes in airmail rates and schedules will go into effect tomorrow regardless of the committee's strenuous opposition.

In answer to Mr. Brown's announcement, the committee immediately adopted a strongly worded resolution, urging that all alterations of the air mail service be withheld until the committee can complete a comprehensive report on the airmail situation now being prepared. It appeared, however, that the postmaster general would disregard the congressional resolution and that the changes he favors will become effective despite the committee's disapproval.

Chairman James M. Mead [Dem., N. Y.] of the postoffice committee pointed out that the resolution is no way binding upon Mr. Brown, since the Watres amendment to the air mail act gives the postmaster general discretionary and arbitrary power to issue and cancel air mail contract extensions.

Mr. Brown insisted his program adds mileage to the air mail without increasing the cost. Mr. Mead and the committee maintain that the changes will add nearly $400,000 to the annual postoffice deficit.

According to Mr. Brown the companies involved in the changes are the American Airways, the United Air Lines, and the Trans-Continental and Western Air Express. His program will add 510 miles to the total route mileage and 5,686 to the schedule mileage of service.

Among eight extensions effective tomorrow is a 286 mile route between Columbus and Chicago, completing service between Chicago, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Washington, and the South Atlantic seaboard. The present 274 mile line from Evansville to Chicago is to be discontinued and a new daily round trip of 1,338 miles added between Chicago and Atlanta.

EFFECT ON SERVICE HERE.

Among the eight new air mail extensions that Postmaster General Brown intends to place into effect today, three will affect passenger and mail service from Chicago.

One extension, from Chicago to Columbus, O., will connect with Trans-continental and Western Air Lines' route to New York, providing a second route between this city and New York. A second extension, between Indianapolis and Louisville, will provide a direct route between Chicago and Atlanta, Ga., over American Airways, and connections there with Eastern Air Transport's line to Miami, Fla., and South American cities.

The third extension is made in two legs, from Detroit to Buffalo, N. Y., and from Albany, N. Y., to Boston, providing direct mail and passenger service between Chicago and Boston over American Airways. An American Airways extension from Buffalo to New York City was not included.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

Mrs. Louise Ashby, 45 years old, was found dead yesterday in her home at the Wilson Beach hotel, 1018 Wilson avenue, where she had been ill for the last two weeks.

3 POSTAL VETS WITH 134 YEARS' SERVICE RETIRE

Three veteran postal employes with service records totaling 134 years and ages totaling 205 years were retired in a ceremony yesterday afternoon at the federal building. They are James M. McArthur, 70 years old, 1431 West Monroe street, superintendent of the Canal street postal station; Daniel P. Cahill, 70 years old, 4817 North Paulina street, assistant superintendent of mails in charge of the revenue section, and J. V. Guest, 65 years old, 427 South 24th avenue, Hellwood, a clerk in the general delivery department.

McArthur is the son of John McArthur, who was appointed as 17th postmaster of Chicago by President Grant and served from 1872 to 1877. His son entered the postal service on Feb. 23, 1877. Cahill has been 39 years in the service and Guest the same length of time.

TREAT COLDS IN THE FIRST STAGE!

—and You Nip Them in the Bud!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, 1 to 3 days; the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief in the first stage is far easier than in the later stages. In fact, it is taking chances to let a cold run beyond 24 hours.

For prompt relief of a cold take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This famous tablet stops a cold quickly because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. It kills the cold germs and fever in the system. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. That is the treatment a cold requires.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful. May be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is absolutely no penalty attached to its use. For more than 40 years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. For safety's sake get yourself a package today. Beware of any dealer who offers a substitute.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to keep your system immune.

SENATE SPEEDS HORNER BALLOT ECONOMY PLANS

Bill to Merge Judicial Elections Advanced.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Swift action on the new Cermak election economy program resulted in the state senate late today. Without dissent the members received and advanced to second reading a bill to elect six judges of the Superior court of Cook county in June, 1933, one year in advance of the time when they would step up on the bench.

As introduced and explained by Harold F. Ward [Dem., Chicago] this measure would save the taxpayers about $325,000 by combining the 1934 election with the Circuit court election June 5 of this year.

It was evolved at a conference in the executive mansion Sunday attended by Mayor Cermak, Gov. Horner and other Chicago Democratic leaders.

Opposition May Develop.

The speed with which the bill was advanced does not, it was believed, wholly represent the sentiments of the Republicans toward it. It was predicted that when amendments are in order tomorrow or later, there will be a cry raised against pushing a judicial election ahead one year.

Other action in the senate cleared the deck for another field day on the sales tax tomorrow when half a dozen senators are expected to present amendments to this contentious measure.

Opponents, mostly downstaters, have sharpened their knives with the purpose apparent of carving up the bill to suit themselves.

Argue Scholarship Bill.

The house occupied itself during most of its session with Representative Solomon Handy's bill to grant each legislator three one year scholarships at the University of Illinois, in addition to the one four year scholarship each is allowed annually. The Handy measure would extend for one year only and was written to include none save students in necessitous circumstances.

Handy claimed for his bill that it would give education to 600 persons at no additional expense to the state or university. He begged his colleagues "not to economize on young people," but found himself in a maelstrom of disapproval.

Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein] declared that instead of adding to its scholarship rights the assembly should abolish the one each member is now granted. Harry M. McCaskrin [Rep., Rock Island] challenged this and urged support of the bill. Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign] said that while the bill would probably not increase the university's expenses it would mean a loss in revenue of about $20,000 annually.

Bill Loses on Roll Call.

The wrangle continued for almost an hour, Handy replying to all criticisms, and when the roll was called most of his Democratic associates "gave him a vote"—the expression used to help out a brother partisan—and some Republicans also went along. Since it was an emergency measure, designed to take effect in time for the second semester at the university, the bill needed 102 votes. It tallied only 94, while the opposition chalked up 30. The bill thus lost.

The only other activity in the house was the introduction of bills. John O. Hruby [Dem., Chicago] presented one to prohibit married women from holding public office when their husbands have jobs. It would compel the discharge of those now employed and would affect many Chicago school teachers and all other state and municipal employés.

Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur] introduced a prevailing rate of wage bill similar to one passed last session, which threw the whole field of public labor into disorder and was finally knocked out by the Supreme court.

Joseph H. Davis [Dem., Murphysboro] introduced another to place taxicabs under regulation by the Illinois commerce commission. A resolution from William J. Connors [Dem., Chicago] called for an investigation of the manner by which charity is dispensed by the Illinois emergency relief commission.

Butcher Shop Is Bombed; Wrong Target, Police Say

A bomb was exploded late last night—probably by error—in the doorway of Dave Trabish's meat market at 1224 South Kedzie avenue. Unable to find a motive for the attack, the police questioned Abe Levinson, owner of the butter and egg store next door at 1220 Kedzie avenue, and then decided the bomb was meant for him. Levinson told policemen that he had been threatened recently for cutting prices. The blast shook the neighborhood, breaking windows and waking scores of residents. Trabish estimated the damage to his place at $2,000.

NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, laxatives must not be used. Mother must not take them as long as she is carrying or nursing the little one.

Doctors will tell you that laxative drugs taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they so often advise Cream of Nujol.

This new form of Nujol is specially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk.

If you are expecting a baby, take the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is kind to the delicate bowel membranes, and being free of drugs, it is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take. At a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you as "regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

POLICE GUARD WORK ON NEW POSTOFFICE STOPPED BY RIOT

Morris, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Construction of the new postoffice building was resumed here today with fifteen state highway police and six local deputy sheriffs guarding the eight nonunion structural ironworkers from Chicago. There was no demonstration. The highway police under Sergt. James O' Neil of Joliet were sent here by Capt. H. Carr of Aurora at the request of Sheriff John Perucca and State's Attorney S. J. Holderman.

There was a riot Saturday afternoon between the union and nonunion workers and two of the latter were roughly handled. Seven men arrested for taking part in the riot are under bonds and will have a hearing Feb. 6 in the County court.

Further trouble is anticipated, as the union men appear bitter. Schmidt Brothers are the contractors and have the first part of the $80,000 structure well under way.

Dry Agents Raid Ornate Saloon on Belmont Ave.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a richly furnished saloon at 901-3 Belmont avenue, arrested the bartender, Bror Larson, and seized some liquor. A mahogany bar, ornate mirrors, and expensive chairs made the place attractive to customers, the raiders said. Two quarts of cognac, four pints of bourbon, two quarts of champagne, two gallons of gin, and two barrels of beer were seized by the raiding party.

BLIND WELCOME PENSION CHECKS, MONTH OVERDUE

$120,359 Distributed to Sightless of City.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Sidewalks in the vicinity of 739 South Winchester avenue echoed yesterday to the soft shuffle of cautious feet and the tap-tap of hundreds of canes. It was pension pay day for the sightless of Cook county, and 1,335 of those who walk in darkness joined the pathetic parade of men and women, anxious and eager for the $90 check due them each three months. The checks received yesterday were more than a month overdue.

In every face was a reflection of how much that stipend means to its recipients. Young and old, their countenances lit up with relief as the precious slips were passed across the counters. Faces that were wan with misgivings were wreathed in smiles in an instant. Furrowed brows smoothed out into a peaceful calm as the pensioners carefully pocketed their remittance and turned again toward the street.

Beg to Be Reassured.

"This is really the check?" more than one begged to be reassured. "This isn't just a paper? This is the pension check?"

Clinging to each other with arms interlaced, an aged couple arrives at the door among the scores of others, feeling their way carefully inside to collect their scant income. They are one of several such pairs, completely dependent upon the pension.

There is a sturdy enough young man in his thirties glimpsed in the throng. A member of the staff explains that he paid his way through Northwestern university and was graduated in law despite his entire loss of vision. He hung out his shingle and managed to provide for himself for a while, it was explained, but the depression forced him to return to the pension list when his earnings dropped off.

Supt. Lillian Proctor, who is familiar with the faces and histories of nearly all of the pensioners, pointed out one woman nearing 80 who has been on the list since 1914. Since the death of her husband she has refused to be helped around, trying to keep her independence, but failing. Recently a crooked salesman persuaded her to exchange her stove for a new one. She received a stove that was even worse than the one she had had.

A total of $120,359 in checks was distributed yesterday to the blind from the county welfare bureau office at the Winchester avenue address. Sightless persons are eligible to receive the pension if their income is not over $465 annually, or, if married, if it does not exceed $1,000.

INDICT MAYOR DALE OF MUNCIE; CHARGE WORKERS COERCED

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The Delaware county grand jury has returned twenty-seven separate indictments against Mayor George R. Dale and other members of the Democratic city administration charging violations of the state law forbidding coercion of public employés by their superiors.

The indictments name Dale, Lester Holloway, city controller, and Glenn Butts, who is secretary of the fire department and also a son-in-law of Dale.

The indictments refer to collection of a "defense fund" for use by Dale and others in fighting various charges, most important of which resulted in conviction of Dale, the chief of police, a member of the board of safety, and of several policemen for prohibition offenses.

It is charged that policemen, firemen, and other city employés were assessed as much as 10 per cent of their salaries over a period of about a year and the money used by Dale and others in paying lawyers and court costs in cases in which they have been involved.

Dale was sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth prison. Nine associates also received prison sentences. All appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, but no decisions have been made.

Russian Budget Is Fixed at 33 Billion Rubles

MOSCOW, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The central executive committee ended its regular session last night after ratifying communist party suggestions calling for a general slowing up of the industrial pace in 1933 and adopting quota figures for the year set by a recent party convention. The session fixed the 1933 budget income at 35,000,000,000 rubles and expenditures at 33,000,000,000. [The ruble is nominally 50 cents.]

2 UNIVERSITIES APPRAISE THEIR VALUE TO PUBLIC

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—On the basis that a penny saved is a penny earned, $124,400,000 was computed today as the 1933 value of University of Illinois technological research to industries and citizens of this state.

This sum comprises the savings of expense credited to discoveries in thirty-six scientific research projects which have been under way several years at the university. An additional saving of $107,815,000 is credited to seven other discoveries not fully enough developed to be counted in 1933, but standing as a technological nest egg for fighting depression a little later. The figures are described as representing very conservative estimates.

Some of Them Annual.

They were gathered by the department of public information, as an itemization of a pamphlet issued by the university entitled "One Hundred Millions Dollars Per Year." It is a résumé of the principal research contributions of the university to state agriculture and industry.

The 1933 savings are "annual"—that is, some of them have been going on for several years, and represent elimination of expenses which the scientists believe would otherwise still be losses. Some of the investigations have been under way ten years or more.

One project mentions specifically that part of the savings come from reducing the number of men needed, but most of them are improvements in materials and methods and savings in waste or in crop damage.

University of California, Too.

Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Two hundred million dollars was estimated today as the "year's profits" to the public in money saved or earned due to research in the University of California's twenty-two technical divisions.

This estimate includes the benefits of research in one year which carry on into succeeding years, making the "profits" cumulative, many of them repeating themselves year after year. "Price tags" were not available for evaluating many of the more important scientific achievements.

Other research achievements on which no attempt is made to ascertain monetary value are listed.

ILLUSION:
The stage is all set for target practice. The magician lifts his bow and aims an arrow at the bull's-eye. His lovely assistant then steps in front of the target and he shoots the arrow—apparently through her—and it fixes itself in the very center of the bull's-eye! And she smiles through it all while the audience gasps!

EXPLANATION:
The arrow which the marksman "shoots through" his assistant simply folds up into the crossbow! The arrow which is actually embedded in the target is shot by the girl herself from a belt concealed under her dress. She releases a little spring and the arrow shoots straight into the bull's-eye! It is all done in a flash! So quickly the eye cannot detect the girl's movements! To heighten the impression that the arrow has gone right through, the girl releases a ribbon from the front of her dress—the continuation, apparently, of the ribbon attached to the arrow in the target.

It's fun to be fooled— ...it's more fun to KNOW

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another . . . the illusion in cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made as soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat. If you have to consider your throat, the quality of the tobacco in your cigarette is important.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, costlier tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma...a cool, delicious flavor.

Keep the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack on your Camels...to assure yourself and your companions a fresh, cool smoke.

LIQUOR CONTROL RULES PERPLEX STATE LEADERS

Argue Over Post-Volstead Regulations.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Efforts to speed up the state prohibition repealers by completing the regulatory measures Gov. Henry Horner says should be adopted along with the rescinding of the state dry laws landed today in a complicated tangle of questions concerning the exact nature of the regulations.

The general position of the administration, supported by Mayor Cermak of Chicago, for years the spokesman of the wet forces, is that the pre-Volstead protection of minors, schools, churches, hospitals and universities should be restored to effectiveness. But this decision does not come anywhere near solving the whole problem.

Many Other Questions.

What about local option? What about Sunday closing? What about sales on railroad trains?

These are some of the queries propounded by legislators as they gathered to await the final draft of the regulatory bill or bills backed by the administration. Each of the questions was subdivided into several others, with the result that the best opinion was that final action may not be taken on the repealers for two or three weeks.

Some of the law makers see decided possibilities of heated controversy arising over some phases of the situation unless a definite, unalterable and united stand is taken by the anti-prohibition majorities in both houses before the subject is thrown wide open to general discussion.

Debate Basis for Regulation.

Warmth already characterizes argument over some of the sub-topics involved, but perhaps the most lively outbursts came in connection with a question of greater scope than any of the others. That was whether regulations should be prescribed for 3.05 per cent beer, the grade now apparently nearing authorization in the national congress.

Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, author of the two repealers in the upper house who is expected to handle the companion measure or measures when they are submitted, was slightly puzzled over this question.

The administration plan as it is understood provides for regulations for the sale of this "modification beer" similar to those in force in connection with pre-war beer of greater alcoholic content.

To Regulate or Not to Regulate.

"If congress authorizes three-o-five beer" was the trend of the puzzlement in a conference he held with some of his associates, "it acts on the basis that such beer is not intoxicating. Why, then, should Illinois take the position that there must be the same control of it that there was for four, five and even seven per cent beer? Why should it be subjected to any more severity than we show toward ice cream soda or pop?

"Why should this nearer-beer be prohibited in certain districts? Why should it be subject to local option restrictions? Why shouldn't it be sold as freely as Volstead beer is now?"

Getting down to the more specific topics, the lawmakers are bewildered when they try to agree on the provisions of a local option law such as Gov. Horner believes should be on the books in the event that the 18th amendment is repealed.

Pre-Volstead Local Option.

In pre-prohibition days a large part of Illinois was local option territory. Entire counties went dry. So did cities and villages and townships. And in some instances specially dry districts were created through a provision that local option votes could be taken in units based on election precincts.

Gov. Horner and the assembly leaders are agreed that in restoring the old regulations the new acts should not of themselves recreate the dry zones as they existed of old but should provide that dry districts, either coincident with the old or with altered boundaries or entirely new districts, may be created by the former method of petition and popular vote.

But there is no agreement as to the minimum area in which such a vote may be taken. There are those who contend that this area should not be less than half a mile square and others who insist that a square mile should be the smallest dry district possible under the proposed law.

Sunday Closing Ignored.

There is no disposition to restore Sunday closing as a state institution. For many years it had been a dead letter when a Chicago mayor called it back to life in 1915, and the assembly leaders are inclined to convey home rule to cities and villages in matters of this sort. It also is proposed that, while the state law may name a minimum license fee for dealers in intoxicants, the municipalities of the state be given the right to fix higher fees.

There has been a definite agreement among the repeal forces, the majorities of both houses, that the repeal action promised the voters before the election will not be involved with problems such as these. The repeal of the search and seizure act and the repeal of the state prohibition act will be presented in bills separate from the proposed regulatory bill or bills.

As it is considered there is a possibility that a regulatory measure might be invalidated by the courts for some technical reason, the danger of knocking out either or both of the repealers is to be avoided in this way.

Gov. Horner has on his desk a draft of both the nearer-beer and liquor regulations but has not had an opportunity to consider them and pass on the questions of policy involved.

U. S. AND MEXICO AGREE ON SCHEME TO FIX BOUNDARY

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The long drawn out boundary dispute between the United States and Mexico is rapidly drawing to a close. It is expected here that both nations will soon sign a treaty defining the exact boundary, which for many years has been uncertain because of the changing river bed of the meandering Rio Grande.

An official announcement by the state department in Washington and another by the foreign office here are expected tomorrow.

It is understood that the treaty will follow substantiatially the recommendations of the Mexican-American boundary commission, which were made in 1930 and which called for the building of levees to keep the river in a fixed channel. Its center would be the international line. Commission engineers in 1930 estimated the project would cost about $5,000,000. Mexico would pay about $600,000 and the United States the rest.

NEW YORK BARS REDCROSS PAPER; OFFENDS CHURCH

Catholics Object to Story and Illustration.

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—City School Superintendent William J. O'Shea today issued an order barring the January issue of the American Junior Red Cross News from the schools on the ground that it contained a picture offensive to Roman Catholics.

Similar action was taken earlier by schools officials in two Massachusetts cities, Somerville and Lowell. These officials held that the picture was sacrilegious.

Dr. O'Shea, after examining a copy of the magazine, said that he agreed it was unsuitable for circulation among school children. The usual distribution of the periodical, which had been started, was summarily halted. The superintendent said that he would communicate with John Barton Payne, national chairman, and other Red Cross officials, in regard to the picture.

"In New York," said Dr. O'Shea, "we have a deep regard for all religious feeling. We will tolerate nothing offensive to any religious denomination."

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Surprise and regret were expressed here today by Red Cross officials and Catholic educators at what they characterized as a "misunderstanding" of an article in the Junior Red Cross News, which has given offense to the residents and school authorities of Somerville, Mass.

No protests against the article, a children's story of old Spain about a boy, a donkey he befriended, and a kindly parish priest, or against the drawings illustrating it, have been received at the national headquarters here, according to John Barton Payne, chairman. He said, however, that he would write at once to the Somerville school committee.

Approved by One Churchman.

"I am very sorry that either the story or the drawing has offended any one," he said.

"The story had been read and approved by a Catholic, an associated editor of the Junior Red Cross News, before its publication."

The Very Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown university, said that he found the article and illustration in no way objectionable.

Wife of Winnetka Police Chief Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Nellie Peterson, wife of Chief of Police William M. Peterson of Winnetka, died yesterday in the Michael Reese hospital. She was 51 years old. Surviving her, besides her husband, are a son and a daughter. The family home is at 848 Spruce street, Winnetka.

POSTAL THIEF SENTENCED.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Robert J. Ray of Walnut, arrested last week in Gov. Clyde Herring's office at Des Moines, today pleaded guilty in federal court to a charge of embezzling $133 of postal funds from Avoca postoffice, where he had been employed as substitute clerk. He was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

RITTENHOUSE RESIGNS AS AID TO PROSECUTOR

A Veteran of 20 Years and Six Regimes.

Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse, who has served more than 20 years in the prosecuting office under six different administrations, handed in his resignation yesterday to State's Attorney Courtney. He will take a two months' vacation in Florida before returning to the city to engage in the private practice of law.

W. A. RITTENHOUSE

Attorney Rittenhouse first became an assistant prosecutor as a young man when Charles S. Deneen was state's attorney. He also served under John J. Healy, John E. W. Wayman, Robert E. Crowe and John A. Swanson, as well as under the Courtney regime. He has taken part in some famous criminal trials, but of late years has served in an executive capacity, usually as acting first assistant.

"The criminal court has lost a man of unquestioned integrity," said Chief Justice John Prystalski. "The judges of this court had implicit confidence in Mr. Rittenhouse and when his name appeared as sanctioning a bond or other court document, we never questioned it. I am sorry that he cannot see his way clear to continue in the public service, as he was one of the most capable and honest men ever to be in the prosecuting office."

The judges, all of them Democrats, held a meeting shortly after the election of Courtney and petitioned the new prosecutor to keep Attorney Rittenhouse on his staff. Rittenhouse is a Republican, although he never has taken an active part in politics.

During his long career in the prosecuting office Mr. Rittenhouse established a record of engaging in more than 1,000 jury trials in criminal and civil litigation. His last work was that of preparing the case on which the grand jury voted true bills against James W. Stevens and his sons, Ernest J. and Raymond W. Stevens, in the Illinois Life Insurance company failure.

Among the famous murder trials in which Mr. Rittenhouse was a prosecutor were those of Mrs. Dora McDonald, wife of Mike McDonald, notorious gambler, and of Dr. Haldane Clemenson, who poisoned his wife.

GERMAN SELF-EXILES FOUND ENJOYING LIFE ON ISLAND IN PACIFIC

ABOARD EXPLORATION CRUISER VELERO III., Galapagos Islands, Jan. 31.—[By Radio to the Associated Press.]—On the old convict isle of Charles, at the equator, 600 miles off the coast of Ecuador, Capt. G. Allan Hancock, Los Angeles banker and explorer, with his party of scientists, today visited some noted European self-exiles.

They found Dr. Charles Ritter, raw food theorist, who left his wife and Berlin social circles in 1929, taking with him Frau Koervin, Berlin socialite, for a back to nature life on the little frequented equatorial isle.

"The Ritters remain happy in their island retreat, called Hermitage," Capt. Hancock said, after the visit. "The resourceful nature of the pair has been demonstrated by the practical result of their few years of labor, and the worth to them of their philosophy of peaceful living.

Much less assuring is the lot of a few new ones from Paris and Berlin, including one Viennese baroness and mate, together with a German family. Their struggle, backed by a determination to remain, is sad. They are one and one-half hours' walk from Ritters."

Cold ABORTION
(with lemon juice)

Have you ever tried aborting a cold? When you abort your cold, it's gone; the system is rid of it! The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's Cold Compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One Cold Compound will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's Cold Compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

2 "COLD" REASONS WHY VAPEX IS BETTER

Common-sense facts that tell you what to do when you are suffering with head-colds

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

Vapex has one decided advantage over other methods of relieving colds. You breathe Vapex. Relief is almost instant—for the vapor gets directly to the real seat of a cold . . . the breathing passages. Salves, drops, gargles, and sprays are not likely to reach here. Because the breathing passages are a maze of hidden folds that only a vapor can penetrate naturally.

This is the reason why the first few deep breaths of the delightful Vapex vapor make you feel so much better—why breathing Vapex swiftly stops sniffles and sneezes . . . clears the head and nose . . . brings real relief.

And Vapex has also a decided advantage over many other inhalants. Unbiased tests prove that it has a superior germ-killing power. Since an unknown germ is thought to be the cause of colds, this important action of Vapex means greater safety and greater effectiveness.

You'll like Vapex. The vapor is pleasant as mountain air and just as refreshing. There's no mess . . . just a sprinkle on your handkerchief and at the ends of your pillow will bring twenty-four-hour relief. And Vapex is safe for babies as well as grown-ups.

Try Vapex for your next cold. Breathe it to relieve colds . . . and breathe it to help prevent colds.

VAPEX Months of relief for only 75¢

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

JUGGLING ECONOMIES.

The National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditure has performed a public service of first rate importance in the publication of its bulletin describing what has happened to federal economy in the present congress.

In this summing up the American taxpayer—and that means every man and woman in the country, whether he or she is aware of taxation or not—has a revelation of what we are up against. The gist of it is that with both parties pledged to drastic retrenchment, with business recovery and reemployment blocked by taxes and the fear of more taxes, the so-called representatives of the people have carried on a game of shuffling reductions and increases which will result in net economies far below the urgent need of the fiscal situation. Proposed economies of $30 million dollars have been offset or whittled down to 246 millions and, as the bulletin wisely warns, the budget recommendations have not yet been accepted and there is reason to believe will be refused in important items. Thus the total saving will be even less than the present estimate indicates.

Politics and bureaucracy with their allies are still entrenched and undismayed. The public opinion demanding relief is growing in force, but it has not yet concentrated its fire. Interests benefiting by public money are still stronger than the general public interest in tax relief. The result is continued resistance and a delay of relief which threatens disaster. The next congress must be put in a different frame of mind. The National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditure should be extended to every state and must have the support of the press and public. The spenders are organized. The payers must organize. Employers and employes, the millions with jobs to keep as well as those with jobs to get, the farmers, business men, and labor must realize that the fight for tax relief is their own fight and must organize practical political action to enforce their demand. Resoluting and protesting, important as they are for arousing ourselves to the fighting point, will fail miserably unless they are followed up by fighting organization to drive the demand home. Party or individual pledges are worthless unless party and individual are punished for breaking them.

The present congress has shown an ominous irresponsibility toward the federal financial crisis and a reckless disregard of the demand for tax relief. The next congress must deal with the great problems of the nation in a higher mood and with a graver sense of consequences.

"A SMALL COLLEGE. AND YET THERE ARE THOSE WHO LOVE IT."

Harvard has offered Wesley Fesler, Ohio State '21, a job as basketball coach and also a place on the football coaching staff. Fesler in his undergraduate days was one of the best basketball and football players in the Big Ten conference. It has been a long while since Harvard would rather lose a game with one of the Cabots trying to make the last two yards or to convert the point after touchdown than give the ball to one of the South Boston Irish. The oldest institution has been coming west for some years for coaches, and the commuting student, whether Jew, Italian or Irish, has no handicap on the squads. Harvard still likes to see a sixth or seventh generation Saltonstall swing a strong oar in the crew or do a fancy bit of broken field running, but Arnold Horween was one of the best Harvard coaches, and one of our Chicago Dunnes, ex-Michigan, was one of his assistants.

It's a reasonable desire that a bit more of the United States should be injected into the thought and habit of the country's oldest university. It may come through the department of athletics, of which William J. Bingham is the director. It will mean a little more of Le Baron R. Briggs, the old dean of the college, and a little less of Lawrence Lowell, the recently retired president of the university. It will mean less of the new Memorial chapel and more of old Memorial hall. It will mean less of men who deserved well abroad and more of men who deserved well at home. It may even mean that Harvard would rather lose to Notre Dame on the gridiron than win from Oxford on the cinder path and in the field. For the good of the country it would be better if Harvard bathed more often in the Mississippi river than in the English channel.

MARRIAGE AS PUNISHMENT.

A husband and wife whose efforts legally to free themselves from bondage were based on charges and countercharges of wrongdoing have just heard the judgment of the law. The judgment is that both are guilty and divorce denied.

To the lay mind such a conclusion is incomprehensible. If both are guilty of acts which would free both if one alone were guilty, how does the guilt of both justify the maintenance of the bond? Only on the theory that a divorce case is a combat or a proceeding for punishing infractions of the moral code. In this view divorce is offered as a reward to virtue, the marriage bond is maintained as a punishment of wrongdoing. In this case, both being guilty, both are to be punished.

Such a conception ignores sane public policy and repudiates common sense. Either would demand that a relation to which both parties have been unfaithful should be dissolved. Either would insist that if neither party to a marriage respects its obligations and both wish to escape from it the union should be promptly ended in the interest of society and in the interest of the individual. That the law should decree its continuance is a scandal. It can only perpetuate the conduct it attempts to punish. It can only degrade marriage. Divorce law should be clarified and made consistent with contemporary moral sense and with modern conceptions of social health and the rights of the individual in a free, civilized society.

IRISH LIBERTY.

De Valera's success with the Free State electorate would indicate to a long distance view the adoption by the Irish people of a national plan accepting economic hardships, if necessary, for a state of their own. In its simplest terms that seems to have been the issue. In the election De Valera's position was the least compromising. His vote was the largest. He did not present a plan to be wholly tested in the future. It already had been put to the test. It had already resulted in economic retaliations. Tariffs had been put into operation because of it. They had the effect of embargoes against Irish products in British markets.

There is nothing in natural human instinct which makes Ireland a part of the British historical picture. There is everything in that instinct which cuts bonds of government, sentiment and economy. The two islands were never sentimentally one. The smaller was outraged by the larger for centuries. Nowhere else in all Europe could there be a sounder claim for complete independence. Expediency might compromise it, but nothing could extinguish it. True, the Irish lost their native tongue in general use, but that does not put out the fire of national sentiment. If language conquered and held, Americans would be colonials. A few are.

The English tongue has not made the Irish English nor did centuries of English rule in part or all of Ireland do so. The Irish could not, as did the Scotch, give England a king, nor did they, as did the Welsh, find themselves placated by being given the prince of Wales. In addition to geographical entity, Scotland, Wales, and England frequently could unite in religious dogma. Since the reformation no such tie could be found with Ireland, the exceptions being trivial and short lived.

A spirited people, much imposed upon and often reduced to extremity, find themselves still dissatisfied with the bargain their conservatives would make with Great Britain. Apparently they have counted the costs and nevertheless cast their political lot with the militant Jeffersonian, the soldier democrat, who promises them more of the consciousness of the free man than even now the Free State gives them.

THE SENATE AND EUROPEAN INVASION.

Secretary Stimson, acting upon his own interpretation of the Kellogg treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, has just invited the governments of Great Britain, France, and Japan into a conference dealing with the controversy between Peru and Colombia. Thus a secretary of state of the United States opens the door for the entrance of European politics into the affairs of the American continent.

This astonishing event should wake the people of the United States to the fact that Europe has not only influenced but dominated American government in foreign relations ever since and including the administration of Woodrow Wilson. The only protection the United States has had has been provided by, or rather in, the senate. Whatever its other shortcomings, the senate has in each critical issue produced enough senators free from foreign influences to prevent the surrender of American political independence proposed by the executive.

The European invasion, with the active aid of the state department, is again in full sway, and if recent report and plausible inference are reliable the incoming administration will fall into line. The interpretation of the Kellogg pact offered and acted upon by Secretary Stimson constitutes as complete an entanglement in the vicissitudes of European politics and as complete an acceptance of European influence as would entrance into the league of nations. It has now brought about an invitation by the secretary of state to Great Britain, France, and Japan to cooperate by some means not as yet disclosed in the adjustment of a difference between Peru and Colombia. Europe is back in the American continent. European debtors of the United States are now getting ready to dictate the terms of settlement of their debts to the United States.

Will the senate again interpose its authority to maintain the rights, the interests, and the traditional policies of the United States against European domination?

THE JONES FAMILY.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Persons named Jones should be carrying their chests swelled to the limit. No less than 82 members of their family have been adjudged significant contributors to the making of America, and as such are recorded in the just published tenth volume of the Dictionary of American Biography. The list begins with Abner Jones, free lance sky pilot of New England, and runs through to Willie Jones, free thinking Virginia planter and member of the Continental congress. Half way stands "Mother" Mary Jones, fiery labor leader, buried at Mount Olive, Ill. Among the others are Alexander, who sent the first news message by telegraph and devised a scheme for telegraphic market reporting; Alfred, engraver of prints for Godey's Lady's Book; Amanda, inventor of food preserving processes; Anson, last president of the Republic of Texas; Calvin, pioneer in the movement to prevent smallpox by vaccination; David, fighting chaplain of the wars of the revolution and 1812; Evan, inventor of the underfeed stoker; Gabriel, colonial circuit riding lawyer; Hugh, the landscape painter; John Paul, the naval hero; John Taylor, first American missionary to Siam; the Rev. Sam, tent preacher and forerunner of Billy Sunday, and William, the Indian ethnologist. Assuredly a picturesque clan of varied careers, these Joneses. The family which keeps up with them will have to hump!

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. FitzJ.

FEBRUARY.

Edward Coke, Lord Chief Justice of England, born 1551.

This is the month of February, and in consulting the almanac the first thing we find out after the astounding fact that Old Dr. Gink's Patent Dog Fennel Bitters cures coughs and colds, restores hair to the baldest heads, and removes spots and stains from tablecloths is that Edward Coke was born on Feb. 1, 1551. We are not so much stirred up with Mr. Coke being born on this day. Being born was something he had very little to do with, but the fact that makes us pause is the year 1551 staring us in the face. After all, if the world has struggled along and kept going from 1551 to 1933 there seems a fair chance, in spite of the depression, that it may keep going a while longer.

Feb. 7—Charles Dickens, born 1812.

Mr. Dickens was very famous when people read books, but nobody ever hears of him now, as the only story of his they tried out was hard for the movie directors to get on the screen. They had to have a happy ending, so they let little Nell live and marry Dombey and Son and the effort was just too much. They dropped Dickens then and there.

Feb. 8—Mary, Queen of Scotland, beheaded in Tower of London Feb. 8, 1516.

How times have changed! Now, if the English wanted to behead anybody in the Tower of London, or even invite them over to tea, they've got to get permission of the Scots. That isn't hard to do, for the Scots have moved down to London, and if the English say pretty please and promise to wipe their feet on the mat at the Tower and not throw peanuts on the floor the Scots don't mind if they use the Tower occasionally. But no more beheading of Scots there. That's out.

Feb. 12—Lincoln's Birthday.

We get two holidays this month and that's something. Lincoln's is the first. We take courage from gazing on Lincoln to believe that it will be possible for Mr. Roosevelt to get along all right as President. Lincoln wasn't a fisherman, either. So it can be done.

Feb. 22—George Washington's Birthday.

That's our second holiday in February. Washington didn't go fishing, either. He was a great man, but he made a careless remark to the effect of keeping out of foreign entanglements and there's been so much fuss made over that, the fact that he licked the British and was first President of these United States is likely to be forgotten.

Feb. 25—Robert, Earl of Essex, beheaded.

The English used to be kept busy beheading their great men. Now all the great Englishmen are either Scottish or Welsh, and, besides, the English have been tired of beheading people ever since they took up cricket. For our part we're sorry. A good, first class beheading of a great man must have been a lot more interesting than a cricket game.

Some more things happened in February in the days gone by, but we can't go into all of them. Anyhow, we've got a new month, and it's absolutely impossible for it to have as much bad luck in it for any of us as January did. For January, the low life, had thirty-one days. And February has only twenty-eight. Three cheers for February. The shorter the better these days.

Inclines his noble head;
The cedar trees of Lebanon
Confess with arms outspread;

But strangely tastes of tears.

"JAPAN SNAPS FINGERS at League of Nations."—Headline. Anybody that would snap his fingers at the League of Nations would threaten a butterfly with a ball bat.

AFTER DESPERATE WORK M. Daladier has chosen a new French cabinet. This is Wednesday. The new cabinet ought to last until Friday. But it will be in luck if it doesn't fall Friday. The French love to have their cabinets, statues, columns, barricades, Bastilles, kings' heads, and things like that fall on Friday.

"SARGENT Seeks Cash Today."—Headline. Now, we ask you, is that news? For instance, take our case, today, tomorrow, any day. Or anybody else's case. But if the headline was "Cash Seeks Sargent Today," "Cash Seeks Brown, Smith, or Robinson," why, that would be news.

LINES TO A LAMENTFUL LADY LUGUBRIOUS OVER LACKING ADMISSION TO THE LINE.

O Sappho, take thy fillet now
(As Herrick said) and treat it
As something laid aside, this nonce:
For goodness' sake, dear, beat it!
I know thy verse is superfine—
'Tis so esteemed by me,
But gents and ladies of the Line
Surpass, sweet, thee and me.

We buck beaucoup competitors
(Pray take my rede not ill),
Ye con. hath only some three hundred
Agate lines to fill.

Be not then, Sappho sweet, a sap;
The Line's a game: Thus treat it
As something choice . . . and like all games
C'est quelqu' dam chose to beat it!

WHITE INDIANS AND ALBINOISM.

WITHIN the last ten years the newspapers carried stories about white Indians found in the eastern part of the republic of Panama. Some claimed that this discovery threw new light on the origin of the early Americans, and it was considered important enough to warrant bringing some of these white Indians to the United States, that they might be studied.

These white Indians have been well known for more than two hundred years. In 1699 Wafer wrote a book, "Darien," in which he told his observations of Panama and parts of South America. He not only accurately described the white Indians but he told how they came about.

As a matter of fact, the white Indians are merely albinos. They mate and their progeny are albinos. The eugenics laws of albinoism are given in textbooks on eugenics. Furthermore, among families born to parents who are not albinos, there is an occasional child who is free from pigment. This is in accordance with the De Vries laws of sports, or discontinuous variation. If two albinos born of nonalbino parents marry, there is a likelihood that their children will be albinos. All of this is in the books.

Furthermore, the eugenics laws of inheritance of albinoism hold true among lower animals as well. Lincoln park, Chicago, has been maintaining a flock of albino deer for many years.

But let us have some of the statements by Wafer:

"There are white and there are some of both sexes; yet there are but few of them in comparison to the copper colored, possibly but one to two or three hundred.

"Their skin is a milk-white, lighter than the color of any Europeans, and much like that of a white horse. Their eyebrows are milk-white also and so is the hair of their heads and very fine withal. Their eyelids bend and open in an oblong figure pointing downwards at the corners, and forming an arch or figure of a crescent with the points downward. From hence and from their seeing so clear, as they do on a moon-shining night, we used to call them moon-eyed. For they see not very well in the sun, poring in the clearest day, their eyes being but weak and running with water if the sun shines toward them; so that in the daytime they care not to go abroad unless it be a cloudy, dark day. But notwithstanding their being thus sluggish and dull and restive in the daytime, yet when the moon-shiny nights come, they are all life and activity, running abroad and into the woods, skipping about like wild bucks, and running as fast by moonlight, even in the gloom and shade of the woods, as the other Indians by day.

"They are not a distinct race by themselves, but now and then one is bred of a copper-colored father and mother, and I have seen a child of less than a year old of this sort."

Wafer discusses and rejects the theory that this albinoism resulted from a cross between an Indian and a white. He also gives the Indian folklore as to the supernatural origin of their peculiarity, but does not say that he agreed to it.

USING COLD WATER.

J. B. writes: Some one has told me to wash with cold water in the winter. This person claims that hot water opens the pores of the skin and when the person goes outside he catches cold. Is this true?

REPLY.

Taking cold baths builds up one's heat making powers. For vigorous people cold baths are invigorating and health promoting. But the usually accepted explanation is wrong. There is no proof opening the pores causes a person to take cold.

TOBACCO NOT CAUSE.

F. M. writes: I have a tendency to a breaking out on my face. I use tobacco moderately. Would this tend to aggravate the skin condition?

REPLY.

No.

TREATING HIVES.

J. B. F. writes: Having been a sufferer from hives for a good many years I happened on a remedy which I would like to pass on to others. Three large sized bottles of a mild alkaline salt completely cured me.

HEALTH SUGGESTION.

Physical Culture Club writes: Drink a glass of orange juice 45 minutes before breakfast. Also drink lemon juice without sugar three times a day.

ALIENS OR CITIZENS?

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—1. Are Filipinos considered aliens or citizens of this country? 2. Can they vote? 3. Can any state of the Union grant a Filipino the right to vote within that state? 4. Why is it that all the states do not hold the same interpretation as to the status of the Filipinos in this country? V. A. D.

1. At present Filipinos are not considered aliens nor citizens.

2 and 3. The right to vote depends on the law of the particular state in which the Filipino is living and each state may prescribe the qualifications of its voters.

4. Each of the states is a sovereign state and the legislatures may make such laws as are not in conflict with the constitution of the United States and of the particular state

FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A bill for foreclosure was filed in the Circuit or Superior court. 1. The mortgagor now files a demurrer questioning the power of the court because there are minors involved in the property which is being foreclosed. 2. Mortgagor raises the question that the bill should have been filed in the County court under Illinois law. 3. Has the mortgagee's attorney erred in not filing the bill in the County court? A. T.

1. The mere fact that minors are involved would not be a basis for demurrer. It must be that the bill shows that jurisdiction of the minors has not been obtained.

2. We doubt if you have correctly understood his contention.

3. We see no basis for such a contention.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 1, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The most sensational move, from the viewpoint of American interest, in the history of the European war—a move fraught with possibilities of grave danger to the United States—was made today by Germany. In notes simultaneously handed to American Ambassador Gerard in Berlin, to the envoys of other neutral nations, and to Secretary of State Lansing by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, Germany announces the revocation of her pledges to the United States and the resumption of unrestricted submarine warfare on commerce on a greater scale and through a greater area of the high seas than ever before. As in the case of the British starvation blockade of Germany, Berlin, without employing the specific term, proclaims a virtual blockade of the British isles, France, Italy, Egypt, Suez canal, and the territory in Greece held by the allies. "From Feb. 1, 1917," the note states, "within barred zones around Great Britain, France, Italy, and in the eastern Mediterranean, as outlined in the following, all sea traffic forthwith will be opposed." Then follows the delimitation of the blockaded zones. Germany announces the intention of preventing any supplies from reaching her enemies through these proscribed areas of the high seas and will sink without warning any ship venturing therein. The only exemption from this order applies to American passenger lines, not carrying contraband, that comply with certain specific rules laid down in the proclamation, including a limitation of the service between England and the United States to one ship each way a week.

NEW YORK.—Orders were issued tonight to the torpedo boat stationed at Quarantine in order to preserve neutrality not to permit any vessel, either neutral or flying the flag of one of the belligerents, to pass out tonight. These orders, closing the port of New York, were issued by Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port, in whom is vested absolute authority and sole responsibility for the maintenance of the neutrality of this port. The order applied not only to steamships, but to tugboats. Several tugs which passed Quarantine early in the evening, before the order was issued, were compelled to return to port. Apparently there was no basis for the supposition that one of the German liners interned at Hoboken might be preparing for a dash to sea. At midnight twenty patrolmen were dispatched to the Hudson river docks and 130th street, where five Hamburg-American line steamships are tied up.

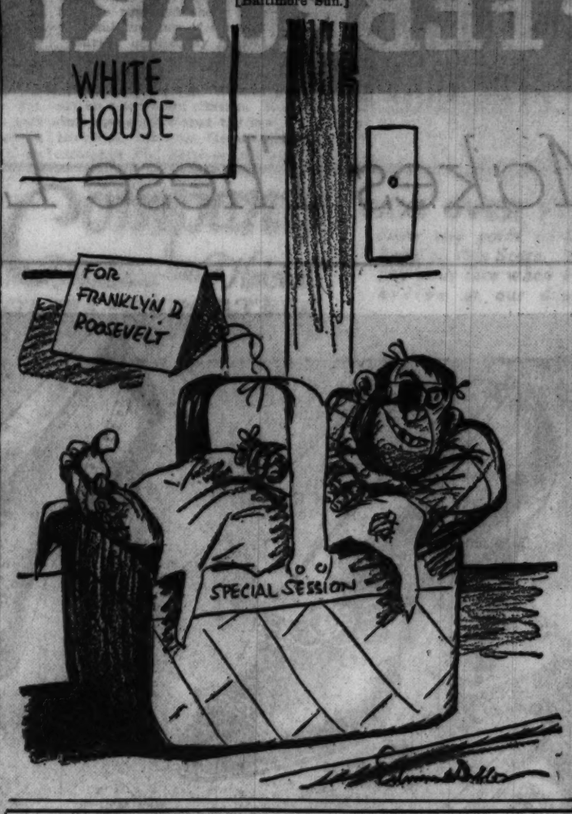

WAR SUMMARY.—Paris admits that 141 lives were lost when the transport Admiral Magon was sunk by a submarine. Two British, one Danish, one Norwegian, and one Spanish ship were destroyed by submarines yesterday. Petrograd announces that Russian troops have captured Austro-German fortifications east of Jacobeni, Rumania. Petrograd also announces that German forces attacked the Russian lines southwest of Riga. Near the Kalnzem-Chlok high road the Russian forces withdrew two-thirds of a mile. Only minor artillery engagements are reported from the other war fronts.

DERBY, England.—Four persons were arraigned quietly in the police court at the Derby Guildhall charged with plotting the murder of Premier Lloyd George and Arthur Henderson, the premier's right hand man in the war council. The accused persons indignantly denied the charges, declaring that they had been trumped up as punishment for their conscientious objections to compulsory military service.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.—The international amateur championship skating races at Saranac today were swept by Chicago contestants. Art Staff of the Northwest Skating club, winner of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Silver Skates two mile Derby, demonstrated his class over that distance by outstroking the field most of the way, and won in 5:57 3-5. Sigurd [Brick] Larsen of the Chicago Norwegian Turners, runner-up in the Silver Skates Derby, was chief winner for the day. He took the mile and three-quarter mile senior title events.

QUESTION ABOUT A BANK.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Will some one please explain in an A B C way to one who knows nothing of banking except that banks were supposed to be safe places to put money the following, as reported in THE TRIBUNE of this morning regarding the Prudential bank:

There is cash on hand of $40,855. To obtain this cash, apparently, there were assets converted at a loss of $30,802, or in other words, a 75 per cent loss. Receivers' fees are not mentioned in the report, but there was paid for miscellaneous expense some $4,500. There has been practically nothing paid for legal expenses and absolutely nothing to depositors.

Yet, in an adjoining column that lists loans to local banks by the R. F. C., the Prudential bank received a loan of $225,000, of which $16,682 has already been returned.

Now what I, a simple minded bank depositor, want to know is, where is this money that was loaned to this bank and what is being done with it? Certainly none of it has gone to the depositors.

A BANK DEPOSITOR.

FALLOW LAND PLAN.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Alvin Anderson fails to consider that every time the consumer paid $5 on the allotment plan the poor farmer would get only $1, because the boys who run the racket must live.

A bounty of $4 per acre on land taken out of production would create a demand for the present surplus and benefit prices at once, while the farmer would get his hands on some ready cash early in the crop year, and we would not need any new bureaucrats, as the present township and county tax officers could issue certificates on fallow land. It would cost all the taxpayers less than the farmer will lose on hogs alone if the plan goes through.

It will be far better for the consumer to pay a fair price for his needs instead of a 50 to 100 per cent tax that will only encourage continuous surplus production.

F. L. SCHREINER.

FROM A GRATEFUL PARENT.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—On this day of promotion I want to publicly express my gratitude to my daughter's school teacher for her hard work and sincerity of purpose during this last term, realizing that she has not received one cent of salary for the whole term's work. In fact, she has salary coming since the fifteenth of last May! We millions of parents in Chicago ought to hide our heads in shame that we allow such a condition to exist in the city where we were born and raised—the city we love and call home.

RELIEF FROM "RELIEF."

Red Wing, Minn., Jan. 28.—The farmers in Wanamingo township in Goodhue county, Minnesota, which in the past was one of the wealthiest rural communities in the state, want relief from "farm relief."

This is clearly indicated in the following signed petition, containing nearly 100 names, copies of which have been sent to President Hoover, President Elect Roosevelt, and Congressman Andresen:

"We, the undersigned DIRT FARMERS, demand immediate repeal of the marketing act, disposal of the farm board and the liquidating of its affairs as quickly as possible, and cancellation of all activities now being considered for farm relief.

"We want only drastic reductions of our governmental expenditures, so our taxes will be reduced 50 per cent; lower rates of interest on our present indebtedness, and our just dues in taxit protection. And last, but not least, when this is accomplished, LEAVE US ALONE."

QUESTION FOR SCIENTISTS.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Can any of your learned and scientifically inclined readers supply any information on the subject of whether or not the water on the bottom of the oceans is the same water that was there when the oceans were formed? In other words, does the water on the floor of the oceans ever rise to the surface? Any information on this subject will be greatly appreciated.

GEORGE JACKSON.

EVERY JOURNEY HAS ITS END.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Jan. 26.—Will you please stop your Mr. Gould, who is responsible for the trials and tribulations of Detective Dick Tracy, from captioning every climax in the life of his hero "Journey's End"? He has done this twice within our knowledge and we haven't been following the story very long at that.

We know that a famous stage play and motion picture bear this title, but we don't see where Mr. Gould has any call to wear the phrase threadbare.

PARAGUAY CALLS ANTI-BOLIVIAN RALLY FOR TODAY

To Protest Alleged Air Raid on Hospital.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Students and political leaders have organized a demonstration for tomorrow to protest the alleged bombardment of a hospital at Islapoi by a Bolivian airplane Monday in which the war office said seven patients were killed. The minister of war announced today that additional information showed twenty bombs were dropped.

An Italian stretcher bearer was among the additional wounded reported today, further reports describing the first aid chamber and supply room of the hospital as most severely damaged. It was also announced that Bolivian planes had bombed an ambulance, killing five wounded persons, among whom were two Bolivians.

All parties have been invited to assist in the manifestation tomorrow which will demand immediate removal of Bolivian officers imprisoned in Asuncion to Islapoi.

The government revaled its belief that the Bolivian drive in the Gran Chaco was reaching a climax with a triple assault on the Nanawa Herrera and Corrales sectors.

Wind Carries Blaze to Fort.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Burning grass and brush set afire by Paraguayans to halt the approach of Bolivian troops toward Fort Nanawa [Ayala] became an aid to the attackers when a shift of the wind carried the blaze toward the fort, according to a communique issued by the war ministry here tonight. Bolivian forces gained several kilometers of ground and consolidated valuable positions in the Nanawa sector of the Gran Chaco battle front, the communique said.

Argentina-Chile Conference.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The foreign ministers of Argentina and Chile are to meet tomorrow at Mendoza, a provincial capital on the Argentine side of the Andes, for a conference that may be a most important event in the relations of the two countries.

Chancellor Saavedra Lamas, who left today for the trysting place, predicted a renewal of Argentina's "traditional link with Chile." It will be another step in Argentina's movement for a South American anti-war pact supplementing the Briand-Kellogg treaty, already endorsed by Brazil.

Chancellor Miguel Cruchaga, who recently resigned as ambassador to the United States to enter the new Chilean government under President Arturo Alessandri, will represent his country at Mendoza.

"Without a doubt the international policy of continental solidarity which present circumstances demand has advanced through our rapprochement with Brazil and this will be complemented with renewal of our traditional link with Chile," Chancellor Lamas of Argentina said before his departure.

"The interview not only will refer to pacifistic efforts which must be organized as effectively as possible, but also to the transcendental economic and commercial themes which we South American countries must contemplate in view of the depression."

COSGRAVE URGES IRISH TO RALLY FOR NEW WAR ON DE VALERA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 31.—Former President William T. Cosgrave, leader of the Cumann na Gaedheal party, in a post-election statement tonight pointed a warning finger at the state of the nation. It was the first statement since the Jan. 24 election in which President Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party won a majority of seats in the dail.

"The national position is practically unchanged," the communique said. "Economic problems remain unsolved. Unemployment has grown. Continuance of the present state of affairs and the political tension will delay national reunion.

"The immediate task is to prepare for the next contest and insure putting the country once more on the steady path of progress. Last month was for the politicians; the future is for statesmanship. The opposition's policy calls for a sound national basis of construction and courage in shaping the country's destiny. We have with us thousands of enthusiastic young people to insure for the country peace, development, and international honor. Far from suffering a loss, we have secured increased enthusiasm, determination, and zeal."

30 MACHADO FOES FLEE FOR U. S. IN A STOLEN YACHT

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Jan. 31.—A small yacht, carrying on board some thirty enemies of President Machado's government, sailed surreptiously from Chavez Beach, on the north coast of Santa Clara province, for an unnamed destination in the United States. This was learned from a reliable source here today. Those aboard the yacht are said to be prominent politically. Apparently they fled the islands as political refugees owing to their anti-administration activities, which have put them in disfavor with the government. The yacht was seized by the group on Jan. 29 as it lay at a mill wharf at Playa Chavez.

Havana Editor Jailed.

HAVANA, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Enrique Pizzi de Porras, managing editor of the morning edition of El Pais, was arrested last night by secret police and placed in Principe prison. The reason for his detention was withheld.

President Machado today refused to sign a bill passed by the house and senate granting amnesty to those convicted of so-called "political crimes" between September, 1931, and June, 1932, when Cuban political parties were being reorganized.

BAIN DEPOSITORS SEEK OUSTER OF BANKS' RECEIVER

Nearly 1,500 depositors of the defunct chain of Bain banks met last night in the Ogden Park fieldhouse, 65th street and Racine avenue.

It was voted to convene again Friday night at Carpenters hall, 6414 South Halsted street, to prepare a petition to State Auditor Barrett, demanding the removal of Irwin T. Gilruth as receiver for the twelve Bain banks. William F. Stelzer, president of the Allied Bain Banks Depositors' committee, charged that unless Gilruth is removed there is little hope of regaining any of the lost deposits.

Earlier in the day Harold N. May, president of the Reliance Dental Supply company, a Bain depositor, appeared before Judge William J. Lindsay on a contempt citation. May some time ago alleged that the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, attorneys for Receiver Gilruth, had been paid from the assets of the Stony Island Trust and Savings bank for work done in behalf of other banks in the chain. May pleaded he had not meant to discredit the court but Judge Lindsay said that plea did not clear May and ordered May to file an amended answer.

ARKANSAS VOTES DOWN ATTACK ON UNIVERSITY

"Foreigners, Big Headed Northerners" at Issue.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Arkansas house of representatives today refused to authorize an investigation of charges that President John C. Futrall of the University of Arkansas had "stocked" his faculty with "foreigners" and "big headed northerners."

Charges were made that radicalism and atheism were taught and that two of the "foreigners" referred to, but unnamed were "disciples of Mussolini," and another "a disciple of Lenin and Trotzky."

Resolution Is Defeated.

Representatives Grant of Jackson county and Smith of Randolph county fostered the resolution of inquiry that was lost by a vote of 59 to 31.

Representative Huie, an alumnus of the state university, branded the resolution as "enmity gone stark mad."

Representative Crawford attacked the university administration, saying "President Futrall and his friends are trying to tell us country boys we can't regulate a hired hand."

Up jumped Representative Butler, Independence county, declaring:

"My father fought in the confederate army, but I want to say here and now this desolution is an insult to my good friends in the north, and I resent it. I appeal to you to use your common horse sense and vote down this insulting resolution."

Agrees War Is Over.

"There's no use bringing up an old squabble between sections," Representative Harding from the same county agreed.

Representative Horton of Logan county charged the university "taught doctrines tending to make atheists," that two university graduates in his community "had taught there is no hereafter." "They are atheists and it looks like some change ought to be made in a university that would send out students with those ideas," he said.

Another Logan representative, Willems, only foreign born member of the house, called the language of the resolution as "very insulting" to him.

"The charges are made in this resolution," said Representative Stanfield, "that one of the professors is teaching that a change ought to be made in our government.

Sees Room for Change.

"Certainly we can admit some change is needed. I don't think this house could fail to admit that a whole lot of changes should be made right now. Every good university has foreign members on its faculty, and I believe we ought to have them."

Dean Virgil Jones of the College of Arts and Sciences at the university at Fayetteville said only five of the university's faculty of 150 members were foreign born. They are:

Dr. Barnett Sure, Russian, distinguished as the co-discoverer of the vitamin.

Prof. Laurence Powell, English composer; L. A. Passarelli and A. Marinoni, Italian, professors of romance languages, and M. C. Kik, Holland, recently naturalized.

JAKE FACTOR'S AID CONVICTED OF BRITISH SWINDLE

Harry Geen Is Found Guilty of Fraud.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Although finding that John [Jake the Barber] Factor of Chicago was probably the "master mind," a jury in Old Bailly Criminal court today convicted Harry Geen, former personal secretary to Factor, of receiving $70,000 which he knew to have been fraudulently obtained. Sentence will be handed down on Feb. 11.

Geen went on trial here after having been extradited from Philadelphia. Factor, his former employer, is now in Chicago fighting extradition. He is charged with having sold fake stock through a financial organ known as the Broad Street Press, fleecing English investors of $7,500,000.

Geen Testifies Again.

The defense contended today that Geen should be absolved since he merely followed instructions given by Factor. Judge Whitely told the jury that it must not convict Geen simply because some one ought to be punished and because Factor was not available.

On the stand again today, Geen declared that in 1928 Factor had an account with the North Scotland bank under the name of H. Wise. The turnover of funds in this account amounted in November and December alone to $5,085,000 [figured at par]. In the first half of 1929 the turnover, he said, was $7,225,000, and in the latter half of that year $6,250,000. The turnover, he continued, was a little less in 1930, the year to which the charge of fraud relates.

Never Used Own Name.

Factor, he said, never used his own name in transactions, although private bills came in his own name. They were paid by cash or check on Geen's own account. When in America with Factor, Geen declared, they went to dinners and other functions openly and under their own names. Factor was the biggest speculator in Chicago when they went there, Geen asserted. No attempt was made to conceal his identity. Every one in Chicago seemed to know him, he said.

Asked by the judge concerning his relations with Factor, Geen replied, "That is hard to explain. You don't know the man."

To which the judge said, "No, I don't. Perhaps I may know him some day.

COURT UPHOLDS CITY'S TITLE TO OLD GAGE FARM

The title of the city to the old Gage farm, comprising some 225 acres, the major portion of which lies within Berwyn, was held valid yesterday by Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson in an order dismissing a suit that has been in the federal courts since 1929.

The city came into possession of the property in 1881 in part settlement of a claim against David A. Gage, former city treasurer. In 1873, after Gage's defeat for reëlection, it was charged that the city had lost $507,700 through mismanagement by Gage. A judgment was obtained against Gage and the property bought at a trustees' sale in settlement of the judgment.

A law suit was filed in the federal courts in 1929 by Mrs. Clara Gage Clark of Kansas City, daughter of the former city treasurer. At the time the city obtained title the land was worth only a few thousand dollars. Experts now appraise it at more than $1,500,000. The Clark suit was for the amount above the city judgment.

Have Color in Cheeks

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

FOUR GIRLS RAISE $50 FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN'S FUND

A little extra effort on the part of four young women students of Northwestern and Chicago universities added $50.05 to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday.

The four, Frances Ruth Fridstein, Carolyn Alschuler, Jane Weber, and Mabel Chapman, circulated the news among their bridge-playing friends that a party was scheduled at the St. Clair hotel last Saturday. They named the fund as the beneficiary.

"Everyone spoke of their pleasure in helping so deserving a charity," Miss Fridstein explained when the quartet delivered the money at the fund headquarters in person. "Because it was the Hungry School Children's fund and because that meant that the hungry children in the public schools would be fed, they made a special effort to be on hand."

This gift will feed 100 pupils in the grammar grades for ten days.

A youthful contributor who was not satisfied with just one benefit sent the proceeds of another yesterday. She is Florence Elizabeth Barr, who wrote: "I am sending $3 and I hope it will help give some hungry children a good meal. Mother made some candy and I sold it as I did before. I hope I can send some more money later on."

The contributions in full are acknowledged below:

$50.05—Proceeds of a bridge party given by four Northwestern and Chicago students.
$6.00—Majorie Davis.
$5.00—The Four Leaf Clover club.
$3.00—Florence E. Barr, Florence Dayis, Abel Davis, Jr.
$2.00—Anonymous.
$1.00—W. Morris, Stenographic Dept., Illinois Inspection bureau, F. L. V., John M. Jack, Jr., age 6, Minneapolis, Minn., C. M. J.
10c—Suda Parrish.

Total	$ 77.15
Previously acknowledged	20,114.00
Grand total	$20,191.15

Contributions may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Five cents will feed a small child and fifteen cents a high school or junior high school pupil.

TRIO KIDNAPS 2 OFFICERS AFTER PISTOL BATTLE

Fort Smith, Ark., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Bob Williamson, chief of city detectives, and Foster Porter, motorcycle officer, were kidnaped today by three men following a gun battle, in which Williamson was shot in the hand. The officers were taken to Kanima, Okla., 25 miles west of here, where they were released.

Williamson and Porter were taken to Stigler, Okla., by a motorist.

The Fort Smith officers reported that early today they stopped three men who were working on the motor of an automobile to question them. The officers were looking for suspects in a filling station robbery.

One of the trio pulled out a revolver and ordered them to put up their hands. Instead, Williamson drew his own revolver and started firing. Porter and the other two men joined the battle, which ended when a bullet hit Williamson in the right hand and sent his pistol spinning to the street.

The trio then forced the officers into their car and sped westward across the Oklahoma line.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Man Shoots Himself to Death

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Harry B. Koch, 45, a member of the New York stock exchange, shot himself in the right ear today and died 20 minutes later, the police reported. The shooting occured in a washroom adjoining his office on lower Broadway.

TRUCK OWNERS VOTE FOR STATE AND U. S. CONTROL

Members of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association went on record last night as favoring control of their industry by both the Illinois and Interstate Commerce commissions. The meeting was held in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue. Walter E. McCarron, head of the organization, presided and introduced the resolution for governmental control.

Recognition of the trucking operators as common carriers by the state and federal commissions, he said, is looked upon by the operators as the only means by which the trucking industry can be purged of its present chief drawback, the "wildcat," or "fly-by-night" operators. These "wildcat" operators are considered by the larger and responsible concerns as the principal causes for opposition to the trucking industry by the railroads and others.

"We believe the differences between the railroads and the responsible trucking companies, as represented by our association, can be quickly straightened out if the trucking industry is stabilized by proper regulation," said Mr. McCarron.

The association members also went on record as favoring a legal fight by the association in the Keeshin Motor Express company case. This company, an association member, was ordered barred from the highways by the Illinois Commerce commission. The association takes the position that the order was unwarranted. Its attorneys were instructed to appeal to the state Supreme court.

FILIPINOS OUST SENATE HEAD FOR FREEDOM STAND

Quezon Rallies Foes of American Plan.

MANILA, Feb. 1 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The special fifteen day session of the Philippine legislature ended today after action had been taken against two members who favored accepting insular independence in about twelve years, as proffered by congress.

They had opposed Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, who aligned strong legislative following for rejection of delayed independence and insistence upon immediate freedom.

Quezon Raps Congressmen.

Quezon's position was further strengthened by displacement of Sergio Osmena as president pro tem. of the senate by Jose Clarin of Behol province, and the reported preparation of Leonard Festin to succeed Manuel Roxas as speaker of the house. Osmena and Roxas, as members of the independence mission to Washington, favored legislative acceptance of the bill for which they labored.

Quezon hit at members of congress who since the independence enactment have urged Filipinos to accept it. Among them were said to be Senator Hawes of Missouri and Senator Borah of Idaho.

"It is hardly fair," Quezon said, "for senators and representatives in congress to be making statements that may influence the momentous decision the Filipino people will be called on to make.

"Senators and representatives have had one full year to say all they had to say regarding this law. It is to be presumed it is the purpose of congress to give us perfect freedom of action, so whatever we may do the responsibility will be ours.

"If members of the senate and house want us to accept the law, irrespective of whether from our own viewpoint it should be accepted or rejected, they have one sure and proper way of doing it, thus: enact a law and enforce it regardless of the opinion of the Filipino people."

BUSHMAN TELLS OF MILLIONS HE MADE IN MOVIES

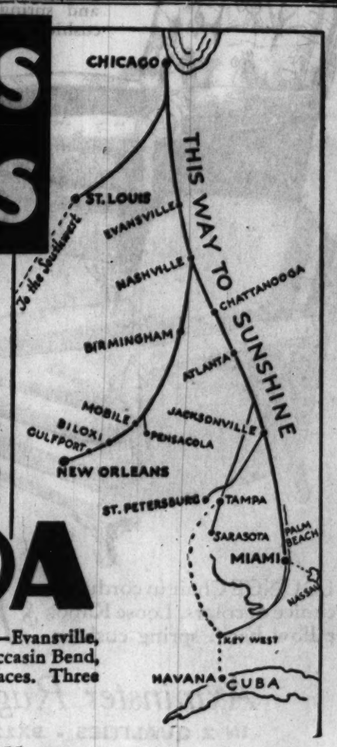

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Francis X. Bushman, former movie star, who is suing A. E. Hamilton of Windsor for $10,000 damages as a result of an automobile accident last December, said in court today that he was not sure whether his income from pictures had totaled $6,000,000 or $9,000,000 during his career.

"An actor does not interest himself so much in money as in his art," he said. "I was a big earner and a big spender."

His big years were from 1915 to 1922, but then his star descended, he testified.

NOW! PILES MEET THEIR WATERLOO!

No more pain! No more itching or scratching! No more torture when you sit or walk! No more torture at the stool! The relief of Piles has now been solved. No matter what the form of Piles you suffer from—genuine relief for you lies in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo not only stops the pain and itching and makes defecation easy but it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. This is because Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs torn tissue, but actually reduces the swollen blood vessels which are Piles. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective (see picture below). Thousands say it saved them the need of a painful operation. Try Pazo yourself and realize from one trial that your days of pile suffering are over. All drug stores sell Pazo in Collapsible Tube with special Pile Pipe, complete for 75c.

Perforated Pile Pipe attached to Collapsible Tube Makes Application Correct and Easy

The PAZO Collapsible Tube and Perforated Pile Pipe make it very easy to apply the Ointment high up in the rectum where it can reach and thoroughly cover all the affected parts. Complete interior treatment in all cases of Piles is plainly important.

WIFE WAS FAT No Longer Attractive
Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper in connection with a divorce trial that attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

And gain energy and activity?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 salts most helpful to body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today.

It's the safe way to reduce, but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first and remember this if you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

JAPAN OFFERS CONCESSIONS IN LEAGUE DISPUTE

Lifts Objections to Manchuria Peace Formula.

TOKIO, Feb. 1 [Wednesday].—(AP)—An official spokesman indicated today that Japan has withdrawn certain objections to the league of nations formula for conciliation of the Manchurian dispute and would make new proposals for a settlement on that basis.

After an extraordinary session of the cabinet today to discuss Japan's relations with the league, Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida proceeded to the palace and made a report to the emperor. Then he telegraphed instructions to the Japanese delegation in Geneva which the official spokesman called "very important."

To Concede Other Points.

He indicated the delegates were authorized to concede other points blocking conciliation under paragraph three of article 15 of the league covenant, if the league drops its intention to enunciate nonrecognition of the government of Manchukuo in Manchuria and further limits the competence of the proposed conciliation committee.

[The league already had abandoned efforts at conciliation, as set forth in article 15, paragraph three, of the covenant, proceeding to action under paragraph four of the same article. This provides that the league publish a report on the dispute and recommendations for league action. A special nine-power committee at Geneva has held several meetings already, drawing up the report and recommendations.]

A Japanese foreign office spokesman said:

"We are not hopeful that the league will accept our terms. If they are refused, application of paragraph four is inevitable. The nature of the report under that paragraph will determine whether Japan will withdraw from the league.

Sees Forced Withdrawal.

"In view of the present atmosphere in Geneva, it appeared likely Japan will be compelled to withdraw," he declared.

"It remains to be seen whether the league can survive Japan's withdrawal. If it does survive it will be a greatly changed organization," the spokesman added.

League Nears Decision.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Jan. 31.—After a long fight, which the British lost today to the small powers led by Sweden, the committee of nineteen's subcommittee of nine reached a tentative agreement on the remaining two of the twelve findings on the Chino-Japanese conflict which it is now drafting for the league of nations assembly.

These two concern Japan's pleas that the Chinese boycott and necessities of self-defense justified its military action in Manchuria. Anthony Eden, British representative, fought stubbornly against a report containing anything which in any way approved the Chinese action in boycotting Japan. He said Britain feared it would be difficult to word the approval in such a way as to safeguard the British against the Chinese using this as a precedent later against them. Rene Massigli of France weakly supported him.

Considered as Reprisal.

Finally it was agreed in principle to declare that the Chinese boycott since Sept. 18, 1931, when Japan started military operations in Manchuria, should be considered as a reprisal. The small powers considered that this amounted to justifying the boycott, particularly since the twelfth finding says the Chinese were not responsible for what had happened since Sept. 18.

Regarding the other finding, it was agreed in principle to declare not merely that the Japanese actions of Sept. 18, 1931, but also since then, could not be regarded as legitimate measures of self-defense. Moreover, Sweden finally got this amended to add that the league alone, and not Japan, as that nation claimed, had the right to determine in such cases what constituted legitimate self-defense.

Chinese Newspaperman Slain.

NANKING, China, Jan. 31.—(AP)—W. S. Wang, well known Chinese newspaperman, was kidnaped and murdered today by gunmen believed to be members of the "Patriotic society," which was born of the current trouble with Japan. His body was found on the slope of Purple mountain near the tomb of Sun Yat Sen. Pinned to the jacket was a note which read "He secretly communicated with the enemy, therefore he has been executed."

AIR FLEET RAIDS HAWAII; SHIPS 'SHELL' COAST

Army and Navy War Games Begin.

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 31.—Two air attacks in which between 50 and 100 planes catapulted from the carriers of the "black" fleet to bomb the Pearl Harbor naval base, defended by the "blues," today marked the first "clash" in the American army-navy war games.

The naval base defenders retaliated by sending out planes to attack the airplane carriers of the fleet.

Cruisers Shell Honolulu.

A "dog fight" between army and navy pursuit planes over Molokai channel was a high spot of the day's maneuvers. It was accompanied by a long distance bombardment of Honolulu and Pearl Harbor by the "black" cruisers.

A technical study by officers will be necessary to determine whether today's attack was successful. The object of the maneuvers is to test the vulnerability of Hawaii to an enemy attack which would, if successful, next be directed against the Pacific coast.

"Black" Fleet Located.

The "black" enemy fleet was reported near Molokai island at midnight last night so that the defenders were able to prepare for the air attack at dawn.

Blue air squadrons reconnoitered today in an attempt to ascertain the concentration and strategy of the "black" cruisers.

Klan Leader Sentenced to Jail for Fire Damages

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 31.—(AP)—J. J. Maloney, Ku Klux Klan leader in Alberta, today was sentenced to two months' in jail and fined a total of $100 on three counts. He also was ordered to pay damages of $15. He was accused of causing damage by fire and attempted false pretenses.

ITALY TO FLOAT 51 MILLION LOAN TO AID INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 31.—Conservative and most important Italian banks will float a loan of one billion lire [about $51,000,000] on Feb. 6 to constitute the capital of a newly organized Institute for Industrial Reconstruction, it was officially announced tonight.

The bonds are redeemable in twenty years, bear 4 per cent interest, and will be priced at $91. Besides the convenient rate of interest, other advantageous terms offered investors are five yearly premiums of 1,000,000 lire each.

The proceeds will be used to extend credit to Italian industries crippled by the economic crisis.

GIRLS, IT'S TIME TO ENTER FAIR QUEEN CONTEST

Early Entries Have More Chance of Prizes.

Last Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE brought the news to ten girls in various cities of the central west that they were due to receive $100 each. Next Sunday's editions will provide the same pleasurable surprises for ten more Chicagoland girls, as the second $1,000 of the preliminary $10,000 in prizes is distributed in the process of choosing the girl who will reign over the opening ceremonies of the 1933 world's fair.

Was your picture printed last week? If not, you may find it reproduced this coming Sunday in the rotogravure section. Of course, it won't be there if you haven't yet mailed in your photograph. There remain eight weeks of future publication of these pictures, and the earlier a picture arrives, the better chance it has of selection for one of these $100 awards.

Brunettes in the Lead.

To date brunettes have the lead by a score of 7 to 3. There's plenty of time, however, for the blondes to reverse the statistics. If your sister or your daughter—or your girl friend—appears to you to be more charming than most, all you have to do is to mail her picture with certain data required on the "transmittal coupon" published daily in THE TRIBUNE.

From small towns and big, all over this area and from far points beyond, photographs of college girls and factory girls, office workers, and artists, and girls from every walk of life are pouring into the contest headquarters in a steadily increasing flow. No age limit has been placed, and the only restrictions are against married women and professional beauties, meaning girls with stage experience or artists' models.

One of these girls is due to be elected queen. She will be named by a board of seven prominent men and women whose names guarantee that this event will be kept on a plane far above the ordinary bathing beauty contest. A check for $5,000 awaits the ultimate winner. Another for $3,000 will be paid to the girl who achieves the rank of runner up, and $2,000 goes to the one who makes third place.

Total of $20,000 in Prizes.

With the $100 prizes now being distributed, aggregating $10,000 a week, and the grand prizes, a total of $20,000 will be given to the lucky girls. Selection for one of the Sunday awards neither helps nor hinders a girl's prospect of being chosen queen.

There are no rules to be complied with but the ones published. No contestant will be asked to pay an entry fee or to sell subscriptions. The tone of the entire competition is being kept at a level which insures that any parent may permit a daughter's participation without misgivings.

The primary quality to be considered in selecting both the weekly and the grand prize winners is not beauty, but feminine charm. It is desirable, but not indispensable, that the girls who win through the final, personal competition, have pretty features and a graceful figure, but they will not be elected on the basis of how well they may look in the role of a queen, but how fittingly they can carry such distinction.

The second $1,000 is going. The third is in prospect. Which one are you going to share? Next Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE tells the second chapter. Now is the time to enter!

Officials announced yesterday the addition of Mrs. Howard Ellis to the list of seven judges already named to elect the queen. Mrs. Ellis is well known in social and in art circles of Chicago. She has done a great deal of newspaper and magazine illustration.

BIND COUPLE, ROB HOME, APOLOGIZE FOR IT AND FLEE

Two apologetic bandits escaped with $70 and clothing valued at $100 yesterday in a robbery of the home of E. B. Ensminger, 5709 Hillcrest road, Downers Grove. The bandits, wearing white masks, bound and gagged Mr. and Mrs. Ensminger with adhesive tape. After they had ransacked the house, one of them said to the couple:

"We are very sorry to have to do this, but we are out of work and have no money. We hope we have not frightened you or caused you any discomfort."

The bandits then drove away in the Ensminger automobile, which was found later by the police several blocks from the house.

STATE ST. PLANS FOR 1933 FAIR ON 100TH BIRTHDAY

A Century of Progress Is Indorsed.

A century of progress on State street, from the days when it was a dirt road to its present position as the world's most concentrated retail shopping district, was celebrated yesterday at the annual meeting of the State Street council. Fittingly the meeting, held in the Palmer house, was largely taken up with the plans of the State street merchants for participation in A Century of Progress exposition, opening next June.

There were prepared speeches in which the occasion for the celebration, the 100th anniversary of the naming of State street, was discussed, but they were not read. To save time and to allow the entire meeting to be given over to the discussion of World's Fair plains the speeches were merely turned over to the secretary by their authors, Walter L. Gregory, president of the council, and Salem N. Baskin, a director.

Hear of Fair Accomplishments.

Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to the president of A Century of Progress, then told the merchants of the accomplishments of the Fair organization to date and urged them to take full advantage of the opportunity the exposition will present to the enterprising merchants of Chicago.

That his recommendation would be carried out was assured by the next two speakers, Mr. Baskin, who promised that during the Fair period State street would be more elaborately decorated than at any other time in history, and Gordon Strong, chairman of the board of the council, who suggested that a special committee be formed immediately for the purpose of cooperation between the Fair management and the State street merchants.

A Powerful Organization.

"The State Street council has never failed to accomplish what it has set out to do," he said. "We are, perhaps, one one the most powerful organizations in Chicago. If we decide to put our strength solidly behind the World's Fair it will be a greater success."

Before adjourning the council reelected the following directors to serve for three year terms: Salem N. Baskin, Henry G. Hart, D. F. Kelly, D. S. Komiss, Bruce MacLeish, Leon Mandel II., and William J. Rand Jr.

Attorney William B. Hale reported that amendments proposed by the council to the state sales tax had been accepted by the legislators sponsoring the measure. Because it considered the sales tax an emergency relief measure the council did not oppose the bill.

NITTI INDICTED FOR SHOOTING OF DETECTIVE

A true bill charging assault to commit murder was reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday against Frank Nitti, gang leader once identified with Al Capone. The grand jury was said to have fixed bond of $10,000 on the charge. Nitti is alleged to have shot Detective Harry Lang during a raid on the gangster's headquarters in the La Salle-Wacker building. Nitti was shot three times in the raid and is convalescing from his wounds. A charge of assault with a deadly weapon is pending against the hoodlum in the Felony court. A recent motion of his attorney that Nitti be allowed to go to Florida to recuperate was denied by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

Seek Motive for Bombing of Apartment Building

The Summerdale police yesterday sought a motive for the bombing of an apartment building at 6040-42 Kenmore avenue earlier in the day. The bomb was exploded in the front hallway and aroused thirty families living there. Damage to the structure was estimated at $200. Union trouble was discounted as a theory when police learned that cleaning and decorating work done recently in the building was by union labor. A union janitor is employed on the premises, it was said.

Judge Grants New Delay in City State Bank Case

The City State bank case, which has been on the docket of the Criminal court since April 29, 1931, was continued yesterday until Feb. 7 by Chief Justice John Prystalski. Seymour Stedman, once Socialist candidate for mayor, and seven other officials of the closed bank are charged with accepting deposits while knowing the bank to be insolvent. Judge Phystalski continued the case to await decision of the judges' executive committee on his request that a judge be assigned to hear nothing but bank cases.

WINDOW PEEPER FINED $25.

Morris Evans, 28 years old, 7709 Laflin street, arrested Monday night while peeping in a bedroom window at 7710 Bishop street, was fined $25 and costs yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan on a charge of disorderly conduct.

AUTO INDUSTRY IS PRAISED FOR ITS PROGRESS

But There's More to Be Done, Engineers Say.

BY HAL FOUST.

The 1933 motor cars, on display this week at the National Automobile show, were praised last night by Leonard V. Newton, chairman, at the annual dinner of the Chicago section of the Society of Automotive Engineers. The meeting was held in the Congress hotel.

"Notwithstanding the depression," Mr. Newton said, "the automobile industry, through the creativeness, ability and courage of its leaders, has progressed in the safety, performance and style of America's highway vehicles."

William B. Stout, Detroit automotive and aeronautical engineer, credited the 1933 models with a decided advancement in scientific designing but declared that there was still much to be done in developing motor cars.

Suggestions for Improvement.

"The automobiles are being streamlined better than ever before," Mr. Stout said, "but most of the cars could be run backwards at a saving of 30 per cent in gasoline consumption. The average motor car is still a buggy with an engine placed between the shafts.

"Sound engineering would dictate that the engines be placed in the rear of the vehicles so that noise and odors would not interfere with passengers. This would also give the cars better balance.

"Passengers are now placed over the rear axles, the worse place there is for bouncing. The buggies drawn by horses had a better place for the passengers, but the automobile designers had to make a place for the engines ahead of the whip seat.

Says Space Is Wasted.

"There is a lot of space wasted on these conventional automobiles. Look at the running boards, occupying road room for no purpose. Why shouldn't this space be placed inside the vehicles?

"As for style, the science of art appeal has entirely been overlooked. The appearance of today's automobile happened—it wasn't designed. The manufacturers are still copying surreys and phaetons of the last century. There are some radically new things in art, beautiful and of forceful appeal, that have not been employed."

Norman K. Shidle of Philadelphia, former directing editor of Chilton Class Journal company, was the next speaker. He made a statement that might be interpreted as an answer to Mr. Stout. He said that manufacturers must follow public taste.

Rockford City Officials to Receive 25 Pct. Pay Cut

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Rockford's city officials and department heads will receive a 25 to 40 per cent cut in salary effective May 1. The city council decided last night to reduce the pay of police and firemen, including the chiefs, 25 per cent below the 1931 scale. Other city employes will work six hours a day.

NOTES OF AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Exhibitors at the National Automobile show in the Coliseum this week continued yesterday to report sales and attendance ahead of last year's show. The attendance, they said, exceeds the boom years. A. Van Der Zee, Dodge general sales manager, said his dealers have sold 45 per cent more Dodges and Plymouths so far this year than they did in January, 1932.

George H. Bird, president of Bird-Sykes, local Graham distributor, yesterday indorsed the west side elevated highway project as an aid to traffic that would increase the motor car market in this territory by making an automobile more valuable to its owner.

E. H. McCarty, president of Nash, in an address yesterday before his company's dealers, said that "we can't hope for an appreciable upturn in business—automobile or otherwise—until the politicians and the men responsible for our governmental functions in every division, national, state, county, and municipal, settle down to reduce the expenses of government."

John N. Willys, who resigned as American ambassador to Poland last year to return to the automobile industry, yesterday in a talk before his dealers predicted a bright future for the low priced 1933 Willys, with its extreme stream lining, introduced by his company at the motor show.

Charles E. Gambill, Chicago Hupmobile distributor, is observing the manufacturer's silver anniversary by having two silver finished 1933 Hupps tour the streets during motor show week.

ED FACES TWO WIVES AND COURT FULL OF TROUBLE

Marital Woes Just a Start for Him.

Mrs. Sophie Perina Schaffer, 26 years old, 6909 Lowe avenue, and Mrs. Emma Blaeser Schaffer, 27 years old, 6807 South Union avenue, appeared yesterday before Police Magistrate John H. Ehardt of Berwyn. Between them stood their mutual husband, Edwin Schaffer, 44 years old, a garage mechanic.

"He married me on the day after Valentine's day in 1930," sobbed Sophie, a blonde. "And he left me in October."

"We were married on Halloween last year," said Emma, a brunette. She smiled at the judge.

Magistrate Ehardt considered. Schaffer, a bald man, edged toward his first wife and put his arm about her. Questioned by the judge, Mrs. Sophie Schaffer agreed to take her husband back.

Offers to Give Him Up.

"And you?" Magistrate Ehardt asked wife No. 2, "will you let him go?"

"Sure," agreed Mrs. Emma Schaffer, "he's a pretty good fellow."

"I don't know how you do it," Magistrate Ehardt told Schaffer. "These women certainly believe in you. Turn around and let the spectators see a man like you."

Schaffer did so and immediately realized his error. Clamor broke out in the courtroom. A man thrust under the defendant's nose a check for $20 bearing Schaffer's signature and the letters N. S. F.

"He stole a house jack from me," charged John Fitzpatrick, a janitor.

"And he's got my watch," added Edward Kastel, 6838 Windsor avenue, Berwyn.

Told to Settle Debts.

"We'll settle it this way," Magistrate Ehardt ruled. "Give back the watch, pay for the house jack, make good the check, and pay Emma $100 to get the marriage annulled. I'll continue the case until Feb. 28 to allow you to get the money."

Schaffer agreed and said that he could go immediately in search of money.

"Just a minute, your honor," the court clerk interrupted, "he's never put up the $5,000 bond."

Schaffer was returned to the county jail. The case will be reopened on Feb. 28.

$750,000 CICERO BOND ISSUE WINS, BY 8,288 TO 5,364

Cicero voters, at a special election yesterday, approved the issuance of $750,000 in bonds, the proceeds of the sale to be used to pay city employes' salaries and other indebtedness of the municipality. The vote was 8,288 for and 5,364 against the proposition. City officials, it was said, have had requests for information from a number of prospective purchasers of the bonds, which are to bear 6 per cent interest. Policemen, firemen and other city workers in Cicero have been unpaid since July 1.

Inquest to Investigate Girl's Death from Poison

An inquest will be held today at the county morgue into the death of Miss Ruth Berman, 27 years old, 1836 South Hamlin avenue, who died from poisoning in a room of the Hoover hotel, 2358 Jackson boulevard, on Monday night. Her aunt, Mrs. Rose Korogodsky, 1836 South Hamlin avenue, with whom she lived, told the police she had been in good spirits and knew of no reason why she should end her life. Miss Berman had been missing for twelve hours when she was found unconscious in the hotel room where she had registered.

ROBBERS MENACE 50 IN INSURANCE OFFICE; GET $500

Seven bandits armed with sawed-off shotguns invaded the branch office of the Prudential Life Insurance Company of America at 3959 Ogden avenue yesterday and escaped with $500 after threatening 50 employes. The robbers are believed to be members of the gang that has taken $6,000 in holdups of three branch offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in the last two weeks.

E. M. Berger, manager of the branch office, six girl stenographers, and 43 salesmen were lined up against the wall by the robbers yesterday. They found the safe empty, but took $500 from a cash drawer. Then the robbers started to search the salesmen, but gave it up when the first two salesmen yielded only a few dollars in change.

INDIANA EDITOR PROVES TOWN'S STORM CENTER

Huntington Banks Cause Arrest; He Fights.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Huntington, Ind., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—This community of 14,000 is excited over a battle between a local editor and the town's banks. It may afford unique material for future historians, recording this strange and stirring period in America.

With sentiment widely divided, with bitterness in the air, the stranger in Huntington finds an accurate judgment difficult, but these are some of the conceded facts:

Editor Claire W. H. Bangs of the Huntington News has been arrested for criminal libel and slander against a bank. He is at liberty on $5,000 bond pending trial.

The electric light and power current, gas and steam for his printing plant and office have been disconnected.

Back to Simple Life.

Bangs' telephone service has been cut off. He has continued publication of his newspaper by running one press by automobile engine power.

His typesetting is done by hand, the printers working by the light of oil and gasoline lamps. Coal burning stoves heat his office.

All three banks in this city have closed within the last week. A moratorium has been declared by the mayor, making every day a legal holiday.

Business has been crippled by the lack of means for cashing checks and conducting other financial operations.

He's a Good Natured Man.

Amidst all the furore Editor Bangs, lawyer and former college president, sits quietly in his office, turning out trenchant editorials, chuckling over them. He is variously described in this city as "a menace to civilization" and "a boon to humanity." He is having a good time.

Bangs asserts that the enmity of the banks against him is a conspiracy to throttle his utterances against their operations. Representatives of the banks declared Bangs has caused their closing by his statements. They add the banks are in good condition and soon will reopen when sufficient guarantees have been obtained from depositors not to withdraw their funds immediately.

Pay Roll Starts Fight.

The trouble started last October 26 when, according to Bangs, the First State bank canceled a deposit against which his pay roll checks had been issued and applied it on a debt which the editor owed to the bank. He asserted that the action was deliberate and unnecessary.

He sued the bank for $50,000, charging that the action had hurt his credit. Bangs' editorials became more caustic in tone. He admitted freely in them that he probably would be arrested eventually for libel and asserted that he would run the paper from the county jail, if necessary. He accused his enemies of seeking to have merchants remove their advertising from his newspaper and of threatening his carrier boys.

The whole county was soon talking about his editorials. His circulation jumped from 3,200 to 4,500. There is one other newspaper in this city, The Herald Press. It has refrained from joining in the argument. Two weeks ago, Bangs charged, his union printers were induced to quit work. He thereupon put the printing plant on an open shop basis. A circular broadcast in the town declared, however, that the union men quit because they have $4,500 in salaries coming to them. On Jan. 23 seven affidavits charging criminal libel and slander were filed against Bangs by John R. Emley, president of the First State bank. The editor was arrested and held for several hours until bail was provided. He went immediately to his paper and was there met with another blow.

Electric Power Shut Off.

The Northern Indiana Power company had shut off the electric power, gas, steam, and light. Not daunted, Bangs sent out for lamps and stoves. An automobile engine was connected with the press. Setting their type laboriously by hand, the typesetters got together an edition which was only an hour and a half late.

In this issue Bangs carried a streamer announcing his arrest and told of the shutting off of his power. He described the action of the power company in the following language:

"Silence and darkness reigned, except for the brilliant glow radiating from the sarcastic grin of the commanding officer of the power company."

Bangs attributed this action of the power company to his newspaper's campaign for lower electric light and gas rates. Petitions for lowering of the rates are now pending before the public service commission of Indiana.

Other Side of Picture.

The other side of the picture was by Attorneys Milo Feightner and Lee M. Bowers, representing both the bank and the power company. "The only conspiracy here is a conspiracy to collect some of Bangs' manifold debts," they said. He owed $700 to the power company and a $200 telephone bill when these services were finally cut off, after many warnings.

"His utterances, both written and verbal, caused runs on the banks in town, causing the declaration of the moratorium."

The attorneys said Bangs formerly was head of the United Brethen college, now the Huntington college, a small institution here; studied law at Columbia and in Paris, returning to Huntington to practice. He was an eccentric figure in the courts for some years and purchased the newspaper a year ago when it was insolvent. Personal animosity against the bankers was the cause of the editorial attacks upon them, the lawyers asserted.

Mayor Remains Neutral.

Mayor Zach T. Dungan refused to be drawn into the controversy. He expressed confidence that the banks will reopen soon.

"Huntington is in good financial shape," he said. "Bradstreet reports it in the best financial condition of any fourth class town in Indiana."

The trial on charges of criminal libel against Bangs has not been set. The editor said he would insist upon a hearing soon.

WOMAN RECIPIENT OF EXTORTION NOTES ATTACKED; FELLED

Burlington, Ia., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Louise Christensen, 20, recipient of three extortion notes recently, was knocked unconscious last night by an unidentified assailant near a garage at the rear of her home.

Miss Christensen was struck from behind while locking the garage doors. She screamed as she fell and neighbors who ran to her assistance reported they saw a man flee.

She was unable to identify her assailant. Police guarded her home the remainder of the night.

Between Friday and Sunday Miss Christensen received three notes and numerous telephone calls demanding that she leave $500 in a park lane Sunday night, police said. The demands were considered a hoax until last night's attack.

JURY SAYS MIX OWES MILLER $66,000 DAMAGES

Erie, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP)—A jury today awarded Zack T. Miller, Oklahoma rancher and showman, $66,000 damages against Tom Mix, movie cowpuncher.

Miller alleged Mix broke a contract to appear with Miller's 101 Ranch show and sued for $342,000. Two years ago a jury awarded Miller $90,000, but the case was appealed and a new trial granted.

The jury of ten men and two women deliberated eighteen hours after hearing testimony for two weeks and a day.

Miller left last night for Oklahoma. Mix went to Chicago with his third wife, Mabel Ward Mix, and his daughter, Ruth.

Miller alleged Mix had agreed to go with his show in 1929 for $10,000 a week and then joined the Sells-Floto circus. Mix denied accepting any offer from Miller.

TRUCK OF GROCERIES STOLEN.

Thieves yesterday stole a truck containing $100 worth of canned goods from the street in front of a produce house at 101 South Water market. The driver, James Phillips, who is employed by Royal Blue Food Stores, Inc., of Lake Forest, was in the market when the thieves drove away.

THE DODGE "8" SEDAN

EVEN OLD-TIME AUTO MEN HAD TO CHEER THIS BRILLIANT NEW Dodge "8"

"In a year of exceptional values it's the car of cars" they say . . .

From all over America they came—these Dodge dealers. Veterans of a score of motor car selling campaigns, they were hard-boiled, skeptical. Every year, for twenty years, they had seen new cars presented. Their capacity for enthusiasm had been dulled by time.

So they came to see this brilliant new Dodge "8" . . . came prepared to see "just another car". But they stayed to cheer! They had to cheer a car that dares to challenge the whole world with its unheard of value.

Powerful . . . smooth . . . built with the strength of an army tank and the precision of a fine watch—and yet a car that's priced no higher than ordinary eights.

There's a new beauty to this great Dodge "8"—a new sweep to its streamlined body, a new flair to its modern style. Completely equipped—in the deluxe manner. Soft, restful upholstery—smart fixtures, many of lustrous ivory—plenty of room for the driver—plenty of room for the passengers.

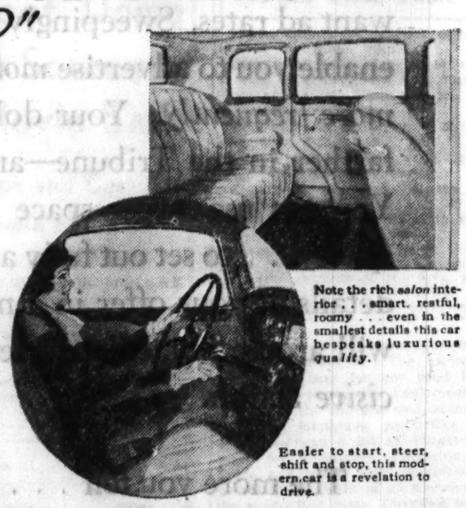

Many thrilling new features

Driving it is a joy. It's so effortless! The 100 horse power high compression head Dodge "8" engine—with Floating Power engine mountings—assures smooth riding, free from vibration. The gears are quiet in all speeds, even reverse. Special "Oilite" springs—with metal covers—can't squeak. An automatic clutch has a special control which enables even inexperienced drivers to shift without jerking the car. And starting is made sure, certain—regardless of weather—by a simple new system. You turn on the ignition, step on the accelerator, and presto! your engine is running.

Every safety feature is built into the big Dodge "8" for your protection. Strong Mono-piece steel bodies are insulated against heat and cold and noise. The Duplate safety plate glass windshield is non glare and shatter-proof. The double-drop bridge-type frame is ten times as strong as ordinary frame construction. It provides a low center of gravity—you can swing around sharp turns with safety. Hydraulic brakes with Centrifuse drums assure quick, certain stopping. They're always equalized, always balanced—practically abolish skidding. A magnificent 122-inch wheelbase car.

Just take a look at this new Dodge "8". Drive it. Lift the hood. Examine the engine, the frame. No matter what kind of car you've been driving, the Dodge "8" will be a revelation to you—a quality car at a lower price.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Society Sees the New Styles at Auto Show

Body Features Interest City's Women.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

There is the story about the well known Chicago matron who has very definite and fastidious ideas concerning her motor car. Two years ago visiting the automobile show she found a sedan to her particular liking, high enough to save the top of her head, yet low enough to hold the road, fast yet not too fast.

Before placing her order she visited the stable garage back of her ancestral town house, took stock of the several electrics and steam cars that had come down from one generation to the next, and decided on a general house cleaning. The result was four new motors, all the same model, the same size, and the same color to last her for at least ten years.

The sequel to this story has its setting in the present. Yesterday this same matron visited the Coliseum and found a car even more to her liking than the 1930 model. Two of her four cars she had given strenuous use. The other two have merely taken the places of the antiquated electrics that used to decorate the family barn. On Saturday she will decide whether there will be another purchase of two, three or four.

Society is going to the automobile show this year in bigger numbers than ever before. Every day finds well known persons tramping the Coliseum and studying the revolutionary details of the new motorized vehicles.

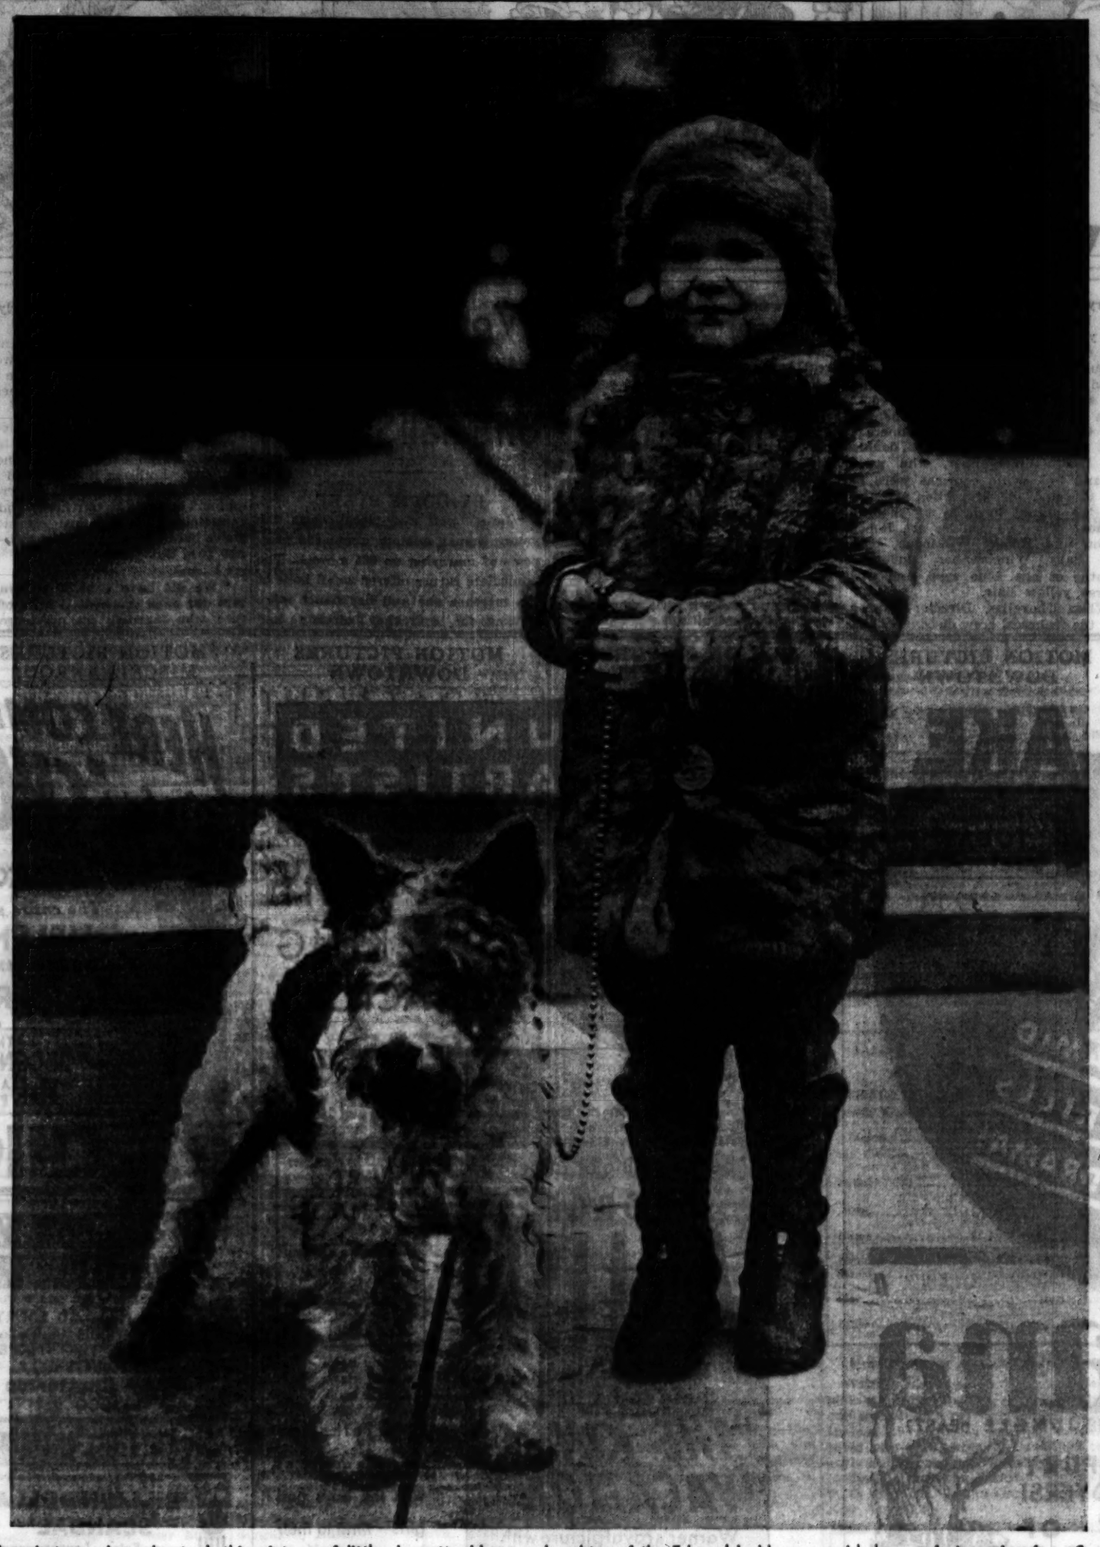

Mrs. Warren Wright went the other day and saw and bought a convertible phaeton to match Mr. Wright's seven passenger sedan. Beige leather, red disc wheels, and oversize chromium plate hubs are the style notes in the new car.

Women in particular look for the unusual in buying their automobiles, the salesmen explain. This year the new style windows that keep perfectly arranged coiffures nicely in place, pockets in the dashboard that provide for gloves and packages, ash trays on every door, and tonneau radios get attention of the women. And, as one young woman pointed out, "the steering wheels that barely have to be touched," all of which goes to prove that the hand that rocks the cradle can run the motor.

By way of contrast with these ultra-modern automobiles there has been on exhibit at the show the town car that Potter Palmer used in the early 1900s. Now it is the property of a west sider.

Probably no visitor to the show remembers motoring hazards in the early days as well as Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart. The Barnharts bought their first car at the second automobile show in 1901. It was the forty-second car licensed in Illinois, and Mrs. Barnhart was the twelfth woman in the state to receive a license after she had passed tests for color blindness and heart disease. She will never forget the summer she went out on the west side to prove to several of the city's aldermen that cars were sufficiently controlled to warrant the increasing of the speed limit from six to fifteen miles an hour.

On Her Way from Sunday School

The photographer who took this picture of little Jeanette Hersey, daughter of the Edward L. Herseys, said she was just coming from Sunday school at St. Chrysostom's when he took the picture, but he neglected to state whether Wee Mon, her puppy had been there with her or had waited outside the parish house while his little mistress was inside. Jeanette and Wee Mon are not apart many hours of the day, however, except when she is taking her nap. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Long Sleeves on Nightgowns Win Shoppers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The shopping hours you spend among the lingerie collections of 1933 will make you feel like a Mrs. Christopher Columbus because of the many clever things you discover.

For instance, the long sleeved nightgown . . . you may have had the idea that such things were buried in the well swaddled memories of the past, but such is not the truth . . . you can find some deleriously fashioned long sleeved varieties that will completely charm you with their naive frills, the artless simplicity of rows of French knots, hand hemstitchings and all the demure-ish decorations that are particularly right for such unsophisticated models.

You will see some rather amusing numbers with high curving necklines closely patterned after those worn by dear old Aunt Tillie . . . the kind that grimly buttoned circumspectly close to the throat . . . but this year the gowns are of luxuriously soft silk and the fetching bits of lace that trim them are almost sinfully fragile. The long sleeves are coquettishly edged with lace and the cuffs are embroidered.

You'd never think any female in her right mind would deliberately wear sleeping apparel copied from a museum model of grandpa's pet night shirt, but you will find any number of new long sleeved nightgowns, minus the side slits, but with swanky masculine necklines, tailored precisely, and then ornamented with trailing patterns of hand embroidery or fine drawn work or rows and rows of infinitesimally narrow hand run tucks.

Tailored flat sleeves with turnover cuffs complete the illusive tailored swank of these good looking models, and you may buy them in either flesh or white.

The nimble fingers of the Porto Rican women have fashioned some gayly feminine nightgowns with utilitarian warm long sleeves. These models have tiny scalloped necklines, cuffs, and yokes of lovely embroidered patterns. These exquisitely embroidered nightgowns are quite the smartest things you can buy. One short shopping trip will prove it!

Any temporarily housebound invalid will be more than satisfied to wear the more dramatic appearing long sleeved new nightgowns made of flesh colored satin combined with matching georgette and chiffon. One delectably pink thing looks like an evening gown . . . the skirt is long, flares around the ankles, the top is cut with the fashionable wide sleeves to the elbow, and then closely fitted from the elbow to the wrist. The top is either georgette or chiffon with narrow bands of flesh colored satin appliqued as trimming, and the skirt section is of soft satin, tied with a sash of satin.

Saturday Favorite Wedding Day of Society Brides This Spring

Many Girls Consider March and April Dates; Florence Crane Will Be Wed Feb. 18.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FROM present indications it would seem that every Saturday during the spring will be the wedding day of one or more fashionable brides, for although practically no one who plans to be a bride this spring has set a definite date yet, a number of them have announced that they will be married "in March or April, probably."

Florence Carr, whose engagement to Edgar L. Marston II. was announced recently, is to be an April bride, but the date is not set yet. She is sure, however, that St. Chrysostom's will be the scene of the nuptials and this will be good news to her many friends, for it undoubtedly means that it will be at least a fairly large wedding.

So many girls are choosing to have small weddings nowadays with only the families present that their friends are cheated out of seeing them when they take their marriage vows, so it is a distinct relief to know that the lovely Miss Carr will walk down the aisle of St. Chrysostom's when she becomes the bride of the young easterner who has won her heart and hand.

"Early April" is the time chosen by Miss Florence Higinbotham for her marriage to John Skelton Williams Jr. of Richmond, Va., and although the date isn't definite it is definite that the wedding will be small and will be solemnized at Harlowarden, the residence of her father, Harlow D. Higinbotham, in Joliet.

Miss Crane to be Bride, Feb. 18

Miss Higinbotham's cousin, Miss Florence Crane, whose engagement announcement to William A. Robinson of New York created such surprise when her mother, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., made it on Jan. 8, is to be married on the 18th of this month at the residence of her mother, 1550 Lake Shore drive. It is to be an afternoon wedding, but no other details are settled yet, Mrs. Crane says.

Miss Constance Hasler and Miss Marjorie Horton both decided that March 18 would be the ideal wedding date, but since it would complicate matters if both these young Lake Forest girls were married on that Saturday afternoon (for they have the same friends and both are planning to be married in the Church of the Holy Spirit) Miss Horton—because her engagement to Winston Elting was announced after Miss Hasler's to John McL. Simpson was made public—decided to set another date.

Miss Hasler then changed her mind, too, so now both dates are indefinite, although it is probable that Miss Hasler and Mr. Simpson will settle on March 18 and Miss Horton and Mr. Elting probably will be married a bit later that month. Both couples will go to Florida on their wedding trips, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson by plane and Mr. and Mrs. Elting by motor. Young Elting and his bride are to live in the Winnetka residence of his father, Victor Elting, which burned last year and which has been rebuilt and will be ready for their occupancy when they return from Florida.

Miss Marion McFadden, whose en-

Artist Describes Dioramas to Be Shown at Fair

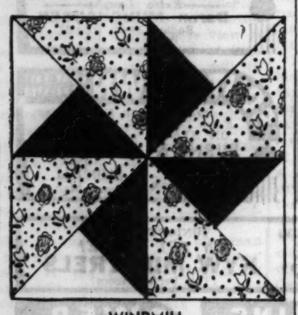

"A diorama," said Edward J. Ashenden yesterday afternoon, "is a picture in three dimensions, length, breadth, and depth."

Members of the English Speaking union and their guests, gathered for a cup of tea at the Tavern club, were Mr. Ashenden's audience. An English artist, with A Century of Progress, Mr. Ashenden came to answer the many questions concerning dioramas members of the union have asked of their president, Everett L. Millard.

Examples of these unsual pictures which will be used for purposes of exhibit during the fair were on display in the upper lounge of the Tavern.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne was looking springlike with a flower pinned to the collar of her mink coat. Others observed during the tea hour were Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, Mrs. Paul J. Healy, Mrs. Herbert Bradley, Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. Everett L. Millard, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, and Mrs. Norman L. Pritchard with her seven foot house guest, Heinrich-Detlief Sahm, son of the lord mayor of Berlin.

'Windmill' Quilt Is as Popular Today as Ever

WINDMILL

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Windmill" design is based on the fundamental four-patch quilt block, made up with a few embellishments. The four-patch is simply a single block cut into four equal squares. The windmill effect, then, is developed by cutting each of the squares of a light four-patch and a dark four-patch diagonally and combining the resultant triangles in an alternating color arrangement. The simplicity, popularity, and variations of the "Windmill" make it difficult to trace its origin. It is found in every locality.

For a pattern of the "Windmill" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Simple Beauty Treatment May Be Home Made

Rid the Face of Small Blemishes.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

No, "Jean," in answer to your inquiry, blackheads are not always caused by a dirty skin. The latter will exaggerate them, to be sure; even form blackheads. But blackheads are sometimes caused by glandular disturbances, chiefly noted in the girl and boy of the age of puberty. And they are caused by congestion of the oil glands. The oil is not thrown off normally; it becomes caked, and surface dirt readily finds a resting place here, which inspires the theory of the blackhead being only dirt.

Yes, "Jean," steaming is still regarded as helpful in the extraction of these small skin pests. Not too frequent steaming, but my opinion is that even frequent steaming, when followed by a cold rinse, is beneficial rather than the reverse where there is need of pore cleansing. It would not do, however, to steam the face nightly without taking the precaution to close the pores with the cold water tonic. Besides, the cold water is corrective in effect. It stimulates the circulation and helps the pores to throw off this excess sebum easily.

After the steaming, which is best done by application of towels wrung out of hot water, wind soft clean tissue around your finger tips and, pressing lightly, extract such pore content as will remove easily. Wait until another night for the stubborn ones' eviction. Don't press too hard on the skin. There is the small instrument known as a comedone extractor you may use intead of the fingers. For safety's sake just wipe the area being worked on with some sterilizing agent. This is wise where there is any pimple formation.

I do think where there is constant eruption of the skin a doctor should be consulted to determine whether or not there is a gland condition to be battled with or some other constitutional disorder. But in any event, as the doctor will advise, too, soap and water must be looked upon as a friend, not as an enemy.

Test of Child's Intelligence Aids Teachers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Intelligence tests began to come in for a great deal of abuse several years ago. This was due largely to the fact, I think, that many extremists gave tests which were in an experimental stage and then abided blindly by their results. Some absurd conclusions were drawn as to children's mental capacities and some of the ridicule was deserved and wholesome.

But intelligence tests have been tremendously improved. They still have their limitations, as those who make them admit. Terman, the well known psychologist of Leland Stanford university, who has done so much work on the revision of tests, himself says their shortcomings should not be lost sight of. It cannot be claimed for them that they can be used to gauge every kind of mental ability.

Terman says, "It is recognized that apart from general intelligence there are special abilities and various combinations of personality traits which contribute significantly to any individual's social value." So, we must be cautious in using these tests as the measure of the whole child.

There are things about him as an individual which do not appear in a test result. But valuable things can be gathered from the use of intelligence tests, even if they are far from perfect and comprehensive.

Good morning!

Peek-a-boo, we know you, you little old Teapot Dome oil scandal, you!

"The Billion Dollar Scandal" sucked its plot idea from a certain mess brewed in Washington during the Harding régime, and aims, none too aptly, at being a satire.

The story told is of an ex-convict, Fingers Partos by name, who gets out on parole, and in the course of time hires out as physical instructor to one Masterson, whose big business in life is fleecing the government out of rich oil properties, and who converses freely with his co-cheaters in the presence of his masseur.

Masterson has a daughter, Doris, who falls in love with Fingers' brother, Babe. Whereat Masterson pulls a fast one on Fingers, who has been rolling up a neat fortune from tips overheard in the gymnasium, steam room, etc., and while sashaying about the financier's household.

Fingers and Babe lose their all. The former, bent on revenge, falls in with an astute editor, who points out a way to vengeance, fame, and glory through spilling beans to a congressional investigating committee. The ex-convict becomes a hero for one brief hour. . . . See picture for final results.

Some of the dialogue and situations are fairly intriguing; you'll like Robert Armstrong a lot as Fingers; be keen for Constance Cummings as Doris, and accord your unstinted approval to the work of all members of the supporting cast. Direction shows considerable skill—and here was a story that needed direction! What a punk would have done to it would have been just too bad!

"She Done Him Wrong" is low-brow comedy drama staged in a Bowery saloon and dance hall of the '90s. It is as high minded as the shifty eyed youth who chalks foul words on sign boards and as subtle as a barnyard romance. It has a little fun and a lot of filth and makes one ponder anew the whyfor of Mr. Hays and censor boards. The "For Adults Only" sign is a mistake. This should read "For Hicks Only."

See you tomorrow.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town for a carpenter. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island, but her small brother says their mother would have a fit. Bart senses a family secret. Ingy sends help and taxies home. Bart learns that the Bayleys have lived on the island fifteen years, but don't mix. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. Bart is left with the care of his invalid mother. The family lawyer gives Bart a letter left for him by his father, in which he confesses to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his mother's sake, to guard the secret and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. He returns two weeks later with the legacy. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcée, drops in on Bart frequently.

INSTALLMENT XV.

A FIREPROOF DAMSEL.

Methodically as a high priestess consigned to ritual, Mrs. Burgess ordered Cummings about and Bart about, and the cemetery assistant. White roses, withered in the urns, were thrown away, the water changed, the fresh blossoms unwrapped from their wax paper wrappings. She scolded the dull man for spilling water, dropping a spray of flowers, putting his foot on the neat grave. But at last Trevor Burgess was decked with the little pink bells, which seem to be forever ringing salvation to a sin-trod world.

"Darling," said Mrs. Burgess, and her frail arm was like a vine around Bart's big waist; "I'm sure he knows these flowers are here."

"He must, mother." Mechanically.

She was crying again, so he took her softly in his arms. Then she dried her eyes and considered the velvet grave, the tender flowers, the frosty headstone.

"I didn't have time to think up an inscription. Nobody consulted me. Bart, dear, we must have one chiseled in. Something about your father as he was."

Bart hesitated. A savage grudge had hold of him and a great pity for his mother. She was standing there, fond eyes on the grave, waiting for his decision.

"Office work," she said, "is wearing you down, Big Boy. How old are the stenographers in that old office of yours?"

"There's a line from Horace," he mumbled.

"But Horace was a heathen poet," she objected.

"Awfully human," said Bart. Then he quoted: "Integer vitæ, scelerisque purus."

"What does that mean?"

"Honest of life, free of sin."

Mrs. Burgess thought it over. "Will you see Mr. Stein, the stonemason?" she said. "I think it's beautiful."

And now Bart Burgess knew, more vividly than before, that his mother must be fed upon the fair illusion which meant life to her.

This was an incident in the days which he spent in waiting for something—for nothing. The big house, however much they aired it, had the stuffy smell of Victorian upholstery and ancient varnish; the shackles of regularity and order. Punctual meal time, bed time, church time; regular bedrooms to be occupied by relatives of the Burgess and Wyatt blood. Sometimes Bart's mind would open tolerantly, permitting him to see his father's hunger for society outside the rut of family life.

Alone, trying to keep up a brave face before his mother, Bart felt that more and more he must appear like an actor, pretending that all was right as right could be in the best of all possible worlds, that he, now the head of the family, was prepared to meet all questions as they came up. It would have been so much easier if the Folly island people had turned out, as he had anticipated, to be a litter of howling brats, led by a cheap adventuress, grasping for his father's bribe. But ah, the pride of those women, and their bravery!

He found a certain forgetfulness in his father's insurance business, a routine which drugged him away from his inclinations, pulling one against the other. Coming home at night it was never so easy. On fair days he would find his mother at work in the garden. These widows. Softly they ply their trowels among the roots of poppies, veronicas, and sweet williams, letting the fragrant faces of their flowers take the place of a departed love. Seeing her, he would think again uneasily of the secret woman on Folly island, preoccupied with the carnival colors of her own flowers beds.

"The Garden club prize!" he said one evening, kissing her when he found her there. "Everything in place. I'll bet if I stole a lump of dirt you'd know it."

"I do hate a messy garden." Glowing in his praise. And that was the philosophy of the Burgesses. No messy gardens.

Before Trevor Burgess' collapse his house had enjoyed waves of gayety when he had insisted on a big party and brought out the best he had in his wine cellar. Bart could invite in young people, too; the immense hall and wide drawing rooms offered a good dance floor, and Mrs. Burgess was gently tolerant of the noise. Wyatt McCall, Bart's classmate at Yale, used to have a way of whistling him up for a tennis match or a dance.

But everything was different now. Wy had gone away to medical school. If there was any sound in the house it was the murmurous voices of close relations. Mrs. Wyatt Wainwright, mother's sister-in-law, a placid, incoherent person. Maj. Justin Burgess, a small vice president in a large banking house. Aunt Augusta Forrester, an enormous spinster who lived precariously at Newport; not in the blatant Bellevue avenue part of Newport. Perish the thought. But down by the water in the old town, in an eighteenth century house with rooms that might have been drawn by Howard Pyle. Bart as a child had gazed through the multi-paned windows overlooking the dancing waters and gray destroyers of Newport harbor.

He sat up and played bridge if family connections were enough to make up a table, and he tried to lull his inner mind to sleep with the doling out of cards and squabbles over this trick and that.

Then, privileged as a second cousin, Mrs. Lind came often, and always with her was her daughter, Lora Sackett. Life and death being of no particular importance to her schedule, Lora remained atrocious, very female, full of disconcerting attacks and counter-attacks. One afternoon when her mother was upstairs with Mrs. Burgess Lora chose to torture Bart about the style of citizen he was becoming, she said. Her big brown eyes played all over him like dancing mice, and she pretended to pick a hair from his lapel.

"Office work," she said, "is wearing you down, big boy. How old are the stenographers in that old office of yours?"

"One of 'em's a grandmother."

She teetered on her high heels, like a yellowbird on a flower.

"That's good for home consumption, but you can't use it on me. Because I'm an experienced woman." Then she considered him and said: "I don't know. I still think you're one of the chilly kind of Burgess."

"I'm a flame, compared to you," he twitted. "If I fluttered around the way you do, I'd burn, at least twice a day."

"How do you know I don't?" A challenge.

"O, maybe you deserve to. But you don't burn. You're fireproof."

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE BIG PUSH

Youngest Film Star Has Two Tiny Doubles

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 31.—The newest and youngest star in the movies, Baby Leroy Winebrenner, who is not yet 12 months old, has the most doubles. Baby Winebrenner, who is playing opposite Maurice Chevalier as the affection interest in "Bedtime Story," may work only two hours a day before the camera, and you can bet your life there are trained nurses and other such representatives of the august state of California always on hand at Paramount studio to see that the state's two hour law is obeyed.

In order to get the full benefit of the two hours before the camera it was found necessary to get doubles for Baby Winebrenner, who would "stand in" while cameras were being adjusted and properties arranged for the actual business of shooting scenes. The two doubles are Robert Cazon and Robert Wilkinson, both, like Baby Winebrenner, under 12 months of age, blue eyed, and with sparse yellow hair.

When Chevalier, Director Taurog, and the technical crew discovered that Mrs. Gwenneth Winebrenner, widowed mother of the baby, was so poor that the baby had never had a ride in a real baby buggy, the whole group made up a pool, gathered $50, and ordered an ornate baby carriage delivered to the Paramount lot. The movie job was a windfall for the baby's mother, who spent six months in the Los Angeles Salvation Army home before the baby was born, and was there for six months afterward.

Sam Goldwyn has engaged Nunnally Johnson, short story writer, to indite the new Eddie Cantor story which is to start in May with a new crop of ornamental looking girls whom Goldwyn is now recruiting.

Women Tell of Happy Unions on Small Salaries

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Jane," you may recall, was the young woman dubious about the prospects of marrying on $35 a week. The immediate future offered small hope of the increase she and her fiancé were waiting for, and they already had been keeping company for nearly five years.

Well, "Jane" receives much encouragement to take the step from women who have found marriage can be practiced successfully on the named income per week.

Says "Ellie" in her advice to "Jane": "I was earning as much as my boy friend before he became my husband. Both my husband and I are college graduates and take a certain amount of pride in our home and surroundings. For the last six months we've been living on $35 a month—and not two, but three of us.

"We did have a bank account before our bank crashed. Plenty of couples who married in pre-depression days have as little as 'depression couples,' proving one can't bank on a perfectly secure future even after the year 1932 is forgotten.

"Luckily, happiness does not come tied up in dollars and cents. For me and hundreds like me one has to use ingenuity building a home of love and happiness for one's husband and babies with the salary men earn, meager as it may be. But, then, my husband at least is and always has been decidedly worth it."

"Marion" volunteers: "I am married to a man who makes $35 a week. I had more than 'Jane' before I married. My people were wealthy. I had a maid of my own. Yet I took the plunge—with many debts to be paid off that my husband had incurred.

Pick Saturday as Favorite of Wedding Days

Many Girls Consider March and April Dates.

gagement to wed "Jimmy" Hume was announced last October by her mother, Mrs. Parmalee J. McFadden, is still turning over in her mind dates in late March and early April as possible wedding dates, but she hasn't decided yet which date would be best. Until she sets the day she will not bother with any of the other plans, either.

Anne Schuttler Selects May

Anne Schuttler thinks May would be a nice month in which to become Mrs. Norris Love, but no date nor any other details have been settled as yet. She is the daughter of the Walter Schuttlers and her engagement to young Mr. Love was announced in November, the same day on which Margaret Dawes' engagement to Beverly Jefferson was made known. The Dawes-Jefferson wedding is to be in June, in town, where the family is living this winter, instead of at the Evanston residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes. It is to be a small wedding, with just the families present.

Dates in late March or early April are being considered by Miss Lucie Jacobs for her marriage to Willett N. Gorham. It will take place, of course, in Winnetka, where Miss Jacobs and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Jacobs, reside. Mr. Gorham is a son of the Sidney S. Gorhams of La Grange.

A June wedding to which Lake Forest society is looking forward is that of Miss Catherine Carton, daughter of the Alfred T. Cartons of that north shore town, who is engaged to be married to Paul P. Swett Jr of Hartford, Conn. "Kitty" Carton hasn't set the date nor has she decided whether she will have a large or a small wedding, but she is sure that she wants to be a June bride.

Betty Hart and Donald Bateman have no plans for their marriage and neither have Ethel Harmon and Edmund Gifford, although Miss Harmon is certain she won't become Mrs. Gifford this spring.

Peggy Glidden to Be Fall Bride

Peggy Glidden, who is sailing on Saturday of this week with her father, Henry L. Glidden, to spend several months abroad, will not become Mrs. John Roderic Rogers until next fall. She preceded her father east, leaving last Saturday to visit her fiancé and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Rogers, in Ausable Falls, N. Y., until time to meet her father in New York. Every one who knows the Gliddens is hoping that they will have a pleasant trip that will help to make less poignant their recent loss of Mrs. Glidden.

Miss Catherine Malloy, whose engagement to Paul B. Magnuson Jr. was announced recently, is leaving early this month for her winter residence at Miami Beach, and she does not plan to set a date for their marriage until she returns home in the spring. She has been ill since Thanksgiving and she cannot decide when to be married until she sees how much good the Florida sunshine and warmth do her.

Tea of Needlework Guild Tomorrow

The conservative Needlework and Textile guild which usually has members of its board of directors presiding at its elegant tea tables when it entertains is to have daughters of the board members pouring tomorrow afternoon at the tea that will follow Miss Elizabeth Day McCormick's informal talk. The talk, to start at 3 o'clock, will be given in the Allerton galleries of the Art institute, after which there will be a private view of Miss McCormick's collection of rare old costumes and then tea will be served.

"Explanation of Recent Importations of Costume" will be the subject of Miss McCormick's talk. Pouring will be Miss Harriet Borland, Miss Barbara Wendell, Miss Eleanor McCormick, Miss Geraldine Swift, Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Florence Crant, and Mrs. John I. Shaw [Barbara King].

Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, chairman of the radio division of the speakers' bureau of the Chicago Friends of Music, will entertain the women who have spoken or will speak over the radio for the organization at tea this afternoon at her residence, 209 Lake Shore drive.

The inaugural dinner of the Chicago branch of the Carl Schurz Memorial foundation to be given tonight in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house will be a notable affair.

Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann will be the principal speaker and Miss Jane Addams and President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university also will speak. Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Miss Eloise Re Qua, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Alfred H. Granger, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher [she is a grandniece of the late Carl Schurz], Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Miss Susan Follansbee, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Norval Pierce, the German Consul General and Mrs. Hugo Simon, and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nitze are a few of the 300 who will be there.

Yesterday Mrs. Stanley Field and her daughters, Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, started off by motor to spend an indefinite time in Sarasota, Fla., at the Fields' winter home. Mrs. Field's other daughter, Mrs. Russell Kelley, is leaving Thursday by train to join them in Florida.

John Borden Back in City.

John Borden and John Payne Kellogg arrived in town yesterday morning from a short southern holiday at Glenwild, Mr. Borden's plantation at Grenada, Miss. They brought with them news of Mrs. Borden who has been hostess to a round of house parties ever since she went south in November.

Today an article treating of some of the incidents of these house parties is to appear in a periodical under her nom de plume, and about three weeks hence her third book, "Adventures in a Man's World," will be off the press. It's due Feb. 21. The last two chapters of this story are devoted to quail hunting in Mississippi. Mrs. Borden's first book was "The Cruise of the Northern Light," published in 1929.

Before the new book comes out, however, Mrs. Borden is making a trip east to Washington and New York to attend a series of publishers' teas. This week-end she will be the guest of Mrs. W. T. Michie and Mrs. J. P. Norfleet in Memphis.

The Charles F. Glores, the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors, and Miss Edith Cummings have all been down to Glenwild this winter. And the Armours, Philip and Laurance, and the William H. Mitchells are others who recall quail shooting and deer hunts with the Bordens.

News Notes of Winter Travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Seaborn T. Whatley of 229 Lake Shore drive and their debutante daughter, Betty, returned yesterday from a vacation in Florida and immediately they will get busy packing and getting ready to move to Hartford, Conn. They plan to leave for there in about three weeks.

Mrs. Walter L. Fisher and Miss Margaret Fisher of Winnetka have returned from a lengthy sojourn in California. Miss Fisher went west in the early fall and after her mother's arrival a little later they took a house at Carmel. Miss Ruth Fisher, who is a student at Leland Stanford university, spent the Christmas holidays with them.

Frederick Stock will take a two weeks' vacation from his duties as conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and will leave Friday for Castle Hot Springs, Ariz., accompanied by Mrs. Stock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Harvey, who have lived in Kansas City and Mexico since their marriage two years ago, are back in Chicago to stay and they have taken an apartment at 1366 Dearborn parkway. In March Mrs. Byron S. Harvey is planning to go to California to visit Miss Catherine Harvey in her lovely home in Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Heyworth Heap, the former Virginia Skinkle, have taken an apartment at the Whitehall till they can find a house in the country. The Heaps returned last week from their wedding trip to England, where they stayed with Mr. Heap's family for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Chase Boyden and the "Archdeacon," as she affectionately calls her little son, who has completely recovered from double pneumonia, left yesterday for New York.

Marshall Dudley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Dudley of Kenilworth, leaves tomorrow to join the floating university in New York Saturday. Mr. Dudley will spend the next six months "getting education" in all corners of the world. He is in his junior year at Brown university at Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris S. Rosenfeld of the Lake Shore Drive hotel have left to spend the next two months in Cuernavaca, Mexico.

After Borden Wedding

John Alden Carpenter and his bride, the former Mrs. Waller Borden, leaving the old homestead of James Russell Lowell in Cambridge, Mass., after wedding ceremony.

THE STAGE

"The Desert Song" will be staged by the Chicago Operetta company at the Civic Opera house next Monday night, instead of next Sunday. This change in schedule will mark the beginning of a policy of no Sunday shows by this lyric stock company. The management has decided that the principals and chorus, who rehearse one show while performing another, need a day of rest once a week.

The search for a famous tenor for the rôle of the Red Shadow of the Riffs in "The Desert Song" has thus far been fruitless. Therefore it appears that Greek Evans will be cast as the hero of this musical romance. The part can be sung by a high baritone as easily as by a tenor.

Ben Jerome is retiring as musical director of the organization at the end of this week. He will be replaced by Isaac Van Grove, well-known Chicago orchestra leader who was associated with the Civic Opera company for many years. Recently Mr. Van Grove has been the conductor of the Cincinnati Opera company. He is now leading the rehearsals for "The Desert Song."

Arthur Hopkins, the New York producing manager who has been encouraging American dramatists for many years, has found a new one—none other than himself. In other words, Mr. Hopkins has written a play, and intends to give it a New York première Feb. 18, with Judith Anderson in the central rôle. His title is "Conquest."

The Theater Guild has engaged the following players for the cast of "American Dream," a play by George O'Neill which is to be its next production: Claude Rains, Helen Westley, Lee Baker, Josephine Hull, Gale Sondergaard, Edith Van Cleave, Erskine Sanford, Mary Blair, Gertrude Flynn, Arthur S. Ross, Samuel Goldenburg, Wilton Graff, Douglass Montgomery and Leona Hogarth. C. C.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented weekly by Miss Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 next Saturday for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

If yours is the modern family, no doubt it is accustomed to week-day breakfasts of orange juice, toast, and coffee. But even with the confirmed light eater, when Sunday mornings coincide with leisure, the appetite does seem to rise to meet the occasion.

Chilly Sunday mornings call for husky menus and a canny connoisseur will tell you that crunchy corn bread waffles with bacon strips or pineapple pancakes with hot maple sirup are the proper teasers to hit the spot.

Oftentimes the same batter for these early morning specials may be made up on either the waffle iron or the griddle and draw an equal number of cheers. Chocolate waffles or those made with fruits and cream can even step out of character and appear under a blanket of ice cream for Sunday night supper or Sunday noon dessert.

PINEAPPLE WAFFLES

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup drained crushed pineapple
2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder. Combine the eggs and milk and stir into the dry ingredients. When smooth add the pineapple and lastly the melted butter. Pour by spoonfuls onto the hot waffle iron and bake until crisp—about three minutes. Or for pancakes pour the batter, one tablespoon to a cake, onto a hot griddle and bake on both sides until golden brown. Serve with hot maple sirup, brown sugar sirup, or, better yet, shaved maple sugar and butter.

BANANA PANCAKES

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons sugar
2 cups milk
2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups thinly sliced bananas

Sift the dry ingredients together and beat in the combined milk and eggs. Add the banana slices last and bake as either pancakes or waffles.

BLUEBERRY WAFFLES

1¾ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
¼ cup melted fat or oil
1 cup drained, canned blueberries

Sift the dry ingredients together. Beat the egg yolks thoroughly, add the melted butter or cooking fat and then the milk, beating all together. Stir this mixture into the dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Fold in the blueberries and stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on a hot waffle iron for three minutes or until crisp and golden brown. Serve with brown sugar and butter or sirup.

GRANDMOTHER'S SOUR CREAM GRIDDLE CAKES

1 cup sour cream
1 cup bread crumbs
2 eggs, well beaten
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
Flour

Blend all the ingredients and sift in enough flour to make a thin batter. Fry on a hot griddle till puffy and brown. Serve with maple sirup and country sausage.

Crisp New Apron and Cap Lighten Household Tasks

WOMAN'S APRON AND CAP.

Here are an attractive apron and cap to wear while working about your home. The apron cuts in one piece, and is slashed in from each side. The lower edge of the slashed opening is gathered and sewed to the upper edge. The back straps are attached to the shoulders, and an attached narrow sash holds the apron snugly to the figure. The cap is in one piece.

The pattern, No. 3198, comes in small, medium, and large sizes. The medium size requires 1⅝ yards of 35 inch material with 9¾ yards of binding.

WEDDING

Mrs. James Mainland Harcus of Oak Park announces the marriage of her daughter, Margaret Antoinette, to Edward Frederick Kionka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Kionka of Oak Park. The wedding took place on Jan. 21 in the chapel of the First Methodish church of Oak Park. Mrs. Kionka attended the University of Illinois and is a member of the Kappa Delta sorority. Mr. Kionka completed his course in chemical engineering abroad and is a graduate of the Higher Technical institute of Nurnberg, Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Kionka are living for the present in Oak Park but they expect to move later to Elkhart, Ind.

Isabel Wilder Is Success in Her First Novel

Sister of Thornton Writes 'Mother of Four.'

"Mother and Four," by Isabel Wilder. [Coward-McCann.] Published Jan. 27.
"A Marriage of Convenience," by Anne Green. [Dutton.]

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

No longer is Thornton Wilder to be the sole literary torchbearer of the younger generation of Wilders. His sister, Isabel Wilder, stepped forth recently as a full fledged novelist in her own right, with "Mother and Four," the story of a widow who was left with four children and little more than high courage and the aid of the natural strength of the cohesion of a happy family to bring them to maturity. How she succeeds in preparing them and helping them to prepare themselves for the inevitable battle of life is the pattern of a first novel remarkable for its lack of stress or strain either in the jointure of its construction or in the psychology of its characters.

ISABEL WILDER.

"Mother and Four" is unlike any novel without psychoses ripping every third line, as most first novels are liable to be gutted and without the tragedy stalking menacingly through its pages which most young writers feel compelled to inject into their first novels.

"Mother and Four" is unlike anything that her brother has written. There is none of the sharp biting of the etching in "The Cabala," none of the half-mystic, wholly exquisite prose rhythm of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," none of the delicate tenagra-like beauty of "The Woman of Andros." But it is the actual reality of a simple, affectionate family circle transplanted whole from life. It is literary art unlike her brother's, but nevertheless art.

Practically simultaneously with the publication of the first novel by the sister of Thornton Wilder there is published the fourth novel of the sister of Julian Green. The literary relationship between the two Greens is much like that between the two Wilders—the brother writing very serious novels, the sister in no wise attempting the same type of book but doing something definitely and individually her own. In the relationship of their work to that of their brothers, however, Isabel Wilder and Anne Green have their only literary resemblance. Anne Green, in her best mood—that of "The Selbys"—is as light as a milkweed puff and as fresh as the pale yellow inside leaf of a blade of grass that you used to pull out and eat with relish when you were a child in the country.

Anne Green's latest novel is in the mood of "The Selbys." It is the story of Claire Villebreton, who, urged into a marriage of convenience by her grandmother, spitefully accepts the reluctant young man just to pique him, and the events which fill her life—and his—before the marriage, as well as the emotional storms which sweep the landscapes of both their lives.

It is in the creation of bizarre characters that Miss Green is especially gifted, and the grandmother in "A Marriage of Convenience" is one of her masterpieces. She is a Frenchwoman who married (to her grown son's horror) a German whom she loved, and in that gesture of independence the whole span of her life and thought and tolerance and intolerance are to be found. She is an amusing, fresh, alive old woman. Each of the characters in the book Miss Green sees in a slightly bizarre light with an effect fresh and engaging.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

THE BODY UNDER THE WOODPILE.

"The body's under the woodpile, but remember yuh gotta keep me outa this!" whined 'Stig' Carena glancing at Inspector Kelley and Professor Fordney out of shifty eyes. Sniffing through a nose that nature had placed on a slant and licking lips that were cut on the bias, he twisted his cap with nervous fingers.

. . . . . .

An hour later the three men paused beside a clump of bushes in Hubbard's Wood.

"Bill and Jake were fightin' in front of that shack over there," explained "Stig" pointing to a clearing. "Jake knocked Bill down and then grabbed the ax. When Bill got up, Jake hit him over the head with it. Then he dragged the body toward the back. He must've thought he heard something because he propped it up against the house and walked over this way. I knew if he discovered me, I'd probably get what Bill got, so I beat it to the road, jumped in my car and went to get you."

Fordney noticed blood stains on the shack about three feet from the ground which seemed to bear out "Stig's" story. Some freshly cut firewood, spattered with dark stains, lay near a chopping block.

Opening the door of the shack, the professor was about to enter when Kelley called from the back yard, "The body's under the woodpile, all right. My God, what a sight!"

Fordney's interest at that moment was not the body but a bright, clean, shining ax that stood in the far corner of the room. Carrying it carefully by the battered handle he brought it outside. "Stig" turned with a startled look at the professor's words.

"Unless you want to be held for this murder you better tell the truth about it!"

WHY WAS "STIG" UNDER SUSPICION?

Rubbed, inflamed with harsh, damp handkerchiefs, when it should be gently treated with KLEENEX Soft, absorbent—now costs but 25c

MUCH of the misery of a cold comes from irritation caused by damp handkerchiefs.

This discomfort is avoided when you use Kleenex—a soft, cloth-like tissue, many times more absorbent than cotton or linen.

Since the cost is very low, a tissue need be used but once. Thus, you have a clean tissue every time—soft, soothing and dry.

Much more healthful

Kleenex is not only more comfortable, it is infinitely more sanitary. A cold-filled handkerchief re-infects the user, spreads infection to others. Kleenex fibers are so powerfully absorbent that they hold germs securely, harmless, until the Kleenex can be destroyed.

No disagreeable laundering

When you use Kleenex there's no disagreeable handkerchief washing, no laundry expense. And the hygienic Kleenex habit actually costs less than having handkerchiefs laundered! Kleenex is sold at all drug and department stores.

8:15 p. m.—Bozeman vs. Kieckhefer.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Welker Cochran, the balkline billiardist, and the veteran Johnny Layton pushed on toward the world's three cushion championship yesterday when each scored a brilliant victory.

Layton whipped Jay Bozeman, youthful Californian, last night, 50 to 49, in the most thrilling match of the tournament. During the afternoon Cochran had whipped the already dethroned champion, Augie Kieckhefer, 50 to 23.

If Layton goes on to the championship he will not encounter more stubborn opposition than that which he met at the hands of Bozeman. A dozen times in the late innings it looked like Layton had the westerner soundly beaten. Then Bozeman would show renewed courage, mix it with a sensational shot or two, and be right back in the thick of the fight.

Bozeman Just Misses.

The youngster made his greatest stand in the first half of the 54th and last inning. He went into that round trailing, 49 to 45. Then came four perfect shots from the most difficult angles and before the crowd realized it the score was tied at 49 apiece.

Bozeman's shot for the winning point was next to impossible. Yet he rolled the balls up and down the table and missed by only fractions of an inch. He left the ivories in easy position for the wily Layton to make a natural around the table shot and end the sensational struggle.

For more than half the game Bozeman was in front. Once he led 12 to 2. This was before Layton showed flashes of the form which has kept him in the title race from the beginning. Then Bozeman's lead began to melt away, but it wasn't until the twenty-ninth inning that the youngster finally surrendered it.

Layton Comes Through.

Layton made a run of 6 in the 29th to lead, 32 to 30. His second shot was a drive around the table for a point which only a champion could engineer. Layton's ball and the red ball were in the left hand corner at the foot of the table, while Bozeman's ball was at the other end, half way between the spot and the head rail.

The old master played off the red ball to the head rail. He skimmed past the white ball, then his cue ball went rolling down the table to the right side rail near the corner. It continued to the lower rail, went to the left side rail and bounded out to click against the white ball.

After the smoke of the battle had lifted a very complicated title situation existed. While it seemed that Cochran and Layton would fight it out in the championship match, this wasn't at all certain.

Bozeman Can Tie.

Cochran has to win but one game out of the two remaining on his schedule to become a finalist. Bozeman, despite his defeat last night, can reach a tie for first place by winning his two remaining games against Kieckhefer and Cochran.

Cochran crushed Kieckhefer in the record breaking time of one hour and four minutes and his triumph in 36 innings was the second best game of the tournament. Layton triumphed in the early part of the tourney in 35 innings. Cochran's high run was the six, made in the last inning. The consistency of his game is best demonstrated by the fact that he had only 12 scoreless innings.

Denton Beats Jackson.

Tiff Denton of Kansas City was the winner of the first afternoon game when he swamped Clarence Jackson of Detroit, 50 to 26, in 37 innings.

Denton trailed 12 to 3 in the 12th inning, but began to click in the next round. He kept up the attack until he was far ahead. In the last 25 innings Denton scored 47 billiards while Jackson was making only 14.

It was the last game of the tournament for both players. Denton played a spectacular game throughout the title play, but will be unable to finish in better than fifth place. Score by innings:

THE GUMPS—TOO LATE! TOO LATE!

In the WAKE of the NEWS

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 30.—Dear Mr. Woodruff: I received the beautiful white gold football that THE TRIBUNE sent to me as Indiana's most valuable football man. I am certainly elated with it and shall always be proud to wear it. I want to thank you and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for it and assure you I appreciate being thus honored.

JOHN KECKICH.

THE TRIBUNE award has done much to stimulate conference football players to greater effort and, along with that, to better sportsmanship. Winners of THE TRIBUNE trophy have all been wonderful football players and fine sports. Speaking as a player I want to say that we consider it a fine idea and hope that it will be continued in the future.

Once again thanking you and extending my best wishes to you and THE TRIBUNE sports department, I am yours sincerely, John Keckich.

Paging the unsung athletic heroes of 1932, let me tell of Herman Robinson, Big Ten javelin champ. In his first year of competition he placed second for Illinois in the javelin toss. Less than two weeks before the meet last May, after having trained hard all year, he was struck by a 12 pound shot while officiating at a boys' meet in Champaign. It struck him just over the heart, paralyzing a major nerve center. For several days he lay in bed at the Phi Kappa Sig house with a 50-50 chance, physicians said, of ever competing again.

Gradually Robbie fought off the effects of his injury and was given the right to travel to Evanston with the Illini squad. He was the only member of the team to bring home a gold medal. Later he placed sixth in a field of forty in the Olympic trials with a toss of 204 feet. Dick Aar.

During 1932, just ended, Indiana university won four Big Ten titles—baseball, cross country running [team], track and field [indoor], and wrestling. Indiana alumni rightfully are proud. Tom Loveday.

"Billy" Graves Passes.

Chicago physicians read with regret the passing of Dr. William T. Graves in Boston of pneumonia a few days ago. He was head of women's diseases at Harvard medical school since 1911, with an international reputation.

It was a former football player, however, who called our attention to the fact that Dr. Graves was Billy Graves, noted Yale half back of Eli elevens in the time of A. A. Stagg and Pudge Heffelfinger.

At Yale Graves played on both baseball and football teams, was a brilliant scholar, editor of the Yale Record, and member of Skull and Bones. He was a past president of the American Gynecology society and well known to the medical profession of this city, either personally or by reputation.

GOING TO PLAY GOLF THIS YEAR? PRICE IS DOWN

Fees, Clubs, Everything Cheapest in Years.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Golf in 1932 witnessed a series of the most drastic economic reductions in the history of the game. Club memberships in many cases dropped to a fifth of their original value, dues and greens fees were slashed, dining room prices came back to pre-war levels, and the budget became the controlling factor in the life of the average private club. In keeping with these economies, which gave the man who couldn't afford the game previously a chance to play it, manufacturers of golf materials were forced to cut prices. Clubs throughout the country plan to economize to an even greater extent this year, but will the makers of the game's tools follow them?

They will, judging from an examination of 1933 prices on golfing equipment established by a national manufacturer of sporting goods. The golfer who has been forced to borrow or rent clubs to play will now be able to purchase a good set of clubs at a figure far below prices which have prevented his playing. The golfer who has been playing for a number of years, and hence is fairly well equipped, also will find bargains in new clubs, balls, shoes, and other accessories when the season opens.

It Costs Little to Start.

What are these new prices? First, let's take a rank novice who has never played and has no pretensions to joining a private club yet, but thinks he would like to get out and fiddle around one of the park or daily fee courses until he gets the hang of the thing. He can get a serviceable canvas caddy bag for $1.50 at almost any sporting goods store. For the contents of this quiver he may buy a beginner's set of four irons and a wood for $5.95. It would be well for him to restrain himself for a time from using a higher grade ball. Better to start with a cheaper brand at $3 a dozen. There he is, with a complete ration of weapons costing $10.45, ready to be turned loose at Lincoln park, Mid-City, or any other public course.

After the beginner comes the practiced player who may have been renting clubs or isn't satisfied with his present collection. Judicious shopping will aid him considerably if his purse isn't up to a full set of registered clubs, since a majority of manufacturers carry a number of discontinued lines in which even registered clubs may be had for half the price of current lines. For example, a set of three registered woods can be obtained for $20, and six registered irons for $33. Woods which rank only slightly below the registered type sell for from $4.50 to $5.75 each in these discontinued lines, while irons range from $3.50 to $5 each. The fact that these clubs are not seconds or castoffs only emphasizes the bargain prices. A set of three woods and six irons of this type of club may be bought for as low as $14.25.

There are price reductions also even for the golfer who can afford to buy the highest grade of equipment. A set of nine registered irons which sold for $90 at their introduction in 1929 and at $82.50 last year now brings $75, while three registered woods which formerly brought $45 now can be had for $39. Leather caddy bags which sold for $42.50 will retail at $30 in 1933.

Golf balls will retain practically the same scale which held through last year, with the 75 cent top grade ball going at $8 a dozen, the 50 cent ball at $6, the 35 cent ball at $4, and the 25 cent brand at $3. Incidentally, these last two brands cut into the sale of the 50 and 75 cent balls considerably last year, sales for the 50 cent variety falling off about 40 per cent, and the 75 cent ball 25 per cent.

Clubs, balls, and bags are not the only golfing items to come within the reach of the poor man during 1933. For instance, a linen cap which brought $2 last year will sell for a dollar during the coming season. A sweater of the best quality, retailing in 1932 for $9 will go for $5. A serviceable pair of spiked shoes for which $7.50 was asked last year has been cut to a $5 item today, and a sports shoe suitable for street wear as well as golf will sell at the same price, after costing $10 in 1932.

BABE BEATS ANOTHER CHAMP

Jack Dempsey overmatched himself when he challenged Babe Didrikson to a ping pong match between her appearances at a local theater yesterday. Babe (left), used a penholder grip, probably at the insistence of her new professional manager. Fifi D'Orsay, stage and screen actress, was the referee. The gentleman behind the cigar in the background is Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

VEECK BRINGS BACK OPTIMISM AND CONTRACTS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, who went to California three weeks ago to play some golf, but wound up spending the time listening to the enthusiasms of signed Cubs, returned home yesterday. He brought five signed contracts back from the Pacific coast and when he reached his desk he found another batch of documents with signatures affixed. There were no holdout letters.

During his stay on the coast, which included a visit to San Francisco as well as his visit in Los Angeles and Avalon, Catalina island, Mr. Veeck met up with Charley Root, Babe Herman, Bud Tinning, Stanley Hack, Mark Koenig, and Frank Demaree. Root has a holdover contract and the others, the Cub prexy said, not only showed no reticence in signing but revealed some of the greatest hot stove warmth for their prospects he's ever beheld in the baseball business.

Herman Is Ambitious.

Among the circumstances which seemed to impress Mr. Veeck most was the request of Herman that he be permitted to report at the Catalina training camp with the pitchers and catchers on Feb. 23, instead of awaiting the arrival of the infielders and outfielders five days later. Herman never has been famous for zeal to get to a training camp ahead of time and his eagerness in this instance is taken as a tip off that he is pepped up for what he expects to be the best of many good years of his baseball career.

It is expected that as soon as he has caught up with his accumulated mail Mr. Veeck will hold open house for the Chicago contingent of the National league champions—Capt. Woody English, Gabby Hartnett and Guy Bush. Bush has a holdover contract while English and Hartnett haven't been balky at any time.

English Puts Off Trip.

Mrs. English left for Catalina last Sunday night and Woody had planned to go west early until his basketball activities brought about a delay of several weeks. Hartnett, who has been working out three times a week throughout the winter, will be on the first squad which will leave the Dearborn station over the Santa Fe, at 9:05 o'clock the evening of Feb. 20.

KRESS SIGNS SOX CONTRACT—WITHOUT CUT

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ralph Kress and Smead Jolley joined the 1933 list of contented baseball players today. Kress, Chicago White Sox infielder-outfielder, and Jolley, Boston Red Sox outfielder, sent their signed contracts back east today. They did not receive salary cuts.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THE caption over this piece ought to be "Beating a Champion" or "Putting the Gals in Their Place."

I may be wrong [come, come now folks, sure I can be wrong], but I am bold enough to think that the story of my rise to athletic renown will be interesting to others with similar ambition, and who am I to deny this information to posterity?

It was like this. Babe Didrikson, the slim Texas miss with the Johnny Evers chin, dropped into the office the other night with Jack Dempsey and other stage and sport celebrities. Naturally we got to talking about how fast the Babe could run, how high she could jump, how low she could shoot a round of golf, and so on.

Although she won her fame as a track and field star, Miss Didrikson likes best to talk about golf. She started off with a recounting of the way she defeated Westbrook Pegler, Paul Gallico and Grantland Rice with an 86 on a Los Angeles course last summer.

"Of course, that was only the 12th round I had ever played," she drawled. "I probably could clip several strokes off that score now. In fact, I think I would win the women's national championship next season if I had not turned professional.

"The worst break I ever got was in the high jump of the Olympic games. The world's record for women was 5 feet 2 inches. I leaped 5 feet 10 inches but they ruled out the jump on the charge that my head went over the bar before my feet. They were wrong. I guess I ought to know what part of my body went over first. I cleared the bar by at least four inches.

"Say, there's nothing I can't do," the Babe modestly admitted. "I have won 634 medals since I began athletic competition three years ago. I can run 100 yards in 10 and 4-10 seconds and can throw that old javelin 150 feet. I usually took part in eleven events in every meet I entered down in Texas."

The Babe declared in no uncertain terms that she was looking for a fight—or at least a sparring match. And she was glaring right at Jack Dempsey, most famous of all the male sockers. She stuck that long chin right out there, too, when she said it.

Jack begged off with the alibi that he had been eating too much sugars, fats, and starches and wasn't in condition. It took him no time to think up that answer after the Babe jabbed with her left and crossed her right in menacing fashion.

"Say, there's nothing I can't do as well as a man," she said.

It looked bad for us males. I glanced around at the gentlemen listening in and could see their blood pressures rising at an alarming rate. That last remark of hers got my dander up and everybody knows the old Ward temper is on a hair trigger. This was time for drastic action and even if the incident involved a woman a man had to be a man for a' that.

I looked the Babe right in the eye and said: "Do you play ping pong?"

"Do I play ping pong?" she parried in the same tone that frightened Dempsey. "Say, I whipped everybody I met in Texas at that game four years ago."

Well, if you want the details of my 21-to 10 victory, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this department.

Briefly, if in your youth you never tromped on your neighbor's new lawn or never kicked babies in the face you have the basic qualities necessary for success.

Hoping this finds you the same, I am very truly yours.

ATTENDANCE AND BETTING SOAR AT HIALEAH PARK

Miami, Fla., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The turnstiles at Hialeah Park clicked twice as often during the first ten days of the meeting as they did during the same period last year, according to official figures released today. The play through the pari-mutuel machines showed an increase of $239,126 over 1932.

As compared to a ten day attendance of 23,800 last year, 46,133 passed through the gates during a similar period ending yesterday. In 1932 the betting for the period totaled $1,188,235. This year it was $1,427,361.

Trojans Elect Palmer, End, as 1933 Captain

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ford Palmer, end, of Hollywood was elected captain of the 1933 University of Southern California football squad tonight. Tay Brown, captain of last season's squad, was awarded the Davis-Teschke medal for the most valuable player.

DETROIT BEATS RANGERS, 2-1; TIES FOR LEAD

Sorrell's Goal Wins Game in Last 2 Minutes.

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Johnny Sorrell's long shot in the closing minutes of a fast game gave the Detroit Red Wings a 2 to 1 victory over the New York Rangers tonight and a tie for first place in the American division of the National Hockey league.

With the score tied at 1-1 and less than two minutes to go, Sorrell broke down the left side and shot just as he crossed the blue line. Goalie Andy Aitkenhead saw it coming, but moved just a trifle too slowly and the puck slipped between his leg and the goal post.

The Red Wings' first goal also came on a long shot by Herb Lewis early in the first period. The Rangers tied it up ten minutes later on a flashy play by Cecil Dillon.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Chicago's Blackhawks defeated the Boston Bruins, 5 to 1, tonight, scoring four of their goals by trapping the desperate Bruin offense and sweeping in on the unprotected goalie.

The Hawks were not hard pressed to score. They merely played heads up hockey, taking advantage of every Boston mistake. Mush March was the Hawks' outstanding scorer, getting two goals and an assist for three points.

Paul Thompson scored one of the goals after a solo rush the full length of the rink, in which he outskated the Bruin forwards and zigzagged through the defense to drive a short shot through his brother, Tiny Thompson, Boston goalie.

Cook Establishes Lead.

Play opened cautiously and during the first five minutes neither side made any headway. When the Hawks third line came on, the action speeded up.

At half time the Bruins' bruising forwards, Stewart, Lamb and Ripley, put on a determined attack. Eddie Shore joined them but Gardiner turned back every thrust.

Late in the period Tommy Cook took a pass from Paul Thompson in mid-ice and slowly dribbled through Shore and Hitchman. Instead of checking him, both defensemen tried to slash the puck away but Cook zigzagged through and jabbed a close up shot into the Boston net for the first goal of the game.

Oliver, Heximer and Jerwa came on for Boston and with Heximer carrying the puck, managed to close in on Gardiner. The goalie, however, ruined their teamwork by flying out of his net to smother Oliver's direct hit. Jerwa then went off for slashing and the short-handed Bruins had a difficult time stopping March, Gottselig and Romnes.

Bruins Get Mad.

The Bruins were in an angry mood when they resumed play in the second period and the Hawks were hard pressed. Shore joined his forwards in a long scrimmage deep in the Chicago territory but Romnes drove them back when he hooked the puck out of the jam and carried it to mid ice.

March followed him on the right and jumped past Eddie Shore to take Romnes' pass and slash it through Goalie Thompson for the second Chicago goal.

Jerwa managed to upset Gardiner with a closeup shot and Chuck was somewhat amazed when Teddy Graham lost his sense of direction and slammed the rebound back at his own goalie. Paul Thompson then picked his way nicely down the ice and ended a solo rush by backhanding the rubber into the net for the third Chicago goal.

Trick Shot Scores.

On the resulting face off Barry beat Romnes to the puck and jabbed it over to Beattie. The three Boston forwards then milled about the net. Beattie and Barry took drives at Gardiner and Dit Clapper scored Boston's goal by lifting the second rebound over the heads of the Chicago defense and dropping it into the cage.

Two goals down, the Bruins jammed the Hawks' zone as soon as the third period opened. Three men tried to feed a scoring pass to Nels Stewart, who stationed himself on the left side of the Chicago net. This technique nearly proved disastrous twice when Paul Thompson trapped the puck and started down the ice. The third time it happened Mush March stopped Barry's rush close to the Chicago net and swooped into Boston territory.

He darted down the right wall, passed out to Romnes before rounding the Boston net, and the latter backhanded the puck to Gottselig, who was free and in the open. Gottselig's high drive was a direct hit and gave the Hawks a three goal lead.

Gardiner Is Hurt.

A high stick flashed out of a wild flurry in front of the Chicago net and struck Gardiner on the chin. Play was halted to patch up the goalie. The Bruins were caught napping a few minutes later and Graham broke over their line, racing for the backboards. He passed over to March, who was clear, and March banged home another goal, his second of the evening.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The B. B. stable's Idle Stefan, a 3 year old son of Stefan the Great, captured the Clearwater purse, feature at Hialeah park here today, and completed a double for Trainer Hirsch Jacobs, who is the leading trainer of the meeting with fourteen winners. His first winner was Dorsays, also owned by the B. B. stable, which won the curtain raiser.

Jacobs trains for several owners and has such a string of successes that on two occasions he gained a triple in one afternoon.

Coucci Scores a Triple.

Silvio Coucci, rider of Idle Stefan, gained a triple this afternoon. His other two winning mounts were Chinese Custom and Curacao, both owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, which holds Coucci's riding contract.

Jockey Dominick Bellizzi, another of the younger group, had the leg up on Dorsays, and made it a double when he got home first with R. Curran's High Socks in the nightcap. All in all it was an exciting day of racing, with only two favorites winning—Dorsays and Chinese Custom—which took the first and second events respectively.

Silk Flag Gains Place.

In the Clearwater, Idle Stream won by a length and a half from Silk Flag, which gained the place by a nose from the Pelican.

Then came C. V. Whitney's Rapscallion, the even money favorite, which performed dismally in his debut at this track. The order after that was Bubbler, Ondott, Stealingaway, Blessed Event, and White Thorn.

The winner returned $14.90 for $2 and finished the six furlongs under 106 pounds in 1:12.

BILL DICKEY IS CUT, BRUISED IN AUTO CRASH

Harrison, Ark., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Bill Dickey, first string catcher of the New York Yankees, received cuts and bruises in an auto collision near here today. Dickey was riding with Guy Freeling, former secretary to Gov. Parnell of Arkansas, when Dickey's car crashed head on into that of Fred Jones, a farmer. Dickey and Jones each contended that the other was driving on the wrong side of the road.

RULES:

1 Names must be not more than 12 letters; slogans not more than 12 words. Submit either or both on single sheet; plain white paper; one side only; but preferably on official contest information-and-entry blank, free at Conoco dealers and stations. Elaborate presentations receive no extra credit.

2 Contest closes midnight, February 23, 1933. Entries must be postmarked before that date and hour.

3 Continental employees, members of their families and others connected directly or indirectly cannot compete.

4 Should more than one person submit exactly the same name or slogan, each will receive full amount of any prize such entry may win. All entries become Continental Oil Company property, and none will be returned.

5 The Company reserves prior rights to phrases and slogans of its own creation, already in prepared advertising. Also it reserves the names "Continental" or "Conoco" gasoline, "Conogas", and "101" gasoline. Whether or not the winning contest name is adopted, prize money will be paid; but the Company reserves the right to use a name of its own creation if decided more suitable and more protectable under trade-mark laws.

6 No purchase is required of contestants. Continental Oil Company executives will be the judges and their decisions final. Winners will be announced over radio, and prize money paid as soon as possible after contest closes.

You'll say:

"Whoa, Engine! what's got into you?"

Here's gas to excite motors. It makes them quick on the trigger . . . fast on the move. Choking is hardly required for a quick, snappy start and a take-off like a quail on the wing.

Even old motors . . . wheezy, snorting, complaining motors . . . cut capers you just can't believe. If you doubt it, just try it. It's like rich, racing blood injected into old veins.

This gasoline is so new . . . so "different" . . . so quick, fast, powerful, and economical, it's hard to give it a name. Perhaps YOU can. When you FEEL your motor's response, it may come to you like a flash.

Ask at any Conoco station for the new bronze-colored, high-test gasoline—and an entry blank. Help name it and describe it. You may win a part of $10,000.00. You are SURE to win a grand, new thrill, and that is worth a heap. Make the test TODAY.

PARK DISTRICT TO SIFT TALENT FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

Tourney to Develop Boys for Tribune Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Northwest park district is seeking the Golden Gloves amateur boxing trophy which will be awarded to the team which scores the most points in the finals of the sixth annual tournament at the Chicago Stadium on March 8. In preparation for the Golden Gloves bouts the Northwest park district will hold its first annual meet at Blackhawk park, Lavergne and Belden avenues on Feb. 10. Entries for this meet now may be made with Oscar C. Johnson, park commissioner, who is chairman of the recreation committee, or with George Sonnenleiter, supervisor of athletics for the district.

The Northwest parks are the first to include boxing in a regular program of athletics. Since Sonnenleiter has taken charge of supervising the sports he has planned a district competition each month in addition to the regular sports.

Will Enter North Section.

Entries for the Northwest parks' tournament close on Feb. 9. The winners and many others of the list of fifty contestants then will be entered in the north section of the Chicago Golden Gloves meet at Loyola university as the Northwest park district team. Entries for the north section Golden Gloves do not close until Feb. 13. The tournament is scheduled on Feb. 20 and 21.

Among the northwest park entrants are: Riis park—William Sandstrom, Nick Addante, Clarence Swanson, Joseph La Pointe, Wesley Edwards, and Rudy Witek. Gubins A. A.—James Gurcio, Stephen Pajdo, Ernie Kulasik, and Edward Sedlin. Kelvyn park—Leonard Durlum, Edward Miller, Leonard Reiter, and George Demges. Ruther Sayre park—Miles Ort. Elmwood A. A.—Jack Hanley. Blackhawk park—William Wegner.

District Has Swim Trophy.

The northwest park district already has a TRIBUNE trophy, for in 1931 its swimmers took the team prize in the 100 yard free style races which were held in Lincoln park. Chicago will qualify eight boxers in each weight for the Tournament of Champions, two boys in each weight at each of four sectional tournaments.

In the Tournaments of Champions at the Stadium, Feb. 27, 28, and March 1, these Chicago entrants will be joined by the eight champions of the Catholic Youth Organization and the championship teams from 22 out of town centers. All these boxers will compete in the Open division. The Chicago Novice division is restricted to Chicago. Eight boys will qualify from each of the four sections and the Novice championships will be decided on March 1 in connection with the Tournament of Champions.

Joe Tired of Losing.

The novice division is just what Joe Konrath was looking for, judging by the letter which accompanied his entry blank. Joe entered Golden Gloves last year and lost his first bout. Then he tried his luck in the C. Y. O. tournament and was knocked out. But these lickings haven't broken his spirit. "I'll give you one of the best fights in the Novice class," Joe writes.

The far south section of the Golden Gloves, which will be held at the State theater, 110th and State streets, Feb. 16 and 17, has aroused interest in boxing in the Roseland territory. All amateur boxers in that territory will be provided with training facilities for a nominal charge if they call Racine Thompson, Commodore 1000. Thompson's address is 11306 Michigan avenue.

PHILLIPS BEATS TILDEN, 25 TO 21, FOR FIFTH IN ROW

Wendell Phillips' heavyweight basketball team increased its lead in the central section of the Public High School Basketball league yesterday afternoon by defeating Tilden Tech, 25 to 21, for its fifth straight victory.

Wendell Phillips piled up an early lead and with the aid of King's 9 points coasted to victory.

Tuley Takes Second Place.

Tuley's heavyweight quintet defeated Harrison, 30 to 26, and took undisputed hold on second place in the west section. In another west section heavyweight contest Austin handed McKinley its sixth straight league defeat, 37 to 24. Harmon scored five goals and one free throw for the winners.

Mid-year graduation took four regulars from Hyde Park's heavyweight quintet and the new team was beaten by Lindblom, 28 to 8, in a central section game. Seaborg led the scoring with 12 points for Lindblom.

Schurz Lights Finally Win.

Schurz's lightweights scored their first north section league victory by defeating Waller, 18 to 12. Marshall lights defeated Crane Tech, 27 to 20, in the west section. They are tied for last place.

Bullfrogs Sing a Loud Good Mawnin' to Georgia Sun

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, Ga., Jan. 31.—If you watch a Georgia sun rise through the moss covered trees of a river swamp you needn't worry about going to sleep no matter how comfortable your log seat is. The orchestral din in the bottomlands is loud enough to keep anyone awake. The other morning when J. W. Wortman, the trained turkey decoy expert of Albany, took us into the woods to show us how his pet gobblers work to bring wild turkeys within speaking distance, the poor bird was almost drowned out by an "orchestra" consisting of hoot owls, frogs and cardinals.

It was a weird, yet beautiful setting for a hunt. We arrived in the woods when the first faint light of dawn was beginning to steal through the lowlands. Standing on a fairly high and dry hummock about 150 feet from the river bank we could look up and see nothing but a tangle of leafless branches and vines covered with long, lacy festoons of Spanish moss, all silhouetted against the sky. It was still too dark to turn out the turkey so Wortman held his pet in his arms as we leaned against an old hickory talking in low tones.

Then, shortly before 6 o'clock, the hoot owls came on the air. Whoo-hoo-hoo-ah boomed one owl from across the river. Another answered not far from where we were standing. Sometimes the gobblers on a roost will answer these owl calls. We strained our ears to hear such welcome early morning answers from the wild birds. Slowly the light in the deep woods grew stronger. At five minutes after 6 o'clock the first robin chirped. That was the signal for all the robins which had roosted in the lowlands to salute each other and start the day's activity. Just as soon as these birds spoke up a cardinal whistled about 200 yards from us. Then we heard the sharp, shrill notes of several others.

These bird calls were pleasant and we listened closely for others. But, it was almost impossible to hear the bird notes clearly because hundreds of frogs in the pools nearby were opening up with their daybreak chorus. This din grew louder and louder as more amphibians joined in the "good morning to you" song.

By this time Wortman had put down the turkey. It walked around on the leaf covered hummock and turned to Wortman who was coaxing it to gobble. "Gob-gob-gobble" sounded the first challenging call from this trained bird. But the frogs and the robins provided such a loud accompaniment to this musical effort that we wondered if we could ever hear a wild turkey's response.

There was just one quiet animal along the river before the sun showed above the horizon. Griggs Miller, who was standing next to us saw him first. "Look at that polecat," he whispered. About 125 feet from us, ambling along, eyes straight ahead and hurrying as if he had a date for breakfast some where, was a skunk. He didn't give us even a glance. Apparently, a turkey gobbler and a group of chilly turkey hunters were nothing in his life.

KEEPERS PLEDGE NEW MACHINES, FASTER GREENS

The quiet, knowing gentlemen who are up betimes on a golf course long before the members have gotten down to the task of attempting to dissect it and are still at their chores long after the last putt is holed began to have their week yesterday at the Sherman hotel with the opening of the seventh annual educational conference and golf show of the National Greenkeepers' Association of America.

While golf clubs throughout the country have been experiencing an upheaval unparalleled during their recent history, these custodians of the greens and fairways have not been neglecting any opportunities to improve the business of causing their courses to make a billiard table resemble a section of the Alleghenies. This was revealed yesterday at the show conducted in connection with the greenkeepers' convention.

This Is Cutting a Swath.

Among other features of the show was the exhibition of a nine-gang mower, which has an advantage of five feet, not to mention the resultant saving of labor and time, over its seven unit predecessor. The nine-gang machine will cut away 21 feet against the 16 feet of the seven-gang contraption.

Still another innovation for the greenskeeper is a turf conditioner which is expected to go far in the direction of curing course diseases, particularly on the greens. It is a complicated gadget which does not show its true value until it is in operation. That operation starts with the drilling of a set of lengthy teeth into the green, proceeds with the pouring in of the desired fertilizer, and then rolls on to the next portion of the green, doing away with much of the inadequate manual labor of the last few seasons.

Good for the Farm, Too.

A national manufacturer of mowing tractors has been so optimistic as to produce a machine absolutely new in all details, the practical use of which goes beyond golf courses, since it can be used on any large enclosed space where grass grows. Another mower maker exhibits a machine with a seven range action, as against the five of last year. The new mower carries pneumatic tires and increases the swatch of the machine by 60 inches.

This same machine has changed the gear ratio of its mowers to such an extent that the speed of the operation has been boosted from 4½ miles an hour to 9 miles an hour, thus enabling the greenskeeper to cut an average 18 hole course in 7 hours, as against the old system, which took nearly two days.

Another newcomer in golf expected to become popular is the cellophane flag, which, because if its texture, is expected to withstand the pressure of wind, rain, and sun.

The educational conference of the convention will open today with an address of welcome by John MacGregor, Chicago Golf greenskeeper, president of the national association. The conference will continue through Friday. The annual banquet of the association will take place tomorrow night, with Harry E. Radix, president of the Chicago District Golf association, and R. Arthur Wood, president of the Western Golf association, as speakers.

St. Bede College to Play Physical Education Five

St. Bede college basketball team of Peru, Ill., will play the American College of Physical Education this afternoon at the A. C. P. E. gymnasium, 1019 Diversey parkway. St. Bede, which has won nine games and lost three this season, is coached by G. B. Fitzgerald, former Notre Dame player. The Chicago chapter of St. Bede alumni will meet at the gymnasium for a reunion before the game.

Pass from Line of Scrimmage Is Plea of Hanley

Football needs more thrills, just as baseball did before the introduction of the livelier ball, according to Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern university, who leaves today for New York to attend a committee meeting of coaches who will discuss proposed rule changes.

At this meeting Coach Hanley will introduce a change in the forward pass rule which would permit a pass to be made from the line of scrimmage, instead of five yards back, as at present.

The Wildcat coach believes that such a rule would result in a more wide open game by spreading the defense and giving the offense a wider range of action.

"I believe that such a rule would do for football what the livelier ball did for baseball," Coach Hanley said. "The fans like free scoring in football, just as they do home runs in baseball. Legislation in favor of offensive maneuvers would help the game.

"Football has come to be too much of a defensive game. Under the present forward pass rule a smart defensive team is able to get set for most any kind of play. The defense usually can anticipate when a team is going to run or pass because the passer must drop back five yards.

"If the passer could fake a buck into the line by coming up five yards and then pass, the defense would be forced to be on guard for either contingency, and could not rush in with its present abandon. This would also tend to eliminate injuries."

REFEREE WILSON, HACK TO YOU, IS CHEERED BY FANS

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Nattily attired in white, Hack Wilson made his debut as a boxing referee tonight. The chunky Brooklyn outfielder presided over six four round charity bouts sponsored by the Martinsburg post of the American Legion. Wilson, who is a Dodger holdout, donated his services.

The crowd cheered Wilson's decisions. Wilson got a referee's license from the state athletic commission last week, especially for tonight's bouts.

ing goods store also forecast the doom of knickers, the sustained popularity of slacks, and the possible rise in public favor of the shorts proposed recently by the International Association of Clothing Designers.

Shorts Are No Joke.

"The idea of these shorts catching on may sound like a joke," he said, "but if the well dressed golfer who competes in big tournaments takes to them it will become a reality. These are the players who influenced the change from knickers to slacks, and when the masses take to slacks, as they rapidly have been doing, we can look to the golfer who is up to the minute in his attire to swing to shorts. They're not really a novelty, for they have been worn on southern courses by a number of golfers."

The popularity of slacks was recently demonstrated at the Los Angeles open tournament, where seventy-seven contestants wore them, while fifty-one sported knickers, which in most cases have been used for years. Slacks which sold for from $7.50 to $10 in 1932 may be purchased for $5 this year. The latest revolution in this department, however, will be the introduction of a new type of slacks, made of a pre shrunk woven fabric which gives the appearance of the more expensive type, and will sell for $1.95.

CLINNIN SEES QUICK PASSAGE OF BOXING BILL

Dempsey Told State Will Get Longer Bouts.

Jack Dempsey and Joe Jacobs conferred with Gen. John V. Clinnin and Packey McFarland of the Illinois athletic commission yesterday relative to presenting the Max Schmeling-Max Baer 15 round boxing contest at Soldiers' field in June. The commission told Dempsey and Schmeling's manager that passage of a bill legalizing 15 round nontitle heavyweight bouts in Illinois appears promising. Dempsey also was told that his status as a promoter in Illinois is the same as it was when he was offering shows at the Coliseum three years ago.

Gen. Clinnin is awaiting orders from Gov. Horner to submit for approval a bill lengthening heavyweight bouts from ten to 15 rounds. An emergency clause makes it possible to have the bill passed 10 days after it reaches the legislature. Richie Graham, vice chairman of the senate, will champion the measure.

After a luncheon at the Century of Progress administration building at noon today, Dempsey and Jacobs will leave for Minneapolis. They expect to be in Denver Monday. Two days later they will separate, Dempsey going to California to confer with Baer and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, and Jacobs heading for New York.

Dempsey will return to Chicago on Feb. 20, when definite announcement will be made as to whether the Baer-Schmeling contest will be held here.

Eight Chicago boys, boxing champions of the Catholic Youth Organization, are scheduled to box an amateur team representing the Panama submarine base in Panama tonight. Max Marek, captain, and Rev. Gerald P. Scanlan are in charge of the C. Y. O. boxers.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago 135 pounder, will begin drills at Kid Howard's gymnasium tomorrow for a 10 round match against Tony Falco at Philadelphia on Monday. . . . Biff Bennett, Mitz Minikel, Ed Wills, and Willie Davies, local heavyweights, left for Detroit last night to compete in a tournament there tonight. . . . Paul Pantaleo and Tuffy Griffith began training yesterday for tentative bouts. . . . Ed Wills has placed himself under the management of Eddie Siegal.

Ends DANDRUFF-Overnight!

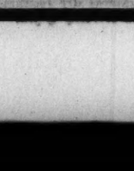

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents (35c). This simple remedy never fails.

MOVE TO BURY GALSWORTHY IN "HALL OF FAME"

Friends Seek to Put Body in Westminster Abbey.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Friends of John Galsworthy, who died at his home at Hampstead today after a month's illness, have launched a movement to have the body of the famous novelist and dramatist buried in Westminster abbey, Great Britain's hall of fame.

Galsworthy was one of the foremost among English literary figures of the twentieth century. He was the winner of the Nobel prize for literature for 1932. He was physically unable, however, to go to Stockholm to receive the award in person last December.

End Comes Quietly.

Galsworthy, who was 65 years old, had been lying seriously ill for several weeks with anemia that followed a cold. Last night, after steadily increasing weakness, he lapsed into a coma and never recovered consciousness. The end was quiet and he suffered no pain in his last hours.

Downstairs in the study, where he wrote many of his books, a copy of his latest novel, "Flowering Wilderness," lay on the table in its bright publisher's jacket. Beside it were a tobacco jar and an assortment of old briar pipes. It is not known what unfinished manuscripts Galsworthy left behind him.

Mrs. Galsworthy was at the bedside at the end with a nephew, R. H. Sauter, and Mrs. Sauter. Galsworthy's cook and chauffeur and two nurses who tended him throughout his illness also were there.

Tributes from All Over World.

"He was a great and high-minded Englishman," said G. K. Chesterton when he learned that the creator of the Forsytes had died.

Something of the same thought ran through the messages which poured into the house all day from the United States, Germany, Sweden and Denmark, where Galsworthy's works are read even more widely than in England.

Thousands of inquiries came from all parts of the world during Galsworthy's illness. One of them, his nephew revealed today, came from King George, whose offer of a knighthood Galsworthy declined in 1918. He later accepted the order of merit, the highest honor for literature.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who was a personal friend, telephoned daily and was deeply grieved today at the news of Galsworthy's death.

Galsworthy was never a familiar figure in London life like his contemporaries, Arnold Bennett and H. G. Wells. He remained shy and retiring even at the height of his fame, and was happiest living quietly in his country home at Bury, Essex, away from public eye.

WON NOBEL PRIZE.

John Galsworthy, famed in later years for his series of novels comprising "The Forsyte Saga," became on last Dec. 10 the third Briton to receive the Nobel prize for literature, which was first awarded in 1901. Rudyard Kipling and George Bernard Shaw were the other two.

Galsworthy's literary efforts drove straight to one of two dominant objectives. Either they championed the grievances of oppressed laborers or mistreated prisoners or they treated, oftentimes satirically, the life of the English upper classes.

His plays best revealed his devotion to the cause of the oppressed. Such dramas as "The Silver Box," 1906; "Strife," 1909; and "Justice," 1910, all dealt with social injustice. Indeed, "Justice" is credited with having caused drastic reforms in the British penal system.

"Painfully Observant."

It was said of his writing on social problems that he was not "painfully censorious," but "painfully observant."

His novels served best as vehicles for his thoughts on the virtues and vagaries of English patricians. For that purpose came from his pen such volumes as "The Man of Property," 1906; "The Patrician," 1911; and "The Forsyte Saga," a series, finished in 1928.

Galsworthy, who was 65 years old, developed his literary powers comparatively late in life. When at the age of 26 he met Joseph Conrad on a voyage to the South seas he had not yet begun to write. He had been educated at Harrow and Oxford with the intention of becoming a lawyer.

First Novel in 1898.

It may be that his acquaintance with Conrad, who was the ship's first officer, had much to do with his decision to give up the law for writing, for the two men talked much of literary subjects during the long South sea voyage.

Galsworthy, himself, said that he did not begin to write novels until he had "forgotten all I had learned at school and college."

His first novel, "Jocelyn," was published in 1898 when he was 31, but it was not until six years later that he attracted general attention. That was when "The Island of Pharisees," the first of many works dealing with social problems, appeared.

Lectured in Chicago.

Among his later works are the plays, "Old English," in which George Arliss starred; "Escape" and "Exiled." His last two novels were "Maid in Waiting," 1931, and "Flowering Wilderness," November, 1932.

Galsworthy made several trips to America and saw that nearly all his later productions were published simultaneously in England and the United States.

Galsworthy, on some of his lecture tours, visited Chicago. In April, 1919, he lectured on "The Briton and America" at Orchestra hall.

"Through literature, through the common language," he said at that time, "England and America should grow into a complete understanding of each other. So-called propaganda does little good."

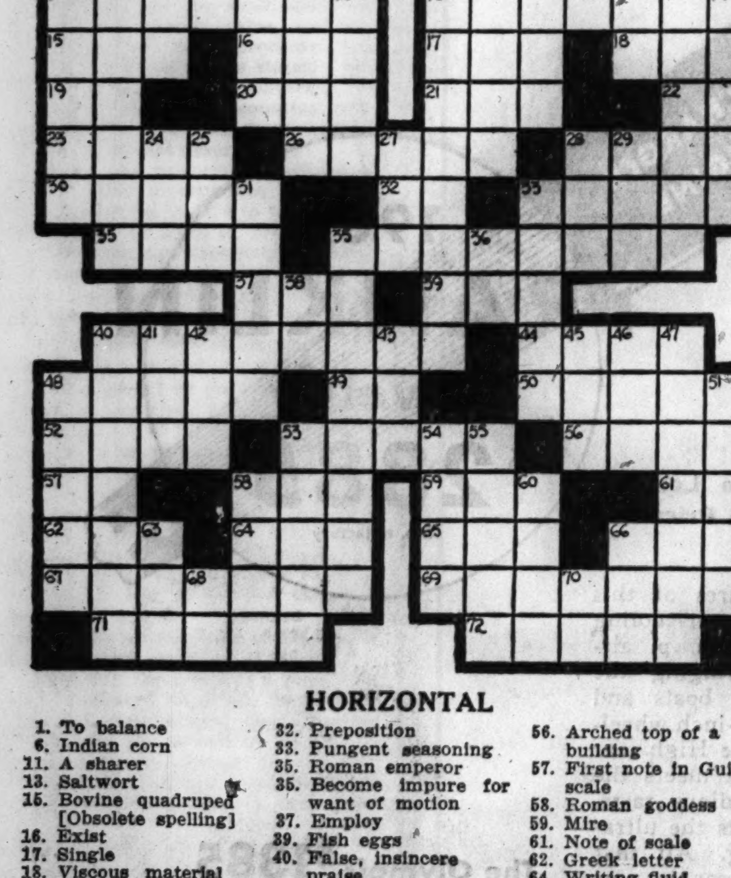

During his visit he startled an interviewer with an exclamation concerning Chicago smoke.

"Isn't it awful here in Chicago?" he asked. "We ought to stop smoke. It's dirty. It keeps us from being cheerful. Do you sometimes have clear days here? It is worse in England. Your city is spread out more than ours are—on the prairie."

MRS. HICKS' WILL LEAVES $100,000 TO U. OF CHICAGO

The late Mrs. Gertrude Dunn Hicks bequeathed more than $100,000 to the University of Chicago for the treatment of crippled children, it was disclosed yesterday when her will was filed in the Probate court. Mrs. Hicks, the widow of Oliver Hewlick Hicks, former chairman of the Sefton Manufacturing corporation, died on Jan. 16.

Her gift to the university was the second which she made for philanthropic purposes. In 1927 she gave the university $300,000 for the construction of the Hicks hospital for crippled children at 59th street and Ellis avenue. There 50 beds are provided for children whose families are unable to give them medical care. In 1928 Mrs. Hicks gave the university her collection of several hundred prayer beads, representing 31 different religions, and a tapestry valued at $25,000.

In her will, after making two minor personal bequests, Mrs. Hicks directed that the remainder of her estate, which attorneys say will exceed $100,000, be given to the university. The principal will be held in trust for 10 years and the income accumulated. The aggregate income then will be placed in trust to provide a fund for the operation of the hospital and the principal will become the property of the university outright.

Mrs. Jennie Warner Dies; Kin of Elgin's Founder

Jennie Davidson Warner, wife of A. L. Warner and a granddaughter of James T. Gifford, who founded the city of Elgin in 1835, died at her home, 433 Du Page street, Elgin, yesterday. She was born in Elgin 70 years ago. Mrs. Warner was a member of Elgin chapter D. A. R., the Elgin Woman's club, and several church and literary societies. Besides her husband she is survived by three sons and a daughter. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Norris chapel in Elgin.

ALDERMEN ASK CUT IN GARAGE LICENSE FEES

After listening to a plea of "hard times" from gasoline station and garage owners yesterday the finance committee of the city council recommended for passage ordinances reducing the annual license fees for those two businesses. The committee also recommended a new ordinance which licenses wholesale itinerant produce dealers.

The aldermen recommended that the fee of $50 for each gasoline tank of 1,050 gallons capacity be cut to $35, a reduction of 30 per cent that would cost the city $80,000 in annual revenue. The garage owners pay a fee based on car storage capacity, but in estimating the capacity under the new plan elevator shafts, ramps, waiting rooms, and office space would be exempted.

The new license ordinance is aimed principally at keeping uninspected produce out of Chicago. It would retain the $10 fee now paid by wholesale itinerant produce dealers who buy of licensed Chicago packing houses, but would compel itinerant dealers who handle commodities not previously inspected or who handle produce from outside Chicago to obtain a license at the rate of $150 for each vehicle used in the business.

Miss Mary L. Britt Dies; Rites Saturday

Miss Mary L. Britt, sister of Thomas H. Britt, head of an ammonia company in Milwaukee bearing his name, died yesterday in her home at 5661 Ridge avenue after an illness of two months. Besides Mr. Britt, she is survived by another brother, John, and a sister, Anna. Funeral services will be held on Saturday morning from St. Ita's church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

CHICAGO SALESMAN HELD UP.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Ben Talender, 5320 Prairie avenue, Chicago, a traveling salesman, was held up today by two armed men two miles north of here and forced to surrender his automobile after being relieved of $40 in money.

YACHTSMAN WILL CAST BROTHER'S ASHES ON LAKE

When George M. Seagrove, who died suddenly in New York last Saturday, was a Chicagoan he and his brother, Gordon, were among the most enthusiastic yachtsmen on Lake Michigan. In death Mr. Seagrove is to return to the lake.

Chicago friends were informed yesterday by Gordon Seagrove that he would sail out of the harbor at Grand Haven, Mich., next Saturday and scatter the ashes of his brother on the waves. This will be done, it was said, in conformity to a request made by George Seagrove shortly before his death.

Until five years ago the Seagroves were residents of Chicago. Their father, the late George A. Seagrove, headed a private detective agency for many years. The brothers were associated in the advertising business and originated and conducted one of the most spectacular campaigns of recent years.

At the time of his death George Seagrove was 39 years old. He was a veteran of the world war, having gone to France in 1917 with a regiment of engineers. His wife died several years ago.

THURE JOHANSON, 63, CABLE PIANO DIRECTOR, IS DEAD

Funeral services for Thure A. Johanson, a director of the Cable Piano company of Chicago, will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Bethlehem Lutheran church of St. Charles. Mr. Johanson died Monday in his home at St. Charles. He was 63 years old.

In July, 1923, while president of the Swedish Glee club of Chicago, Mr. Johanson was decorated by King Gustav V. of Sweden in recognition of his work in promoting Swedish music in America. Mr. Johanson was a member of the St. Charles school board, a charter member of the Chicago Swedish club, and a member of the Kane County Republican committee. He is survived by his widow, Maria; a daughter, Mrs. Fred Mosedale; a son, Ralph, two brothers and four sisters.

THE high character and deep solemnity of Haggard Funeral Services is maintained always. Complete funerals as low as $100. Free use of chapels. Men or women directors.

U. S. QUIZ BARES INSULL LOANS, BAD ACCOUNTING

Charge 'Net Profits' Really a Loss.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—"Deliberate violation of established accounting principles," was charged against Insull Utility Investments, Inc., here today by the federal trade commission as the government instituted a further investigation of Insull holding companies.

Examiner Carl H. Depue testified that the company inflated its income to pay dividends which were not earned, and he accused Arthur Young & Co., Insull auditors, of "apparently approving" the practices used by the company in including "fictitious items" in its income account.

In reference to Insull Utility Investments, Inc., the examiner stated that the Insull company never earned the dividends it paid, and that while it reported a net income during 1931 of $5,240,540, it actually lost $1,306,235. "In fact," the examiner continued, "the company did not earn even the cash dividends paid during any year of its existence, except 1929."

Large Loans to Insulls.

Unauthorized loans of large sums by Insull companies to Samuel and Martin J. Insull and other officials were revealed as never having been repaid. A $100,000 "loan" by the Midland United company to Samuel Insull was never approved by the company's directors as far as the commission could determine.

Chief Counsel Robert E. Healey told the commission he knew of at least $46,000 in payments made by the Middle West Utilities company at the time of the Frank Smith campaign in Illinois to Martin J. Insull which "no one was able to account for," including Martin Insull himself.

Commission investigators testified that a check for $10,000 was given by the American Public Utilities company to Martin Insull as a "refund for special payment," but nothing could be found in the books about such a payment.

Loans on Unsecured Notes.

In other instances the commission was told that there was no "very tangible basis" for valuing loans and the collateral given for security of such loans. Unsecured notes were issued to the Chicago Civic Opera company for $123,000; to the Lake County Land association [real estate trust organized by Samuel Insull] for $255,000, and to the Wilkinson Process Rubber Sales corporation [now being liquidated by receivers] for $24,746.

A loan of $500,000 was made to K. L. Ames Jr. secured by notes of the Chicago Post Publishing corporation and its entire capital stock, through Halsey, Stuart & Co. Advances were made also to F. L. Daily in the amount of $67,647; Julianne Doane, $30,000; Benjamin H. Miller, $110,000. In all, the unpaid total on April 16, 1932, the date of receivership, was $1,108,982. In addition, "substantial" loans were made to affiliated companies which were said to have been used to make loans to individuals.

Attacks Accounting Methods.

Examiner Depue took up in detail various bookkeeping practices uncovered in his examination of the Insull company and declared that by such methods the company gave false and misleading representations as regards its earnings.

The Insull company's practice of reporting as income stock dividends at their full market value, and also as income the entire proceeds from sales of stock rights, he stated, "can be construed only as a deliberate violation of established accounting principles which have been recognized by the court of last resort."

Tracing the financial operations of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., from its organization in 1928 to the date of receivership on April 16, 1932, Mr. Depue told the commission that securities originally valued on the company's books at $237,892,050 had shrunk in market value to approximately $30,402,267.

Pledged Most of Assets.

The decline in market values of the securities owned by the company, the examiner asserted, led it to pledge practically all of its acceptable securities and to borrow additional securities and pledge them. As a result, he said, the company's situation at the time of receivership showed that securities having a book value of $178,584,019 had a market value of $23,878,065; securities loaned having a book value of $34,723,921 had a market value of $4,877,621, and the unpledged securities having a book value of $24,584,209 had a market value of $1,646,580.

Analyzing the company's report for 1931, published only two months before the receivership, the examiner stated that the income of $12,225,642, minus expenses, reported for the year included $5,145,467 of stock dividends and $1,401,309 of proceeds from sales of stock rights. Together, he said, "they amounted to $6,546,776 and the elimination of those fictitious items leaves a net loss for the year of $1,306,235 instead of the reported net income of $5,240,540."

CHICAGO BANKING RECORD BETTER THAN BELIEVED

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Other large cities have pointed to Chicago as the horrible example because of its numerous bank failures in 1931 and early 1932. New York with its mutual savings societies has been publicized as a place where depositors are properly protected.

Without attempting to minimize the severity of the bank crisis in June, 1932, it is now possible to present some facts and figures which show that Chicago's record has compared favorably with the records of other cities.

Chicago was one of the first cities to undergo its banking crisis. It was inevitable that much publicity should attend the working out of the situation here simply because of the fact that it came early.

Chicago First Hit, Others Suffer Now.

Since June, 1932, while Chicago has been steadily advancing from its low point in public confidence, while deposits have been piling up and the banks' liquidity has been increasing many other cities have had to undergo their cleaning up period. The publicity accorded the Chicago situation last year, however, has been lacking in other cities.

Perusal of the records reveal the following facts:

1. Less depositors' money has been tied up in all the banks that failed in Chicago than was tied up in New York City's one big failure, that of the Bank of the United States.

2. Had the Chicago banks been subjected to as little pressure from withdrawals as the New York savings banks have been all of the 60 or so banks that closed in the early months of 1932 would still be doing business and would be in good shape financially.

3. That the Chicago banks that closed in 1932 did a remarkable job of liquidating prior to closing—that, on the average, they paid out about 75 per cent of their 1929 deposits.

Ten of Closed Banks Show Drop in Deposits.

Here, for example, are ten banks taken at random from the number that closed in 1932 together with the approximate deposits of each in October, 1929, and the deposits on, or shortly before, the closing date.

	Deposits October, '29	Deposits when closed.
Alliance National..	$ 4,800,000	$ 680,000
Commonwealth T&S.	2,340,000	360,000
First Englewood St.	3,130,000	703,000
Jefferson Park Nat..	4,820,000	1,320,000
Kaspar Amer State..	13,648,000	4,850,000
Logan Sq St & Sav..	3,500,000	950,000
Madison Sq State....	3,450,000	970,000
Parkway State	800,000	80,000
Peoples National ...	14,900,000	3,675,000
Reliance Bk & Trust	10,800,000	3,200,000
Stockmen's Tr & Sav.	2,700,000	705,000
Home Bank & Tr C.	9,300,000	1,360,000
West Irving State...	1,330,000	385,000

All save two of the above banks closed in June, 1932.

Despite the fact that they paid out in cash to depositors an average of 75 per cent of all deposits these thirteen banks still had valuable assets when they closed and will continue to pay out cash to depositors as they are liquidated.

Banks Closing Last Year Are Called Good Banks.

"The banks in Chicago that closed last summer were good banks," says one prominent banking authority. "And although they were not as liquid as banks that are running today they were by no means frozen. Any banks that can in two and a half years go from top of boom to trough of depression and pay off three-fourths of their deposits are good banks.

"Had it not been for depreciation in their bond accounts most of the banks that closed in June, 1932, would still be open."

During a year in the first half of which scores of the smaller Chicago banks were being called on to pay down to 25 per cent of their 1929 deposits mutual savings banks throughout the United States experienced no unusual demands for withdrawals. The national association of mutual savings banks reported a drop for the nation of only one half of one per cent in deposits during 1932.

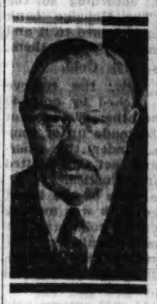

Illinois has no mutual savings banks. In this state savings deposits are not arbitrarily segregated by commercial banks.

METROPOLITAN LIFE'S INCOME CLOSE TO BILLION

Total Assets Gain $179,256,772.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—Total income of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company for 1932 was nearly $1,000,000,000, or the largest ever recorded by the company or any other life insurance company, it was revealed in the annual report made public by Frederick H. Ecker, president, today. Total assets and total payments to policyholders also reached high levels.

F. H. ECKER. [Acme Photo.]

The balance sheet of the company as of Dec. '31 shows total assets of $3,769,372,425, representing an increase of $179,256,772 for the year. The company maintained its position as the largest underwriter of life insurance in the world.

100 Millions in Policy Dividends.

Mr. Ecker announced the dividend policy of the company for 1933, showing a slight reduction from the total paid in the preceding year. During the coming twelve months the company will distribute $101,685,956 to 26,000,000 policyholders, a decline of $514,808 from the record total of $102,400,764 paid out in 1932.

Total income for the year amounted to $921,953,101. Payment to policyholders also reached the record figure of $562,804,651. Of this, $151,262,286 was paid out in death benefits and the balance was paid to living policy holders in the form of matured endowments, annuities, dividends, disability benefits and cash surrender values.

The company's paid-for business during the year, including revivals and increases, amounted to $3,272,178,268, of which $1,571,593,135 represented ordinary insurance and $146,190,015 group insurance.

At the end of the year the company had in force $9,903,141,559, or 12.8 per cent of all the ordinary insurance outstanding with all United States companies. It had $6,535,046,064, or 37.6 per cent of all outstanding industrial insurance and $2,542,555,585, or 28.3 per cent of all group insurance, and a grand total of $18,980,743,208, or 18.3 per cent of all life insurance in force in the country.

In spite of the extraordinary demands of policyholders for loans, coupled with the normally large disbursements of the company to policyholders, the company's income, averaging $3,032,740 a day, was more than enough to meet demands and make additions to reserves, Mr. Ecker said.

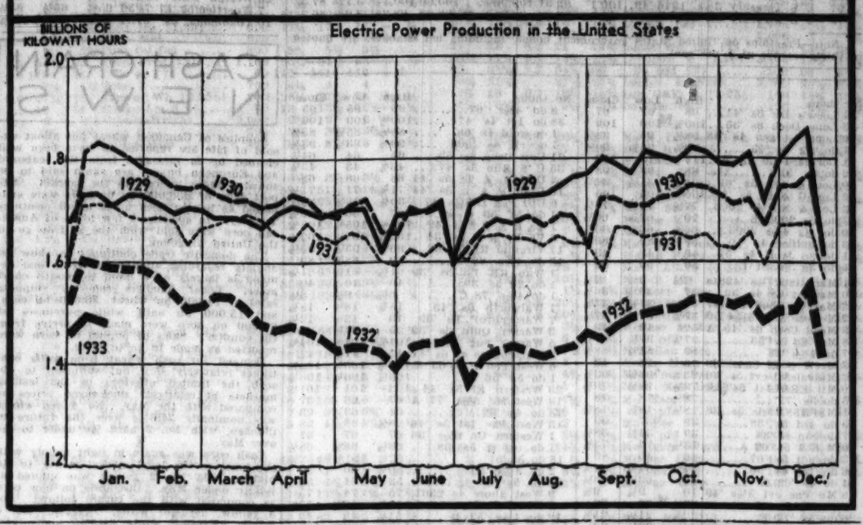

BORDEN CO. VOTES DIVIDEND OF 40C; NET $1.70 A SHARE

Directors of the Borden company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share. The action places the stock on a $1.60 annual basis, against $2 formerly. A total of $2.50 was paid last year.

Arthur W. Milburn, chairman of the executive committee, announced that earnings for 1932 would approximately be $1.70 a share after "charges of every nature." In 1931 the company reported net profit of $3.47 a share.

The annual report to be issued March 1 will show the company in a strong cash position, he said.

Electric Power Production Follows Trend of a Year Ago

Check on Tax Spending Held Cure for Slump

This is the last of a series of ten articles reviewing the attitudes toward the solution of the depression held by business leaders, financiers and economists in the United States today.

BY REUBEN D. CAHN.

The official attitude toward the depression has undergone a number of changes in the last three years. At first it was declared that there wasn't going to be any depression. When it came to be recognized that there really was a depression after all an increase in public expenditures for building was the Washington method for combatting it. Though more than two billion dollars was employed on that program, it has proved to be highly ineffectual as a depression tamer.

In the beginning the central banking policy was to let the depression run its course. From doing nothing the federal reserve banks, late in 1931, even fell into helping the deflation along by suffering the amount of their credit in use to decline while security and commodity prices were collapsing.

Reserve Inflates Credit.

When this was finally recognized as suicidal a policy was adopted of inflating the credit through the federal reserve open market operations and the Reconstruction Finance corporation. This has achieved some measure of comfort for the groups directly affected, but it has not started an upward trend in business. Latterly the reserve banks have retired from their inflationary credit policy. And the country is wondering what is next.

The persistence a 1 even aggravation of the depression has impressed some people with the necessity for more comprehensive and aggressive action being taken. Among the measures being currently discussed inflation, through the use of managed currency or through a reduction in the size of the dollars, has come strikingly to the fore.

Year of Inflation Debate.

"Nineteen thirty-three," says Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker and high in the councils of the American Bankers' association, "will be remembered as the year of the great inflation debate between dollars and debts. The issue is whether we should change our monetary system to have more and thinner dollars to pay debts. It is the same fight between inflation and sound money as was waged in the '40s, by the greenback advocates in the '70s, and by the advocates of free silver in the '90s. I think that the inflationists will again be defeated."

Others are not so confident as Col.

C. S. PETERSON IN 2D BANKRUPTCY SUIT IN 9 YEARS

The Kenfield-Leach Printing company, 610 Federal street, of which Charles S. Peterson, former city treasurer, is president, was placed in receivership yesterday by Federal Judge George Carpenter. Chester Willoughby was named receiver.

This is the second bankruptcy recorded against Peterson in the federal courts in nine years. In 1924, Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe adjudged him a bankrupt, this action being precipitated by the collapse of the Better Tires corporation in which he was a major stockholder. It was said at that time that Peterson had failed for $1,000,000, largely in his personal wealth. He denied this, asserting he was solvent.

Peterson blamed the depression for yesterday's action. He said that the bankruptcy petition was filed a month ago by three minor creditors. A composition—the banding of all creditors to adjudicate the matter out of court—was attempted, but failed.

Peterson said that the liabilities of the printing house were $309,000, and that the assets, on book valuation, were $600,000 in excess of the indebtedness. The plant machinery cost $1,000,000 he added, but is now carried at $430,000. The bonded indebtedness of the company, he declared, has been reduced from $1,000,000 to $300,000.

Coincident with the bankruptcy order of Judge Carpenter, police were sent to the Kendfield-Leach plant on reports of a disturbance. The police said they found about 300 employés gathered to demand pay. The employés, the police reported, asserted they had received only 65 per cent of their wages during the last six months.

Plan U.S. Fiber Industry to End Imports

BY PAUL POTTER.

Steps to establish a soft vegetable fiber industry in the United States, replacing the large importations of those fibers now used in coarse sacks and bags, as well as the finer linen materials, are being taken in Chicago, it was disclosed yesterday.

The program is built upon research and investigation by Sears, Roebuck & Co., several independent economists, and C. L. Wallace, the owner of patents on a machine that will convert hemp plants or flax into fibrous materials economically. This machine was designed by John Selvig, German inventor.

Could Use Million Acres.

By creating this new industry to displace the present imports of jute and burlap from India, it is estimated that a million acres of farm land would be required to produce the fiber crops. Hemp can be grown over a wide area of the United States, but has not become an important crop because of competition with cheap foreign materials and the cost of obtaining its fibrous materials, it is pointed out.

The new investigations in this field indicate that if production were developed here, the saving as compared to the cost of importing materials would be greater than the total exportations of American grains during the years 1929 and 1930.

In those two years, according to government reports, the value of our exports of barley, corn, oats, rye, and wheat reached a total of $155,241,000. During the same period the value of jute, flax, hemp, paper pulp, and other fibrous materials amounted to $407,166,000.

Chicago Importing Center.

Chicago is the center of the greatest use of burlap and jute materials in the United States, according to the research agencies working on the survey. Most of its present supplies come from India, from which in 1930 the exports of burlap cloth alone were 1,650,525,234 yards. The United States imported more than a billion yards of this amount, and Argentine, the next largest importing country, took a third of a billion yards.

"This country is on the eve of developing a fiber industry," said Franklyn Hobbs, La Salle street economist, who has been delving into its possibilities for several years. "The demand and the source of supply have been here, but what has been needed is an economical means of converting the raw product into finished product. The Selvig machine seems to offer this means."

The technical director of Sears Roebuck & Co., Gen. W. I. Westervelt, also has reached the conclusion that a hemp industry can be reëstablished in the United States. Gen. Westervelt is one of a group seeking to perfect the organization to make the industry possible.

U. S. STEEL CO. CUTS DIVIDEND TO $2 YEARLY

Fourth Quarter Loss Less than Third.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—The thirty-two-year record of the United States Steel corporation of uninterrupted payments at a quarterly rate of $1.75 a share on its $7.00 preferred stock was ended today. The directors reduced the dividend to 50 cents a share quarterly because of the large draft on the cash and working resources of the company.

MYRON C. TAYLOR. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The directors also issued a preliminary report of earnings in 1932, which showed, after preferred dividends amounting to $20,716,162, a deficit of $91,987,961, the largest in the company's history. This compares with a deficit in 1931 of $49,185,485, after preferred dividends of $25,219,677 and common dividends of $36,983,949. The net loss for 1932, after depreciation, interest and other charges but before dividends, was $71,271,799, against a net profit of $13,038,141 in 1931.

So Big a Cut Unexpected.

It had been intimated that the dividend might be reduced, and as long ago as last July, the directors had warned that its continuation was dependent on improvement in business and earnings. Nevertheless, the extent of the cut took Wall street by surprise. A reduction to a $5 or $4 annual basis had been generally looked for, but not to $2.

For several days, the stock market had drifted aimlessly while the financial community awaited the outcome of the steel corporation's meeting. The common and preferred stocks of the company, together with other leading issues, were firm today on the stock exchange, the common advancing three-eighths point to 28¾, and the preferred, a half point to 61½.

When the directors announced their decision, after the close of the New UNNECESSARY TAXES

HANDING down your property to your family costs money. How much, depends upon how you do it.

For example, taxes on the transfer of a $250,000 estate under different plans may be $31,567; $14,819; $12,405 or $6,627.

The whole subject of taxes on the passing of property is an important one.

Have your attorney re-examine your will. Consult with this Company regarding the administrative features of handling your estate.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets remain in a state of equilibrium. For the fourth consecutive day wheat held within a range of 1c per bu yesterday and neither reports of snow in parts of the dry area in Kansas nor dust storms in other sections of the same state had any effect. Spreading operations in the way of buying wheat futures in Chicago against sales at Kansas City and at Winnipeg furnished a good part of the day's business.

Since the close last Thursday May wheat in the local market has held between 47@48c, running into selling orders on the minor upturns and receiving support on the breaks. While there was a firm undertone disclosed yesterday, this was regarded as due in part to the spreading with other markets. The finish was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with July showing the most strength. May finished at 47⅝@47¾c; July, 47⅞@48c, and September, 48⅞c.

Trade Sentiment Changing.

As long as the market continues to ignore the news developments wheat traders express the belief that speculative interests will remain light. But many of the exchange floor operators are privately expressing bullish views as to the ultimate trend, claiming that sooner or later the extremely unfavorable outlook for the new winter wheat crop will induce buying. However, this is not regarded as likely to occur until early in March unless there are untoward political or economic developments.

The quiet which prevails in American markets is reported as also existing in Winnipeg and abroad. The Canadian market finished unchanged to ⅛c higher, while Liverpool was ⅝c per bu lower and Buenos Aires was ¼c lower. There was no pressure of either Canadian or Argentine cash wheat abroad.

Cash Houses Sell July Corn.

Buying of May corn against sales of the July by cash interests, presumably to change over hedges into the deferred delivery, furnished a good part of the trade in that grain. Commission houses and spreaders did the reverse, but the difference widened around ⅛c for the day, May being 1⅝c under the distant future at the close. The finish was unchanged to ⅛c lower, with May, 26⅛c; July, 27⅝c, and September, 28⅝c at the last.

Rye finished unchanged to ⅛c higher, following wheat to some extent. May closed at 34½c and July at 34⅛c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower, with May, 16⅞@17c, and July, 17¼c at the last. May barley sold at 27⅜c, or the same as Monday's finish.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Supplies of Canadian wheat put afloat unsold of late are reported to have been well cleaned up in messages from the seaboard and European buyers are again said to be showing more interest in the market. Export sales of 600,000 bu or more were estimated as having been made in all positions Tuesday. In addition a few loads of American corn were sold from the gulf to go to the United Kingdom.

The domestic trade continues to show no anxiety regarding supplies of grain and demand is largely of a hand to mouth character. Local handlers reported shipping sales of 11,000 bu wheat, 50,000 bu corn, and 15,000 bu oats, while purchases of 65,000 bu corn were made to arrive from the country. Sales of 50,000 bu corn were reported as made to go to store.

Demand for cash wheat from mills continues relatively slow but sufficient to absorb the limited offerings in the leading markets at relatively unchanged prices as compared with the May. No. 2 red winter was nominally 3@3½c over the future in Chicago, with No. 2 hard ½c under to ⅛c over May.

Cash corn was again in light supply with the basis in the local market steady to ⅛c higher. Old No. 2 yellow was quoted at ½@⅝c under May. Discounts on new corn as compared with the future follow: No. 3 yellow, 2@2½c; white, 2½@2⅝c; No. 4 yellow, 2⅝@3⅛c; white, 3@3⅛c, and mixed, 3@4c.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Tuesday: Wheat, 3 cars; corn, 63 cars; oats, 6 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 2 cars.

CHICAGO RESERVE NOTES BACKED BY 98% GOLD

Only 40% Is Necessary Under Present Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—The Chicago federal reserve bank has a larger percentage of gold behind its reserve notes than any other bank in the system, and notes of the Chicago bank have become almost gold certificates, the federal reserve board announced today.

Behind every dollar of notes which it has had issued to it by the federal reserve agent, the Chicago bank has 98 cents in gold, according to the board's figures. The Chicago bank had $721,624,000 notes issued to it and had $708,510,000 in gold behind them.

Need Only 40% Gold.

Under existing law, the reserve notes need to be backed by only 40 per cent gold. The other 60 per cent of collateral can be made up of commercial paper or, under the emergency Glass-Steagall act, by United States government securities.

On Jan. 25, the date of the latest report, the Chicago bank was making no use of the security collateral provisions of the Glass-Steagall act. Basing its notes almost entirely on gold, it had only $15,638,000 of commercial paper pledged as collateral.

The percentage of gold reserve held behind its notes by the Chicago bank was 17 points higher than the average for the 12 federal reserve banks. The aggregate gold reserve for the 12 banks was $2,390,103,000, or 81 per cent of the $2,933,505,000 in notes issued to the banks by the reserve agents.

New York Rates 92%.

Although gold flows into the country through New York and its influence is felt first there, the New York bank had a smaller percentage of gold behind its notes than the Chicago bank. Its reserves of gold cover only 92 per cent of its notes. The Boston bank has the second largest percentage of gold, 97 per cent, behind its notes.

While these banks have abnormal gold reserves supporting their notes, the other nine banks bring the average for the system down. The Dallas bank has only 48 per cent gold behind its notes, only 8 per cent more than the legal minimum set by the law.

U. S. LAND BANKS TO PAY $141,665 ON 125 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Federal land banks have been called upon to pay back immediately $141,665 of the 125 million dollars which the treasury department advanced them for emergency needs last year, the federal farm loan board announced today.

Latest reports from the 11 banks which were called upon for a repayment are that they all have paid. This is the second call for repayment which the farm loan board has issued. The previous call brought in $100,880 and the new payments will bring the total payments up to $242,545.

This money goes into a revolving fund upon which the banks can call if they are in need of additional capital to help them carry delinquents. It was for this purpose that congress granted the 125 millions last year.

Up to Jan. 28, only about half of the $141,665 which the board had called for on Jan. 24 had actually come in, according to treasury department records, but officials of the board insisted today that the remainder has now been paid.

The St. Louis land bank, which serves Illinois, has been asked to repay $5,745.

More Home Loan Bank Members.

The Federal Home Loan bank of Evanston yesterday made public the acceptance into membership of twelve more building and loan associations in Illinois, four of which are in Chicago and four in the suburbs. They are:

A. J. Smith Home Building association, 12000 South Halsted street, Chicago.

Almira Building and Loan association, 3508 Wabansia avenue, Chicago.

Ben Franklin Building and Loan association, 1814 South Ashland avenue, Chicago.

Parkside Building and Loan association, 5752 Irving Park boulevard, Chicago.

Citizens' Building and Loan association, Chicago Heights, Ill.

General Sowinski Building and Loan association, 2925 South 49th avenue, Cicero.

Hawthorne Club Savings Building and Loan association, 24th street and 48th avenue, Cicero.

Rainbow Building and Loan association, 5219 West 25th street, Cicero.

Commercial Travelers' Loan and Homestead association, Peoria.

Fidelity Savings and Loan society, Galesburg.

Macomb Building and Loan association, Macomb.

Rock Island Mutual Building and Loan association, Rock Island.

These twelve associations have combined assets of $18,055,220 and they now have mortgage loans on 5,948 homes, totaling $13,974,350 in amount. This brings the total of building and loan associations which have been accepted into membership to forty-eight, with combined assets of $61,818,920. These forty-eight associations have mortgage loans on 19,418 homes, totaling $48,142,250.

The bank also announces that lines of credit amounting to $13,332,000 have been approved to member institutions to date.

'NO PROFIT IN BANKING,' ROSELAND NATIONAL TO PAY DEPOSITORS, QUIT

After watching the deposits of the Roseland National Bank of Chicago melt from $1,250,000 to $130,000 in two years' time the directors have decided to wind up the affairs of the institution, pay off the remaining deposits and quit the banking business.

Theophilus Schmid, president of the bank which is located at 10833 South Michigan avenue, said last night that a special meeting of stockholders has been called for March 4 to approve the liquidation plan.

The bank has paid off approximately 90 per cent of its deposits in the last two years, Mr. Schmid said. The drain on deposits began when the Bain chain started to break up and has continued since, he said.

Most of the bank's accounts are being transferred to the Pullman Trust and Savings bank, 400 East 111th street.

"I am gratified that we have been able to pay off the depositors in an orderly fashion," Mr. Schmid said. "Since Monday we have been paying off the remaining deposits. I am gratified to get out of the banking business. There has been no profit in it for us in the last two years."

It is expected that a liquidating agent or committee will be appointed by the stockholders to wind up the remaining business of the institution when they meet March 4.

New York, Jan. 31.—Under the influence of a strong and active railroad list, prices of bonds in general advanced today. Prices of carrier liens advanced from fractions to more than a point in both speculative and high grade issues.

Sentiment in the street each day grows more favorable to the carrier group. Second grade issues are popular as speculative vehicles.

German government bonds regained their equilibrium today, as fears of radical policies under the Hitler régime were partly dissipated. The government 5½s and 7s rallied about a point.

United States government securities were in good demand, though prices failed to gain appreciably. The new five year 2⅝ per cent notes, dated Feb. 1, sold at 101, a full point premium over the offering price.

RAILROAD BOND OFFERING MEETS PROMPT SUCCESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—Prompt success met an offering today of the first railroad bonds, except for equipment trusts, to be marketed since November, 1931. Books were closed shortly after 10 o'clock on $12,000,000 Cincinnati Union Terminal company first mortgage 5 per cent series C bonds that were offered at 100 by a group including J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the First National bank, and the National City company. The new bonds sold nearly three points above the public offering price in the trading on the floor of the exchange.

INFLATION CAN'T BE HELD IN CHECK, ASSERTS MILLS

Pictures Results of Tinkering with Money.

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, tonight said inflation, once started, "soon becomes completely out of control and pursues an irresistible course until it collapses."

Addressing the Columbia Institute of Arts and Sciences, the treasury secretary said:

"While inflation at some stages in the process appears to correct some of the evils arising during a period of deflation, all experience teaches that whatever the earlier appearance may be all classes are ultimately adversely affected and eventually it results in ruin to the economic life of a nation and brings terrible disaster to all its people.

"Visit those countries of Europe which, through force of circumstances rather than choice experienced the panacea of inflation," he added, "and you will find they fear inflation more than any other economic phenomena."

Declaring that "We have had a sound currency for so long that we take the soundness of money for granted," Mills said, "it is difficult for us to picture the ruinous effects of currency depreciation."

He said there are two main classes of proposals seeking a "short cut out of the depression" by means of government action. These classes, he pointed out, are by no means distinct and separate, but tend to overlap.

"The first group would bring about inflation," Mills said, "by the piling up of large governmental deficits that cannot be met through normal borrowing operations, of which proposals for a huge public works program is an example."

Mills said the second choice of proposals would bring about inflation "by partial or complete debasement of the currency."

"Under the first program," he continued, "the government must inevitably resort to the central banks of issue. They, not acting on their own volition, but by government compulsion, are driven to provide the basis for a credit increase. Such a procedure was resorted to during the war. In fact, many of our agricultural troubles today are directly traceable to this war time inflation of prices of agricultural products and land."

Inflation by Printing Press.

Under the second method, he said, the government "would issue a paper dollar which would have no value except for the say-so of the government. It will be urged, of course, that the promise of the United States government is worth a great deal. It is under ordinary circumstances and when the government conducts its business with prudence and in accordance with the dictates of sound financial policy. But if the government should undertake to print and pass out 'say-so' money it would at once destroy confidence in all United States currency."

"What would happen?" the secretary asked.

. . . "So long as our currency were redeemable in gold every holder of currency, every one with a bank balance, every foreigner with balances in this country, or American securities, would at once convert them into gold," he said. "In a very short while our gold stock would approach exhaustion. We would be obliged to suspend gold payment. We would then find ourselves on an irredeemable paper currency basis, with currency that, as the vicious spiral of inflation circled upward, would constantly decrease in value."

STOCK MARKET DRIFTS; PRICE RANGE NARROW

Railway Section Makes Best Showing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—With the important United States Steel dividend meeting scheduled to follow the close of business, the stock trading fraternity proceeded to catch up on their whittling today, leaving the market to idle.

The result was about the most indifferent performance of the year. Hardly a leading share swung as much as a point in either direction and some ten trading favorites accounted for a full 25 per cent of the total volume. Closing prices were mixed, with net changes almost entirely limited to fractions.

Rails Make Best Showing.

In groups, railroad shares made the best showing and utilities the worst. In addition to growing predictions of especial help from the Roosevelt administration, the carriers are getting a few handclaps from the December earnings reports now coming in. Returns of the first sixty or so roads to report for the month showed an increase of some 13 per cent in net operating income over the average figures for December, 1931, although the gross for the month was about 15 per cent below that of the closing month of 1932.

As for the utilities they have been in a bad way for some reason since the turn of the year. Rate reductions in different populous centers and the widespread clamor for more drastic cuts is the chief worry of the followers of these issues.

N. Y. Tractions Strong.

New York traction issues, which are suppose to be in line for a fair increase instead of a reduction, were about the only shares of the division to show any strength at all. Both Interborough and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit shares moved against the trend for fractional gains. Selling was particularly heavy at intervals in Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, and other power and light descriptions.

Both United States Steel issues were able to register small net gains in spite of the prevailing pessimism regarding the outcome of the corporation's board meeting in the late afternoon.

In the motor division Studebaker preferred rallied nearly 3 points on short covering, following the omission of the dividend, but later selling wiped out most of the runup. Chrysler fell under pressure in the late trading and touched its low for the year.

American Car and Foundry.

What do you think of American Car and Foundry stock?—Mrs. M. B. R.

American Car and Foundry company has an annual capacity of 109,800 freight cars and 1,236 passenger cars, about one-third the producing capacity of the United States. During 1931 total freight cars sold by the industry totaled 14,838, against an average of 132,700 per year for the four years through 1925. The industry sold 43 passenger cars in 1931, against an annual average of 1,860 for the 1922-1925 period. Business in 1932 was at an even lower scale.

The decline has been due to many factors. Improved routing by railroads has enabled them to get along with fewer cars. Modern cars have longer life. Many roads now make their own repairs and can thus maintain their cars efficiently. In recent years financial condition of railroads generally has prevented the purchase of items not absolutely necessary. General falling off of traffic has necessitated use of fewer cars.

In 1925 the company began a program of diversification. It now manufactures motor boats, buses, gasoline engines and electric interurban and street cars. A subsidiary manufactures about one-third of the carburetors used by the automobile industry. The manufacture of railroad cars is still, however, the most important phase of its business.

In the six months to Oct. 31, 1932, net loss was $985,000 against loss of $982,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. During the year ended April 30, 1932, net loss was $2,577,000. For the preceding year net income was $1,406,000, equal to only $4.69 per share of 7 per cent preferred. For the year ended April 30, 1930, net income was $5,364,000, against $2,714,000 for the preceding year.

Current assets on April 30, 1932, were $27,104,000, and current liabilities were $2,508,000. Working capital was $24,596,000, against $32,341,000 the year before.

The company has no funded debt. There are outstanding 300,000 shares of 7 per cent, noncumulative preferred [par $100] and 600,000 shares of no par common. The preferred dividend, due Oct. 1, 1932, was omitted for the first time since issuance of the stock.

The effectiveness of the policy of diversification cannot be clearly estimated until there is a general increase in activity in the lines in which the company operates.

Both the preferred and the common are speculative.

ALL SLUMP CURES FAIL; CUT IN TAX SPENDING URGED

Ayres. In fact, a very considerable number of people believe that some sort of inflation is highly probable, and even essential, if we are to avoid something worse. The new national administration will soon have the opportunity of dealin with the depression and electin what side it will take in the great "inflation debate."

What Government Can Do.

Meanwhile there are positive steps which the government can take to promote recovery. Washington has been piling up a debt at a rate never equaled in all American history, except during the world war. To sustain spending at the highest peak time rate the liquid funds of banks, which would otherwise press for employment in commercial uses, have been borrowed by the government.

The foundations of our American financial system are an abundance of funds for commercial uses and a strong government credit. The government should release the funds which it has monopolized so that they can seek employment in their normal commercial uses. Secondly, recalling that a requirement of all sound credit is that expenditures be no more than income, the government can promote recovery by bringing expenditures within the range of what can be expected from a system of revenue moderate enough to encourage men to embark in business ventures.

Standard Oil of Indiana Starts Winter Ad Drive

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has initiated a winter advertising campaign in newspapers in sixty cities in thirteen states. The campaign will be enlarged later on to include a number of more cities.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Further easiness developed in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing ⅛c, and eggs ⅛@¼c lower. Selling was fairly active in February butter despite favorable statistical news. Switching from February to March featured the trading. Toward the close, slightly better buying developed and caused a rally from the low point. The four markets took out 230,000 lbs. more butter than last year while receipts were about equal to last year. Egg receipts at Chicago and New York were greatly over last year. Spot prices declined again and selling resulted in the futures. February fresh firsts and Octobers were the center of most of the pressure. Sales: butter, 262 cars; eggs, 39 cars. Prices follow:

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 31.—(AP)—COTTON—9,000 bales, American nil. Spot moderate business done; prices eleven points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.70d; good middling, 5.10d; strict middling, 5.15d; middling, 5.00d; strict low middling, 4.85d; low middling, 4.70d; strict good ordinary, 4.50d; good ordinary, 4.20d. Futures closed quiet and steady: March, 4.78d; May, 4.81d; July, 4.83d; October, 4.88d; December, 4.91d. Official noon closing value Jan. [1933] 4.78d.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was steady today, with final prices unchanged to 3 points lower. The only business was an exchange of 3 lots of September for March at 34 points difference. Crude oil was steady and the steadiness of lard offset the reaction in cotton. Bleachable spot closed 3.50c March, 3.65c; May, 3.77c; July, 3.88c; September, 3.97c.

NEW LOWS ON COTTON DUE TO LIQUIDATION

Continued liquidation, especially on March contracts, carried prices for the nearby delivery down to new lows from which there was no rally, the close being at the bottom with net losses on futures in Chicago at 9@16 points, and other markets 8@12 points. Spots were off 10 points to 6.00c in New York, 5.90c in New Orleans and Galveston, and 5.80c in Houston. Liverpool closed 6@7 points net lower. Hedging sales were a feature, and there were liberal selling orders from Liverpool.

Spot basis in the south continues fairly firm, according to recent advices. Trade buying on the break helped to sustain prices for a time but proved inadequate to absorb all offerings at the last. Activity in Washington regarding the farm relief legislation was in a measure offset by the proposed rail relief bill receiving favorable comment.

Exports for the day were 49,000 bales. Commission house sentiment was mixed at the close, with more disposition to buy on any further break. Prices follow:

MAY LARD FIRMER WITH TRADE GENERALLY LIGHT

A small scattered trade developed in lard with interest mostly in May, which closed 2½c net higher, while prices on other deliveries were unchanged. January went out at $3.77½, or the same as on Monday, there being no trades. There were deliveries of 200,000 lbs.

Cash lard was $3.80 for regular, with loose $3.35 and leaf $3.25. Liverpool lard was 9d lower to 3d higher. Nothing was done in bellies, but cash prices were unchanged at $3.87½. A fair business was on in dry salted and sweet pickled meats, which were held steady. Pork loins were said to be selling slowly at 5½@7c.

Indications are that the monthly stock report due later today will show fair increases in lard and meats. Exports of lard was 1,075,000 lbs. Prices follow:

U. S. STEEL CO. CUTS DIVIDEND TO $2 ANNUALLY

Breaks 22 Year Record of Full Payments.

York Stock exchange, the corporation's common and preferred issues declined 1¾ to 4 points in the San Francisco and Los Angeles markets. The preferred sank to 56 and then recovered to close at 57½ bid and 57¾ asked. The common sold down to 26½.

Last Quarter Deficit Cut.

The report of the corporation for the fourth quarter of last year, which showed a substantial reduction in the deficit for the period compared with the third quarter, provided the financial community with some consolation. The loss from operations was $3,828,272, against $4,474,719 in the third quarter; the loss after depreciation, interest, extraordinary expenses and other charges was $16,831,007, against $20,871,709 in the third quarter, and the deficit was $18,530,773, against $27,176,628 in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter of last year there was operating profit of $3,970,820 and a net deficit after common and preferred dividends of $15,033,514.

In announcing the company's action, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board and of the finance committee, issued the following statement:

"Operations for the year, based on production of steel products, averaged 18.3 per cent of capacity, compared with 38 per cent in 1931. Operations for the second half were 15.4 per cent of capacity, dropping in August to the all time low figure of 13.6 per cent. There was some betterment in business during September and October but the demand receded noticeably in November and December.

Comparison of Year's Operations.

"The operations for the year 1932 and for 1931 present the following results:

	*1932.	1931.

Total reduction surplus	$90,186,557	49,165,485

*Net income. †Excludes fourth quarter dividend of 50 cents a share, or $1,987,962. ‡Excludes fourth quarter dividend, which makes total $91,987,981.

Assets Reduced $90,186,000.

"Including allowances for deterioration, exhaustion and retirement of fixed property, the year's reduction in net assets working and fixed, has been $90,186,000. The year's reduction in net working assets, including cash, United States government securities, receivables and inventories, has been $70,000,000.

"A large draft has accordingly been made upon the cash and working resources of the corporation, notwithstanding the introduction of drastic economies, as well as reduction of wages and salaries.

"In view of current conditions as set forth, the board of directors has today declared upon the preferred stock a dividend of 50 cents a share. The difference between this payment, and the full rate of $1.75 for the quarter, is deferred under the cumulative dividend provisions."

The dividend is payable Feb. 17 to stock of record Feb. 3.

Surplus Cut $140,000,000 in Two Years.

The company's statement showed that the total reduction in surplus in the last two years had been more than $140,000,000, and the total reduction in cash profits equivalent $54,700,246, including the dividend payment ordered today out of last year's earnings.

Reduction in the company's dividend on the preferred to $2 annually cuts the annual requirements on the issue from 25,219,677 to $7,951,848. There are 3,602,811 shares outstanding. The stock has been regarded for years as a high class investment and is widely held by endowed institutions. On Dec. 31, 1932, 3,275,614 shares, or 90.9 per cent, were held by investors.

SEEK RIGHT TO SUE UTILITIES POWER FOR $386,635 DEBT

Authority to sue the Utilities Power and Light corporation for $386,635 was sought by the receivers of Middle West Utilities company in a petition filed yesterday with Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

The amount sought, the bill sets forth, is the balance due from Utilities Power under a contract entered into March 9, 1926. Under the agreement Utilities Power pledged to buy certain securities from Middle West for the sum of $23,750,000, according to the bill.

STUDEBAKER CO. OMITS DIVIDEND ON PREFERRED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—A record of continuous dividend payments extending for more than twenty years was broken today when the board of the Studebaker company decided to omit the quarterly disbursement of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock.

Dividends had been paid at an annual rate of $7 a share on the preferred stock since the company's incorporation in 1911. The dividend on this issue is cumulative.

INLAND STEEL HAS 3 MILLION DOLLAR DEFICIT

A deficit of $3,045,628 for 1932 after depreciation and other charges reported yesterday by the Inland Steel company and subsidiaries. Net income in 1931 was $1,263,600, or $1.05 a share.

The report was a preliminary statement subject to final audit. Including year ended adjustments the indicated loss for the fourth quarter was $836,000, against $768,000 in the preceding quarter.

AVOID RECEIVER BY CO-OPERATION OF BONDHOLDERS

No Foreclosure in This Reorganization.

BY AL CHASE.

Both foreclosure and receivership and their attendant heavy expenses and loss of time have been avoided in the reorganization of the bond issue secured by the Ahlstrand-Carlson apartments, at the southwest corner of Rosemont and Talman avenues, as a result of bondholders agreeing to interest reduction and also waiving definite prepayment dates, according to Peter I. Bukowski, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee. This was a Lake View State bank underwriting.

PETER I. BUKOWSKI. [U. & U. Photo.]

The original bond issue was for $70,000 which has been paid down to $67,375. The interest rate is 6 per cent and the indenture calls for prepayments of $2,000 annually, beginning Jan. 1, 1931, and continuing until the final maturity of the entire issue on Jan. 1, 1936. The property consists of sixteen suites, three 5's and twelve 4's, and one basement flat.

Rentals Suffer.

"Like other property, its income has suffered considerably from reduced rentals," said Mr. Bukowski. "Under present conditions the total gross income should amount to approximately $8,156 annually. Total expenses, including taxes, are conservatively estimated at $5,100, leaving about $3,056 net income before payment of interest.

Edward J. Lindsten, of the Lindsten Investment company, is operating the property for the owners of the equity.

"At a meeting held in the office of the Lindsten Investment company on Jan. 10 the bondholders agreed to reduce the interest rate to 3 per cent beginning with the interest which came due on Jan. 1 of this year and continuing until the final maturity.

Waive Definite Prepayments.

"They also agreed to waive the terms of the trust deed pertaining to the retirement of prepayment bonds on definite dates. All surplus income, however, after the payment of operating expenses, taxes, and interest, is to be put into a sinking fund, from which bonds are to be retired in their numerical order, if and when sufficient funds have been accumulated."

The other members of the committee, of which Mr. Bukowski is chairman, are: William H. Beckman, receiver of the Lake View State bank; Jacob Best, Fred W. Nelson, Charles L. McPartlin, and Arthur Tarman.

President of National Lead Urges Payment on Preferreds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—Edward J. Cornish, president of the National Lead company, slapped hard today at the directors of other corporations who with cash on hand available for the payment of preferred dividends fail to declare those dividends and jeopardize the value of the stock.

In discussing the payment of dividends on the common and preferred stocks of the National Lead company, Mr. Cornish said that a decrease in the dividend rate on the common stock would be regrettable but that it must be made unless there is an improvement in earnings.

"The dividend on the preferred stock," he said, "has been paid every year without interruption since the organization of the company. Nothing but dire necessity would cause the dividend upon the preferred stock to be passed and thus destroy its good will value that has been built up during the last forty years."

Called an Outrage.

Elaborating upon this and applying it as a general rule, Mr. Cornish said: "When a company has the necessary cash it would be an outrage to delay the payment of the dividend when by such action the value of the stock would be decreased by half."

Mr. Cornish said that it has been his policy in times of good earnings to pay the regular dividend on the common stock and that his argument against raising the rate during those times was to save the excess to meet lean times.

If the Lead common dividend is not earned and is passed or cut it will be the first time in the history of the company, but Mr. Cornish said emphatically that if it is not earned it will not be paid.

Earns $3.15 a Share.

The annual report of the National Lead company for 1932 showed that net earnings after all expenses, reserves, and other charges were $3,301,612, which, after preferred dividends, was the equivalent of $3.15 a share on the common stock. This compared with $4,002,421, or $5.48 a share on the common in 1931.

The company dipped into surplus to the amount of $572,937 to pay the full $5 rate on the common stock through last year, and due to the taking over of the Titanium Pigment company comparable figures in the balance sheet, Mr. Cornish said, are apt to be slightly misleading as the Titanium company's assets and liabilities are now included in the National Lead balance sheet.

This showed on Dec. 31, 1932, cash of $4,258,334, against $6,999,698 on Dec. 31, 1931, while there was an increase in plant investment of $2,430,996 to $39,565,031 and a decrease in other investments of $2,219,521, to $35,959,336.

CONTINENTAL CO., CASUALTY FIRM, OWES NO LOANS

The year-end balance sheet of the Continental Casualty company issued yesterday shows that the concern has $800,408 in cash on hand and $1,656,329 in United States government securities. In connection with the report it was announced that the company has not been obliged to borrow from any source.

Net permiums written last year were $12,839,073. Total assets are carried at $20,931,457. A contingency reserve of $1,500,000 is carried against security price fluctuations. A note appended to the balance sheet says that this reserve is more than adequate to write down to market value as of Dec. 31 all bonds ineligible for amortization and all stocks.

NATIONAL LIFE CO. BOOSTS RESERVE MILLION IN YEAR

An addition to contingency reserve of $1,000,000 was made last year by the National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, according to the annual report issued yesterday.

This addition brought total contingency reserve as of Dec. 31 to $1,700,000. The company reported that total capital, contingent funds, and surplus was $3,510,521 in excess of obligations. Cash on hand amounts to $760,536. Bond investment is carried at $3,646,014. First mortgage loans total $17,551,006, of which $15,220,268 is secured by city real estate and $2,330,737 by farm property. Policyholders' reserves total $48,333,051.

HOGS IN BRISK RALLY; RECOVER PORTION OF LOSS

Pressure Is Easing in the Cattle Market.

Hogs rallied briskly in yesterday's short session, closing at the high point of the day, with fully 10c of the recent loss recovered. Numerous loads topped the market at $3.45, the spread between light and heavy being about as narrow as any time in many weeks. The general average for the day at $3.30 showed 10c gain and stood within 10c of the highest point since November. Large local packers led the buying right from the start in face of discouraging reports from the wholesale trade for pork products, which failed to respond as readily to the lighter hog receipts.

Total supplies fell short over the whole country. Eleven markets showed a decrease of 20 per cent compared with the previous Tuesday, and advance estimates of the movement at the five leading points indicated a 15 per cent decrease for today.

Cattle Market Drags.

The cattle market continued to drag yesterday, but that pressure was easing was obvious at a fairly early hour in the forenoon. The decline in medium and heavy steers was halted. Good grades of long fed heavy cattle carrying plenty of beef that have been selling under $4.50 were just a little earlier in getting attention from buyers. The trend of demand this week has been toward the 1,300@1,500 lb averages and heavier weights, because of the relatively low prices at which they have been selling.

The extreme range for steers of beef merit yesterday was the narrowest of the season at $3.25@6.50. Bulk of steers sold at $4.00@5.75. Light cattle that have been getting most buying orders failed to excite the usual competition. Choice 1,072 lb steers at $6.50 to Cudahy Brothers topped the market.

Lambs Rise Slowly.

Buyers gave ground begrudgingly yesterday when lamb prices moved up 10@15c in a slow market, which closed at the high point of the session. City butchers paid up to $6.15 for choice fed westerns. The bulk sold to packers at $5.90 and below. Lighter receipts and broader eastern buying gave sellers more advantage, but the unsatisfactory way wholesale meat markets have been performing of late made local houses cautious and discriminating buyers.

MEN—WEDNESDAY.

IF YOU MEET THESE REQUIREMENTS, CALL AT 2 P. M.—NO OTHER TIME!

If you are interested in making more money, increasing that income, getting into permanent independence not affected by seasons, providing properly for your family—if you are a real worker of good character, between 26 and 45 preferably—then this opportunity concerns you. We will give time for an interview to such men.

Our company is rapidly approaching the complete dominance of market it has already secured in other countries, with 7 European and American factories continuously busy supplying the Electrolux unit [not refrigeration].

Men in this business from all walks of life are big earners. When they learned this profitable business thoroughly, their incomes ranged around $2,000, $4,000, $6,000, $7,500, and more, per year, yet they had no previous experience in this kind of work. For instance, C. Glade, who made nearly $100 for his last week reported, was formerly a salesman, while E. Anderson, for 30 years a piano manufacturer, made $75 last Friday and Saturday; another man, who made $114 for the week, came to us from a machine shop, and has purchased an 8-cylinder car out of his earnings here; another man, W. McLeod, who made over $90 that same week, was formerly a carpenter. However, beginners may have to be content for a while with $120 to $200. You are placed on the same basis of compensation as the others, AND MAKE NO INVESTMENT OR DEPOSIT! Last year was our 3d consecutive record sales year.

If you measure up to these requirements—are a good learner and hard worker, reliable, neat, business-minded—call at room 215 McGraham Bldg., 1046 Wilson-av., at 2 sharp Wednesday afternoon, Feb 1—NO OTHER TIME!

We have employment for men and women who know how to meet the public and have confidence in their own ability. This is an opp. for perm. connection and unlimited profit. Mr. Miller, 801, 123 W. Madison-st.

Notice to INVENTORS.

Parties who have developed new products, ideas, formulas, plans, etc., regardless of use, are invited to write us. Our business is to bring together the inventor and concerns who want new things to make and sell. There never was a time when industry was so anxious to locate money making items. If you have something that should be making you money, we will endeavor to connect you with those things which you lack, such as capital, manufacturing or selling organizations. Simply write us asking for full information. We will give your request prompt attention. Address A 334, Tribune.

SOLUTION TO THE BODY UNDER THE WOODPILE

Had "Stig's" account been true he could not possibly have known where the body WAS. By his own admission he last saw it propped up against the house.

AUTOMOBILE LOANS.

DEAR BOB AND EDNA: Dad was telling me you wanted to borrow a couple of hundred dollars from him and he didn't have it. I found myself in exactly the same condition and was fortunate enough to get a loan on my car without bothering my friends or asking them to sign any notes with me. I learned of a place where I could go, where they not only paid off the balance due on my car but gave me additional money. The considerate, confidential and prompt service given surprised me. They are strictly on the level, legal rates and under state supervision. I would suggest seeing or writing Mr. Barnitt at Inland Investment Plan, 66 E. South Water-st., Room 1100, or phone him at Randolph 7990, and he will be glad to come out and see you at your convenience. This should solve your problem as it did mine. HARRY. P. S.—Take this letter with you. It will introduce you and assure you special attention.
